Driver is Freed
in Smith DeathJury Finds Russell Klindworth
Not Guilty in Tragic
Death of Adam S. Smith

An inquest was held at the city hall Tuesday evening with County Coroner Louis Kerlikowske in charge, to inquire into the accidental death of Adam S. Smith, who was killed about 9 a. m. Thursday when the wagon in which he was crossing the Niles-Buchanan road opposite the D. L. Vanderslice farm was struck by a Tri-State truck driven by Russell Klindworth of Niles.

Prosecution was conducted by Atty. Frank R. Sanders and Atty. Stewart White of Niles.

The inquiry turned on the questions of the rate of speed at which the truck was traveling, the condition of the brakes and the carelessness of the driver, in addition to other general conditions surrounding the accident. At a late hour yesterday morning the jury returned the following verdict:

"As jurors we believe this was an accident responsibility of which could not be laid to the driver Russell Klindworth or the deceased Adam Smith, however we do condemn the employer of the said driver for not instructing nor maintaining a program of education of the traffic laws of the State."

Smith had gone to the Vanderslice farm early to get a team and wagon to haul fire wood. As he drove out of the driveway at the farm onto the Niles-Buchanan road, the lumber wagon in which he was riding was struck broadside by the truck driven by Klindworth, which was bound for Buchanan loaded with four tons of steel castings for a local factory. The wagon was ground to pieces and Smith was thrown first against the front of the truck and just above the windshield, from where his body rebounded to the top of the cab, the top of the trailer and from there to the side of the road. He died at 3 p. m. that day. The team had gotten far enough across the road to escape.

There were no immediate witnesses to the circumstances immediately preceding the accident, although Philip Merrifield, who was bound toward Niles about 400 feet east of the scene, saw the impact. It is not known whether the team got out of control, or whether Smith did not see the truck.

Smith was born at Sneedsville, Penn., Nov. 4, 1886, the son of Conley and Marie Smith. He married Annie Noe April, 1904. He is survived by his widow, by the following children: Mrs. Victoria Grantham of Kansas City; Mrs. Ruby James of Buchanan; Emmett Smith, Indianapolis, Ind.; William Smith of Buchanan; Olin Smith, at the home at 214 East Dewey. The following brothers and sisters survive: James Smith of River Falls, Neb.; William Smith of Kankakee, Ill.; Minnie Smith, Detroit; Sarah Smith, Los Angeles; Lillian Smith, Trenton, Mich.; Mansie Smith and Mrs. Martha Noe of Kankakee, Ill.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Swem Funeral home with Rev. Thomas Rice in charge and burial was made at Oak Ridge cemetery.

Seniors Vote for Two March Films"Thoroughbreds Don't Cry" and "Hurricane" Are Their Choices

Two outstanding moving pictures from the offerings of the month of March at the Hollywood theatre were selected for recommendation by the senior English class of the Buchanan high school Monday, the following being chosen by tie vote from a noteworthy list presented to them for consideration: "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry" and "Hurricane."

The first named is outstanding for the acting of three of the best of the current juveniles, Mickey Rooney, Judith Garland and Ronald Sinclair, boy wonder from New Zealand. In spite of the high rating of the acting of the above juveniles and the wholesome message which the film of turfdom carries, half of the members of the class voted for "Hurricane," on the basis of the fine technical effects which have made it one of the popular plays of the past year. The instructor, Mrs. Velma Dunbar who has been cooperating with the Buchanan Public Library in the experiment, states that although the seniors have as yet no standards of judgment other than those which they set up themselves, they displayed sound judgment and unusual taste in their choices.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER XXVIII
By HAWES

The third day in Stockholm I spent exploring the tangled streets of the old city on the island, and taking a "Social Tour" sponsored by the American Express company.

One of the things that I had been curious about in Stockholm was any memento of the great Swedish financier, Ivan Kreuger, whose dramatic fiasco had world wide effects, even effecting banking institutions in my own home town. I knew that the palatial office building headquarters of the Swedish Match company and its famous statutory group by Carl Milman were among the sights of the city. So I got the address of the office building, which was not far out of my way going to the island.

In the Swedish back country there were stories afloat that Kreuger had not really killed himself; that a body had been planted in his stead. It was further told that a representative of the American firm, J. P. Morgan & Co., from whom he had tried as a last resort to borrow money to avert failure, had told him that his Italian bond forgeries were known, and that the best thing for him to do would be to make away with himself. It is more reliably reported ed in Sweden that it is quite possible that the Italian bonds were not forgeries; that Kreuger was high enough in the counsels of international finance to print bonds in his own printing houses at the order of the governments.

Anyway I wanted to see his headquarters and I struck off several blocks to one side in the second oldest part of the city to find it. A block from his headquarters a familiar sign on the front of a building struck my eye. It said "I O. O. F." It was the national headquarters of the Odd Fellows in Stockholm. You find those Odd Fellows everywhere. Later I was to run across the German headquarters in Berlin. Whether there was any connection in having their Swedish office headquarters so near Kreuger's office I do not know. There's no use starting any new scandals about Kreuger now.

At the great doorway of the office building I found an elderly uniformed attendant. He knew a little English. Yes, I could go in. Was there anything in particular I wanted? I told him I wanted to see Ivan Kreuger's office and also I would like to know what the Swede's thought of him. The old gent's lips tightened at the mention of Kreuger's name. He really did not know anything about it, but I could go on in and perhaps some one inside could show me (Continued on Page Six)

Glenn E. Smith
Dies SuddenlyFor 42 Years a Leading Figure in Buchanan Business and Civic Life

Glenn Smith, 61, for 42 years a leading figure in Buchanan business life, died suddenly at his home at 106 West Third street, at 1 a. m. yesterday, death coming unexpectedly when it was believed he was recovering satisfactorily from severe illness.

Mr. Smith had been a leader in civic and social life as well as in business, having served as village clerk and councilman and having been active in the Presbyterian church and in a number of civic and service organizations, including the Lions club. For many years he was a valued participant in community dramatics and glee clubs and choruses.

He was born in Buchanan June 19, 1876, son of Myron H. Smith and Belle Powers Smith. He started out "on his own" in the clothing, shoe and grocery business at the age of 19, remaining in mercantile pursuits all of his life with the exception of four years from 1910 to 1914 when he manufactured the Simplex step-ladder here and at Cassopolis. In 1914 he purchased the clothing and shoe business of George Smith, in the present location of the Glenn E. Smith store and had remained in business there since. A few years ago he associated with himself his youngest son, Frederic D. Smith. For a time he served as the first shipping clerk in the employ of the Clark Equipment company.

He was married August 17, 1896, to Miss Birtie Peck, who survives him. Other survivors are three sons: Dr. Rexford Smith of Villa Park, Ill.; Max Smith, principal of the Reading high school; Frederic D. Smith, associated in business with him here.

The funeral has been tentatively set for 2:30 p. m. Friday from the home at 106 West Third street with Rev. Brunelle in charge.

Niles Takes
Class B TitleBerrien Springs Wins Class
C; Galien Winner in Class D

By JOHN SCHULTZ
The championship game for Class B at Niles Saturday night between Niles and Buchanan proved to be a victory for Niles by the score of 32 to 24. Niles live up to the pre-tournament predictions by winning from St. Joe on Tuesday by the count of 27 to 24, and thumping the Bucks in the finals.

For the first half the teams battled on even terms with the half ending in a 13 to 13 deadlock. The Bucks started fast and grabbed an early 3 to 0 count but trailed at the quarter 7 to 5. The Maroons made up the deficit in the second canto with Leiter and Simpson cutting loose with long range and rapid shooting.

Niles found belated power in the last half, while the Bucks seemed to let up and consequently trailed the rest of the game by at least five points. The Bucks were held to two field goals in the third quarter. Niles held a commanding lead in the final quarter and thus had little trouble in downing the Bucks.

Lynd and Kraft were the shining lights for the Redlegs. Lynd hit three times from the field and counted on six attempts from the free throw line. Kraft also scored 12 points by hitting six field goals. Leiter led the Maroons with six field goals for 12 points.

Niles advances to the Regional at Dowagiac to be played this week-end.

In Class D Galien emerged the victor over Vandalla by the score of 25 to 24. Berrien Springs was too much for Devon Smith's Acorns from Three Oaks and won the Class C championship 29 to 21.

He had retired from active ministry nine years ago, after serving locally over 16 years. He had been in failing health for several years, but became acutely ill last Friday. Hamilton funeral chapel. Rev. Thomas Rice, Methodist pastor, officiated. Burial was made in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Mr. Clouse was born in Jasper county, Indiana, and resided on a farm there until 1918 when he and his wife came to Buchanan. Mrs. Clouse died March 13, 1930. Since that time Mr. Clouse had lived alone.

He is survived by one brother, Levi Clouse, of Rensselaer, Ind.

Dies 2 Weeks Before
60th Anniv. Wedding

Mrs. W. F. Runner went to Vicksburg, Mich., yesterday morning to attend the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. L. C. Rapp, which was held there at 3 p. m. Mrs. Rapp was 81. Had she lived until March 20, plans had been made to celebrate the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Rapp. Wide attention was attracted ten years ago to the double observance of the golden wedding anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Runner and Mr. and Mrs. Rapp, fifty years after the two couples had been wedded together.

Hosea Coultas, who was injured Thursday at the Clark plant when a small steel fragment from a die struck him, penetrating the abdominal wall and the stomach, is reported to be apparently recovering very satisfactorily at the Pawating hospital.

Governor Frank Murphy agreed to intercede his good graces in behalf of Kohler Holdslaw, alias Frank Bentley, to Governor Clyde R. Hoey of South Carolina in support of the plea of all possible clemency for the man who had spent twelve years in Buchanan, achieving a place of good esteem in the community.

The governor met with Holdslaw's attorneys, Atty. B. R. Desenberg and Philip Landsman, at 1 p. m. yesterday, through arrangement with Sec. of State Leon Case, who added his influence. The attorneys had exhibits of thirty letters signed by local citizens and petitions signed by 460.

Although it was expected that Holdslaw would be removed to North Carolina without opposition as soon as possible, perhaps last night, the letters and petitions, supplemented by the plea of Murphy, will be forwarded and presented there.

Miss Ann Holdslaw, youngest sister of the accused, left this morning for her home at Statesville, accompanied by a friend, Russell Tharpe. The 33-year-old worker in a hosiery mill had heard of the discovery of her brother here by a radio flash at 2:15 p. m. Sunday and had left two hours afterward, arriving in Buchanan at 5:45 p. m. the following day, after driving 350 miles over bad roads day and night.

Kohler Holdslaw, or Frank Bentley, as he was known here, came to Buchanan in 1926, several months after his escape from the North Carolina prison farm.

According to a statement which he made to his attorneys the facts in brief concerning the crime for which he was imprisoned and his escape were as follows:

Not long after his honorable discharge as a world war veteran he became engaged to a girl in the little town of Terrill, N. C. A married man also became enamored of the girl and warned him to stay away from her on pain of violence. One day he had traded at a grocery store in the mountain town and was mounting his horse at the hitch rack in front when his rival came around the corner of the store, with a crate of eggs. He quickly set the crate down and reached for his gun, according to Holdslaw, who states that he also drew and shot first, killing his rival.

He received a thirty-year sentence to the state penitentiary. He had served six years and was working as a trustee on the prison farm. One day he unhitched his mule team from a corn plow and put them in the stable and went to the station where the guard was usually found. It was vacant, with no guard in sight. The impulse to see the opportunity to escape overpowered him and he started running. He walked across country until late at night, at times regretting his rash act but afraid to return. But he made good his escape and got to Raleigh, the state capital, where he worked for six months without being caught. Then he left and came to South Bend, coming soon after that to Buchanan where he was employed with the Clark Equipment company. He was released from employment during the depression and later, in 1931, secured work on the line gang of the local Indiana & Michigan Electric company. He was later transferred to the service department. Altogether he worked for that company seven years with a good record.

When he first came to Buchanan he lived for three years with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lingo, where he was regarded as almost one of the family. While there he conducted himself quietly and soberly, never giving any cause for suspicion. Later he lived in the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Terry, and was there highly regarded for his honesty, sobriety and good behavior. Six years ago he married a woman from Michigan City, Ind., and they had made their home for several years at the Hansen home at 408½ West Front street.

Legion Works for Shepherd-Hill Act

Citizens of the Buchanan community who believe in protecting and preserving American Democracy were urged today by J. W. Elbers, Commander of Ralph Rumbough, Post No. 51, The American Legion, to sign petitions being circulated by American Legion members in this city in support of the Shepherd-Hill measures in Congress for the enactment of Universal Service Legislation.

Commander J. W. Elbers, in an interview with this newspaper, stated that since 1922 The American Legion has been definitely committed to a policy of securing the adoption by Congress of an adequate Universal Service Law.

"Increasingly throughout the years," the commander declared, "more and more support has been forthcoming from the American Public for a Universal Act. And it appears as the finally in 1938 the American Legion will see its desire fulfilled by this law being approved. The principal reason why success has not greeted Universal Service Legislation thus far is that the public has not been informed generally of the meaning of such a statute, nor has it been aroused to the primary necessity for universal service as the best practical means along with an adequate national defense in keeping this nation out of war."

For the information of local people who may desire to lend their support to the American Legion's program by signing these petitions, Commander J. W. Elbers summarized Universal Service as follows:—

1. It would help preserve the peace by removing the profit motive for war. Universal Service means that practically all excess war profits would be confiscated by the government, as well as all prices being frozen by government control at the outbreak of war in order to prevent inflation.

2. In the event that war should again come to America, it Universal Service was in effect, there would not be more than 20,000 new millionaires created in this country as there were in 1917-18.

3. Equal Service for all. Under the Universal Service Plan, those who serve in the armed forces and those who labor at home in providing the essential materials of war would be on the same basis. Equal rights for all and special privilege for none is the best summation of Universal Service.

4. It is estimated that at least one-third of the most of America's participation in the World War could have been saved had we a policy of Universal Service prior to our entry into that conflict.

OUR SCHOOL

What do the students of other schools think about our school? What should they think?
We should make our school so fine that when people come here to visit or to a basketball game, they will say, "My, what a fine school this is." When we talk about our school, do we mean just the building and the things in it, or do we mean the students who attend school, and the way they act and talk; their school spirit?
So, pals, let's put our school "on top" so that we can be proud of it.

FRENCH CLASS

If you heard and wondered Monday morning—rest at ease. You probably heard the first hour French class sing "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" in French and you probably wondered where they had ditched the necessary "Harmony."

Filling station attendant: "Check your oil, sir?"

Ivan Price: "No thanks, I'm taking it with me."

John Fuls: Why don't you close your eyes when I kiss you like this?"

Arlis Fairman: "That's simple. It would be impolite to fall asleep."

Bessie Crothers: "I'm in love with a banker and every time he kisses me, he makes me a present of a bond."

Daisy Reamer: "In other words, dearie, you're getting your education by lips and bonds."

Don Jerue: "Every one has his girl, but the ice man has his pick."

Grade News

Miss Ream's sixth grade is beginning a scrap book of Switzerland, a page of which each child is responsible. Pictures of industry, literature, and scenery are being collected.

Miss Elstrom's fifth grade is working on maps of the United States. This work includes physical, economic, political, agricultural, climatic, pictorial, and distribution maps. Some types of maps are colored with crayons, and other types are worked out with checks, lines and dots in colored inks. One map will show all the national parks when it is finished. The unit of work in geography deals with the playgrounds of the western United States.

Recently the children are enjoying a series of spelling matches. The room is divided into two teams. The best spellers stay at the head of the line while the poorer ones move down to the foot.

English work has been including a comparison of book characters to determine what traits create the outstanding and long lived person in story telling. In technical work the grade has studied the relation of descriptive words to composition. At present the children are giving paragraphs that are descriptive.

Jack Miller has been absent from school several weeks with pneumonia. He is on the way to recovery and will be back in school soon.

The kindergarten has been making A B C books. They have learned to tell the dates and days of the calendar. They were very much interested in their newspaper and enjoyed making stories for it.

The first graders are keeping a wind chart this month. They determine the direction of the wind by holding the corners of a handkerchief above their heads. After this is determined the direction from which the wind came is registered by an arrow on a chart.

The third grade has two new members. They are John Williams Osborne from Morris, Illinois, and Lawrence Banks from the Mead school.

The third grade enjoyed the assembly given by the grades at the high school.

Who's Who

Jeanabelle Synold was born at Three Oaks, Michigan, on January 19, 1922. She arrived on a cold and stormy Thursday morning at the early hour of 9:30 a. m.

For the first nine and a half years she attended Three Oaks High School. Then she moved to South Bend and went to Lydick township school. Last year she started the year at B. H. S. but finished at New Carlisle, Ind. But she says she was glad to return to B. H. S. for her junior year and hopes to come here to graduate.

This noisy junior is 5 ft. 2 inches short, weighs 106 lbs. and has blue eyes and brown hair. Some think her a good sport, but others will plainly tell you she is just plain "nuts." But she would probably be missed if she were absent for long.

For a long time, too long, in fact, wherever you saw J. S. you were bound to see a certain senior boy tagging, or else she tagging him, but now they have found interest elsewhere.

She likes to dance and her favorite song is "— doesn't love me any more." We wonder!

She has a good sense of humor, but don't let her lose her "Dutch and Irish" temper on you.

She hasn't any particular nickname but she says that's all right, just so you don't call her too late to eat.

This sophomore boy was born August 20, 1923. He has green eyes and is a brunette. His favorite sports are hockey and basketball, and he seems to like boxing, too—maybe he wants it for self-defense. He apparently likes freshmen girls better than any other and maybe you have seen him on Main or Portage streets. His favorite dish is chop suey and he likes the color of blue. This sophomore boy is seen all over the school and in every thing that comes along. Yes, it's Bill Beardsley.

THIS 'N' THAT

The more brain you use, the more brain you'll have to use.

The summer people had all departed leaving the natives with no one to hate but themselves.

The fellow who used to walk a mile for a camel now gets a lift from the same brand.

Parents spend half their time worrying how a child will turn out, and the rest of the time wondering when a child will turn in. He's no failure, he's not dead yet.

Taken from the Readers Digest.

If Seniors Could Take Their Four Year Course Over Again

George Ernst, "I would take a slight change from commercial and take some languages."

Ruth Wilsey, "I would take a two year course in French besides commercial."

Don Beck, "I wouldn't take citizenship and would take biology and physics."

Henry Knapp, "I would take more mathematics, especially solid geometry."

John Schultz, "I'd take an agriculture course and some debating along with it."

DRAMATIC CLASS

For the last week or so we have been working on pantomimes. Dale Lyons is back with us and Tuesday morning when we were eagerly awaiting an interpretation of one of those Cuban "hoola" dances, we got the surprise of our lives when instead of a dance, Dale gave us a glimpse of himself getting ready for a "hot" date and then having to wait for that "!" girl.

NICKNAMES

Natalie Proud's nickname is "Dob"; she receives this name by going with a certain Berrien Springs boy.

Sam—Samuel Irwin McCormick, of course that's too long a handle for any football player, good or bad, to have, so why not shorten it—though he is rather long.

Betty Ann Miller's nickname is "Smoky"; of course we couldn't imagine her holding a Chesterfield, but it is a shorter roll call than her recorded identification.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

By Ramona Dalenborg
Most pupils take music because of the pleasure they receive and also so they can go on and advance their knowledge in music.

For those who do not further their music education, it teaches them appreciation and understanding which will carry on into adult life. To those who will carry an advanced study they study harmony, theory, instruments, and an analysis of literature. For those who sing for pleasure, the department furnishes an opportunity for them to participate in the reading and study of some of the best octavo music.

There are four different music subjects to be taken from the seventh to the twelfth grades. These are the instrumental class, orchestra, band and rudiments.

Rudiments is a study of constructive keys, a science of sound and reading, a character of tones, and courses in ear training.

Mr. Robinson is the instructor of these classes. He has built his orchestra, band, and glee club up to a good reputation. Our school always sends a good representation of the band and glee club to the festivals which take place every year. Also Mr. Robinson has built up a very good dance orchestra that is worth mentioning.

The glee club is divided into three classes: the boys' chorus, the girls' chorus, and the mixed chorus.

INTERCEDES FOR

Cassopolis and Mrs. Gladys L. Shaner, Niles widow, and offered to take them to Cassopolis, where they wished to go. At 1 a. m. on the morning of Feb. 24, he collided with a truck about eight miles east of Niles.

The night was somewhat stormy and the roads at that place were sheeted with ice. An 18-ton truck had skidded, the semi-trailer going off the pavement while the motor was stalled crosswise of Holdscraw's lane of travel. The lights pointed off through a grove of trees at the side of the road and there were no flares. He did not see the stalled truck until he was almost on it and then swerved sharply but his fender hooked on the fender of the truck and held, the rear of his car describing an arc until the car came to standstill on the other side of the truck motor, headed in the opposite direction.

Mrs. Shaner, who was seated in the middle, was thrown violently against the windshield, incurring fatal injuries. She died early in the morning on Feb. 28. Holdscraw incurred two or three broken ribs and a severe head contusion that have disabled him to date. Nevertheless he accompanied the woman to the hospital, going afterward to Cassopolis where he was booked for drunk driving on admission that he had previously drunk two bottles of beer. He was finger printed and the links of the old chains confining him for the crime of youthful passion were thereby reformed.

He was released under $200 bond, charged with drunk driving. He came to his home here threatened with pneumonia, and racked with fears of coming revelations. On the evening of Thursday, March 3, just one week after the accident, under advice of his physician he had ordered the Swem Funeral home ambulance to be taken to Pawating hospital, Niles, there to be X-rayed to ascertain the full extent of his injuries. The ambulance was met at the hospital by Cass county officers, who took charge denying permission to unload the patient, and taking him to the Cassopolis hospital instead. There he confessed to the crime and prison escape in North Carolina. He was held at the hospital under guard until Saturday evening, when he was taken to the Cass County jail.

Kelley superintendents.
Morning worship at 11 o'clock. The special music will be an anthem by the choir with Mrs. Beulah Kelley directing. The offertory number will be a piano organ duet: Kamennost-Ostrov, by Rubenstein, played by Mrs. A. L. Hamblin and Mrs. Rosalie Rice. Sermon subject: Lent and Sacrifice.

Mrs. Minsey Hammond will speak and show pictures of her work as a missionary in Africa at the 7 o'clock service. As the former Miss Minsey she spoke in the church some while ago. Those who heard her then will not need to be urged to attend this Sunday evening. She has had an unusual experience and is a most interesting speaker.

Service at Oronoko at 9 a. m., with Sunday school following.
A Lenten thought: "The mistletoe is a parasite. It takes everything and gives nothing. As it spreads, more and more of the life of the tree is taken until at last the tree dies. This is another of God's ways of trying to tell us what Jesus said, 'Whosoever will save his life shall lose it.'"

TIGHTWADDLING IT THROUGH EUROPE

where his office was.
I went on in to an information desk and repeated my query: where was Kreuger's office? The same reserve came over the man in charge. It was on the second floor. He could not tell me what anybody thought of Kreuger. On up I went and entered an office where the floor was open, repeating my questions. It was somewhere around the corridor on the other side of the court, an attendant said. As I strolled about I met a young Swedish lad, apparently an office employee.

"Where was Ivan Kreuger's office?" I asked.
"I think it was that one, but some one else has it now," he said. It was just one of many office doors lining the corridor and there was something grimly official about the whole structure that did not invite intrusion. I found out that although the Swedes in general are very approachable, and their public officials are easy to get at, there is a formal reserve in the structure of its big business impossible to penetrate without the necessary references or introductions.

It is different with the cooperatives which dominate the domestic trade. They are not exactly business institutions; they have a gospel for which they are flaming evangelists, ready to talk at length at the slightest provocation. But somewhere in the neighborhood of a third of the entire business of the country is the export trade, and this field is reserved entirely to private business. Here the old time Swedish formality rules and a reserve hedges the offices much harder to penetrate than in America. With the exception of the automobile business, where the American informality has penetrated.

There was not much to see, gazing at Kreuger's door except to imagine that the door opened and the tall, handsome Swede, once reputed to be the greatest international financier, and later the greatest international swindler, emerged again. But of course Kreuger had put a bullet through his brain in Paris in the dark days of 1932. So after I had imagined all I could, I went down to the central court and looked at the famous Milman Fountain statuary. That too had a local connection. Ivan Kreuger's bonds had been held by Buchanan. And the man who made that group of statuary had a home in Michigan, at Cranbrook near Detroit. He had designed part of the architecture and had executed some statuary for the famous Cranbrook school, pet project of the Multimillionaire Michigan publisher, Booth. There a fellow townman, George Semple, had attended school. After all this world is not so large.

I departed, the elderly doorkeeper keeping his lips closed and looking at me a little stiffly. Perhaps these older employees were loyal to Kreuger. They easily recognize an American, by that nasal twang in speech as compared with the broad accent of the Englishman. I walked on down the street, resisting an impulse to go in the I. O. O. F. building and inquire for some word from Harry Post or Roy Pierce or Lee Coon-fare.

A few blocks on I emerged on the open square that is the official center of Stockholm, designated on the city maps as the square of Gustavus Adolphus, Sweden's great military hero. In the center of the square was his statue. About it on three sides were the official government buildings. Fronting it was the great winter palace of the royal family, across a narrow arm of Lake Malar. The structure forms a great rectangle with an interior court, and with an immense hill of stone steps in front facing the square and Lake Malar. There is a handsome stone bridge uniting Gustavus Adolphus square with the palace. It is said that the salt water of the north Sea reaches to this bridge, meeting the fresh water of Lake Malar under it.

Famous Hungarian Bacteriologist Bela Shick, a Hungarian bacteriologist, discovered the special reaction to diphtheria toxin of children susceptible to the disease.
