Now Here's the Proposition

Uncle Hank of Hills Corners Sez:

Who's Smart? The red bird trills his roundelay Nor springs o'er his source of feed For spring will bring the flowering spray And fall the bursting seed. Nor living quarters worries give He has for home the sky's blue tent— Why should he fret o'er where to live Or how to pay the rent? Nor does nor leaseholds bar him from The branches of the maple trees; To nature's store, in ample sum, He's welcome as the breeze. So glad he lives from day to day And only humans stand apart And fret their little lives away— Who said that they were smart? —W. C. H.

Larson Steel Is Reorganized

Holland Men Take Leadership Drop Steel Forging Business

Pursuant to the sale of the interests of D. S. Larson in the Larson Steel Products Corporation, a new organization was effected in the past week, J. Frank Duffy of Holland taking over as president and general manager, William Arendshorst of Holland as manager and treasurer, and D. A. Donahue of Holland taking the position of director in charge of sales.

The purchase of the Larson assets by the new group was made after a careful survey of the drop forging business had been made, nationally and in the middle west, with a view to assurance that there is a field for an expanding business here. Reassured by the survey, the new management took over and have already increased output 100% without public announcement of the change. All of the above management personnel have wide experience in industrial organization and management.

Mr. Duffy, new president, is now president and general manager of the Duffy Manufacturing company, president of the Duffy Latex company, president and chairman of the board of the Garrad foundry and a director of the Holland State Bank.

Mr. Arendshorst was, with his father and brother, a co-founder of the Holland Rusk company, a leading enterprise of Holland. In 1928 they sold that business to the National Biscuit Company, but William Arendshorst remained several years as manager, retiring in 1935.

D. A. Donahue, a member of the executive committee of the Duffy enterprises, in charge of sales here, was formerly purchasing agent with the Studebaker corporation. The new organization heads state that they do not plan to ask for any local stock subscriptions, and that they confidently expect to build up the business to make the investment of the present stockholders valuable.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

By HAWES CHAPTER XXIX I went across the bridge, through the front entrance of the palace and through the interior court. Conducted parties of tourists were passing in and out of the wings, and a crowd of people was massed in front waiting for the daily appearance of the king, who drove into the city and went to his apartment in the palace, probably on official business, once daily. He has only a suite of rooms and the remainder is an immense museum. In fact the king is not much but an exhibit. In less pretentious buildings flanking the place palace sit plain looking men, representatives of the Social Labor and the Farmers Union party

Clark Tells of Factory Finance

No Dividends on Common; Preferred Dividends from Past Surplus

Clark Equipment Company stockholders received a statement Monday, March 14, stating that the company is not at present paying dividends on common stock and is drawing the preferred stock dividends from surpluses earned before the present excess profit tax went into effect.

The statement contains the following letter from the president, E. B. Clark: To The Stockholders of Clark Equipment Company: The earnings of your Company for the year 1937 amounted to $1,166,515 which after the payment of dividends on Preferred stock, $4.56 per share of Common stock, Dividends were paid at the amount of $4.80 per share of Common stock—that is to say, the entire earnings of the Company were paid to its Stockholders—which is in accordance with the trend of Government as of today. Companies are not required to pay to Stockholders all of their earnings but heavy penalties are imposed upon those companies which do not do so. The Officers and Directors of your Company believe that not only should they act in accordance with the evident desire of Government but that they should have first consideration for the Stockholders of the Company and therefore should pay earnings to Stockholders rather than taxes to the government. The consequences of following this course are not altogether pleasant.

If I may be permitted an analogy, I will say that the Corporation's case is somewhat similar to the case of the farmer who has a herd of cattle. It has been his custom to feed his cattle on grass in the summer time but not to use all the grass for that purpose. With the surplus grass, he has made hay and he has used the hay to feed his cattle in the winter. Under the present trend of Government, he must feed all of his grass to his herd in the summer and he must not convert any of it into hay with which to feed his stock on while grass is growing. The consequences are not pleasant. The situation of the manufacturer is quite analogous to that of the farmer. It has been the manufacturer's custom to pay to his Stockholders a considerable portion of his earnings during periods of prosperity but to retain in his treasury an undistributed portion with which he could make dividend payments during periods of depression. It is not so essential that he follow this course as it is for the farmer to follow a similar course, but it is essential for the manufacturer to follow a course which will conserve the assets of the company he manages for the benefit of its owners. This means that if he pays dividends to the full extent of his earnings in profitable years, he must refrain from the payment of dividends in unprofitable years. Last year we paid to our Stockholders as dividends more than our entire earnings for the year. So far this year, we find ourselves unable to earn a sufficient amount to justify dividends on Common stock. In view of this fact, your Directors have felt it their duty, in order to conserve cash assets, to refrain from the payment of any dividends on Common stock. For the present at least, we are paying dividends on Preferred stock, and, if necessary, shall take the modest sums required to pay such dividends from surplus earned before the present tax laws were enacted. Of course, no money is being appropriated now for the modernization of the properties of your Company nor for the extension of its business. Fortunately, our policy during past years has been such that we are now equipped with entirely modern manufacturing equipment and, therefore, shall not suffer in the near future from the lack of further capital appropriations. Respectfully submitted, EUGENE B. CLARK, President. Buchanan, Mich., March 14, 1938.

Legion Sponsors Service Measure

The Ralph Kumbaugh Post No. 51, American Legion, is sponsoring a Buchanan representation of two boys for the Wolverine Boys' State, a unique organization which will meet on the campus of Michigan State College from June 16 to June 25 this year, for the purpose of putting into effect a practical school or citizenship, designed to "inculcate a sense of individual obligation to community, state and nation."

The Wolverine Boys' State, Inc., is sponsored by the American Legion, Department of Michigan. Eight hundred boys are to be selected representing every county of Michigan, to meet at Michigan State college, where they will comprise the "mythical 49th state." When the boys reach the campus of Michigan State College they will be assigned to cities and live in the cities for the period of the "Boys' State." Fifty boys will comprise a city. Two cities will make up a county and the eight counties will make up the state. The assemblage will function in these political subdivisions for ten days under the basic laws of the state of Michigan, using the existing constitution and existing laws as their guide.

Each boy will be assigned to a mythical political party. These parties will not adopt or assume any of the principles or the names of any of the existing parties of Michigan. The primary election system of nominating the candidates for various offices. A complete election will be held, naming to office all city, county and state elective officers. The state legislature will be formed and the boys will pass their own laws. The courts will be established and will function according to their constitutional rights.

The highway department and the law enforcement departments will be set up and their relations to the city and county governments carried out.

The intention of the set-up will be to educate the boys in the duties, functions and relationships of the offices, rather than to train them to be future public officials. A part of each day during the period will be spent in athletic contests and recreational sports of all kinds. Coach Charles Bachman of Michigan State College and a member of the famed Notre Dame "Four Horsemen," will be director of all athletics, with members of his coaching staff and possibly some of his 1937 Orange Bowl team aiding him. Baseball and softball leagues will be organized, tennis matches arranged and other athletic programs carried out.

WILD LIFE WEEK MARCH 20-26

Mobilization of millions of Americans under the banner of wildlife restoration has begun, and their unity of interests will be demonstrated in the first National Wildlife Restoration Week, which has been set to start March 20th.

Program Has Wide Appeal

Every man, woman and child who loves an animal, a bird, a tree, a flower or a stream will be found in the ranks of this dramatic movement to bring out the peril that is facing the great outdoors.

The wistful old man, who scatters bread crumbs to the birds on a wintry morning in New York's last refuge for wildlife—Central Park—will enlist in this legion of nature lovers.

So will the farmer whose crops have been protected by insect-destroying birds, or who has seen the havoc created by dust bowls and soil erosion.

The fisherman, who has gone to his favorite river or lake and discovered that pollution had killed off his bass or trout, will be on hand to do his part.

So, too, will the hunter from farmland or metropolis who has gone into the woods and discovered the forests had been desolated, the game driven away.

Women Will Give Support

Members of the women's and garden clubs, ardent devotees of wildlife who have banded to save the rich foliage of the countryside, will be found taking an active interest.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Izaak Walton League and hunting and fishing clubs all have pledged their support.

The youth of America will not neglect its share, for upon the school children, the Boy and Girl Scouts, and the 4-H club rests a great measure of the responsibility of preserving wildlife for future generations.

The strength of the American Legion—composed of the heroes of 1917-18—was thrown firmly behind wildlife restoration and this new program at its great National Convention held in New York.

Behind the mobilization of all wildlife forces for National Wildlife Week is Frederick F. Jordan, conservationist and economist who originated the plan for the observance and who is directing the campaign from National headquarters, 400 Madison Avenue, in New York. His appointment as Director of Wildlife Week was announced recently by Jay N. Ding Darling, president of the General Wildlife Federation.

Calls for Volunteers

In an appeal to wildlife lovers, Mr. Jordan said: "We need volunteers, badly. We need women and men who will take up arms for this cause that has so long been neglected. We must fight against stream pollution, forest destruction, dust bowls, erosion and those other natural elements which are killing off our wildlife.

"To accomplish these aims, wildlife lovers must show their strength, their unity during Wildlife Week."

IT'S A BIG HONEY FOR MIGHTY LITTLE MONEY!

ASK YOUR FRIENDS, ask your neighbors, what they think of this '38 Buick, and they'll give it to you quick in six little words: "It's a honey for the money!" That's praise all right—but praise that still doesn't do this great car full justice!

For here's a traveler that would be a buy even if you had to pay a premium to get it!

It's a car with power like no other. Power literally born of the hurricane — power that makes gasoline deliver more—power that's smooth, willing, brilliant. Here's a car, too, with an utterly different kind of ride. A ride that gentles every jar and jolt. A ride that's safer in nasty going, that gives sureness to control, that cuts down upkeep and makes rear tires last longer.

And here's a car that in addition sparkles with features as a Christmas tree sparkles with ornaments. New quiet, from "silent zone" body mounting. New comfort, from deep, broad comfort-angled seats. New pride of possession, from style hailed as the smartest of the year.

Yet big and satisfying as this beautiful Buick is, a little money buys it! No more than you'll pay for some sixes. Less than for any other eight of its size.

So there's no longer any reason for not stepping up to the kind of car you've always wanted.

Go now and get the details from the nearest Buick dealer—see the car that folks just won't do without.

Author Explains Why She Believes In Girl Scouting

The 26th anniversary of the founding of the Girl Scout organization by Juliette Gordon Low, wife of the famous American artist, Will Low, in Savannah, Ga., on March 12, 1902, was remembered in programs of local Girl Scouts Saturday.

The Record is glad to print the following article on the principles and objectives, written by the famous author, Mary Roberts Rhinehart:

Why I Believe in Scouting
By Mary Roberts Rhinehart
(Written some time ago for the Girl Scouts by this famous author.)

Girls are great idealists. No one familiar with the working of the girl mind can fail to recognize how quickly they respond to ideals. They dream dreams, not of success, but of happiness. They look up rather than out.

But they are vague and uncertain, full of wistful yearnings that lead nowhere. Given a cause and a leader, and they will bring to it an almost pathetic eagerness, staunchness, loyalty, enthusiasm and unselfish effort.

There comes a critical time in a girl's mental and spiritual life, when she is waiting impatiently for young womanhood. The things of her childhood have lost their interest. She has abandoned her dolls. The little boys she played with have deserted her, and found the girl-less associations of the teens. They have their clubs, their sports, their meeting places. But to the young girl there is nothing but that period of waiting. She is peculiarly isolated. Her family often finds her strange. She is moody and dreamy. She begins to spend an almost alarming amount of time and thought upon her appearance. The family says: "What in the world is the matter with Jane?" And her father suggests it is too much going to the moving pictures.

But the truth is that Jane is idle. She does not belong, between baby-hood and womanhood, anywhere in the social organization. She is active and romantic. Her days are a long waiting for maturity, and with maturity the fulfillment of her dreams, of love, of marriage, of womanhood. She haunts the movies because she finds there vicarious romance and vicarious adventure. The great outdoors is hers to play in—on the screen.

And at the same time, with no increased outlet for her activities, her imagination is being stimulated as never before. Books, magazines, automobiles, moving pictures, all are revealing to her this strange thing we call life, which is here to observe but not yet to live.

It is time to realize that hundreds of thousands of young girls in this country—doubly important now that they are future citizens as well as the potential mothers of future citizens—must be given occupation, a feeling of responsibility, a practical ideal to which they may bring their innate loyalty and enthusiasm. They need organized play and athletics. They need something concrete to tie to. They need to be taught, if you please, what is the "gang" spirit among boys. They need to learn that their young bodies are to be used, instead of decorated. Until they learn that, we shall have sloppy mothers and puny babies. No single movement for the improvement of American people as a race, no advance of science or sanitation, can compare in importance with the necessity for building up morally, spiritually and bodily, our future mothers.

TIGHTWADDING IT THROUGH EUROPE

(Continued from Page 1) king," he said, with a friendly smile that carried less warning than his grim trappings. He spoke a hesitating English: "You are from America? One of my comrades in the guard here spent three years in America. He came back to Sweden in 1933 when he became what you call, ah, ar-betlos (workless). But when his service is done in the army he would go back. He says America is a great country. He would learn to be a telegraph man.

"Here it was in this court where the Danes killed all the nobles of Stockholm three hundred years ago. They called then in this square, many hundreds and they killed them with the sword."

Suddenly there was a rattle of weapons and of tramping feet on the granite court and a small guard of soldiers wheeled smartly in, while my young friend suddenly froze to attention and I retired in a nearby porch. The troops wheeled in front of the sentry and the officer in front saluted and intoned some set formula, perhaps handed down for generations and doubtless some formal query about the safety of the palace. The boy saluted and intoned a formal answer. Then he shouldered his gun and strode with measured paces from his post to a place in the troop, while another took his place. The troop wheeled and marched off, my young acquaintance flashing a sidelong smile under his visor as he strode by. His successor stared straight ahead with no notice of my existence so I went on out of the court and passed the gray walls of Storkyrkan, the official head church of the realm and into the enchanting tangle of narrow streets that wove over the hill in the island. Many of these streets were so narrow

Man Behind the Jap Guns

The man behind the Jap guns which caused the fall of Shanghai, Nanking and other Chinese cities was Gen. Iwane Matsui, commander-in-chief and master-mind of the Japanese forces. He is pictured in his headquarters at Shanghai.

that they would not even carry automobile traffic one way. It would have been impossible for a Ford to have driven through one, at least without gathering a choice assortment of rainspouts and other bricabrac.

It is not only the king and his palace that the Swedes preserve as museum pieces, but, in a way, the old section on the island is preserved for the same reason. Sighting down through the narrow streets between the old houses whose protruding window balconies seem to lean toward each other, I could see the most modern apartment houses in the world rising in cream and green magnificence on the hills across the bay. But these old streets looked as they must have looked two and three hundred years ago, except for the modern garb of the pedestrians. I sat on a step and gazed down one street across the bay to the unloading dock of the Finnish firewood sailing ships. The sight of their masts and billowing sails seemed like a picture from the long, long past.

I thought it would be romantic to eat in one of the old cafes and picked out one of the most antique looking of the lot. Unfortunately it was full of the antique spirit of wassail.

I wandered for two hours up and down through the old streets, occasionally dropping into one of the antique shops that were frequent and pawing through the curios, always leaving behind me a disappointed dealer, possibly revising downwards his previous ideas of American affluence. Finally I passed a music shop and entered. A pretty, jolly-looking woman came from the rear to wait on me. The resemblance was so striking that I was almost (not quite) tempted to exclaim: "Why, Mrs. C. J. Wilson, when did you come over here?" I bought from her a phonograph record and the sheet music of "Calle Shavens Vals."

I learned afterward that the municipal government of Sweden, although wishing to preserve the antique appearance of the island, as the one remaining bit of ancient Stockholm, nevertheless is determined not to tolerate anything on the interior that would be detrimental to health. Consequently work has been begun to install modernized interiors behind the old fronts. The city has purchased an entire square and completed the modernization and plans to go on with the improvement.

Rather unwillingly I left the old island behind me and walked back past the place and across the great stone bridge to Adolf's Torg, and on to the offices of the American Express company from which place I intended to embark on a "Social Tour" at 14 o'clock.

I found the bus filled mainly with Americans, a few English. Most were teachers or college students. I was disappointed in every tour I took, but it was usually a good way to sort of get the lay of the land. The guide was to conduct us through the co-operative enterprises and the other modern projects for which the city is famous over the world. I neglected to say that one of the party, and one of the most assiduous note takers of the lot, was an "East Indian. The trouble with these tours for the most part is that the guide adapts his lectures to popular consumption, even to the point of stretching the facts occasionally. I found this out after I had checked back over the route in the next two weeks. He showed us, for one thing, "garden cities" which I afterwards found out are now outmoded and being abandoned. But we took a two-hour whirl about the city, seeing among other things the old apartment house in which Greta Garbo was born, and even the window of her native apartment. Later I was to see several times the counter where she sold hats. Greta was in Sweden last summer I believe, out at her summer home. The guide said that a brother was a taxi cab driver in the city.

But everything I saw worth seeing on that tour I revisited and checked more carefully, so there is no use to tell of it now. My remembrance is mainly the scrambling of the teachers and students to get close to the guide, all writing down everything he said most assiduously. The thing that I did see that determined me in what I intended to visit most of during my stay was a glimpse of one of the new suburbs, Angby, where the municipal government was financing the construction of 400 sectional houses for working men, who were building the homes themselves. They worked every night after hours in hundreds, the guide said, constructing their own homes in the course of a summer. That determined me. I went out there night after night and finally added another week to my stay, changing my sailing date to a week later, to see more of this project, known as the most successful of its kind. HOLLYWOOD

NEW COLOR FILM: A story by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osbourne becomes the first sea picture in Technicolor. It's "Ebb Tide," which opens next Friday at the Hollywood Theatre. The cast is headed by Oscar Homolka, Frances Farmer, Ray Milland, Lloyd and Barry Fitzgerald.

SMILEY LIKES TARZAN ROLE: Smiley "Frog" Burnette's namesake had nothing on him when it comes to jumping. In "Round-Up Time in Texas," coming Friday and Saturday attraction, "Frog" has to do a "Tarzan" on a grapevine to escape the too-friendly attentions of an ape. Frog negotiated the 45 foot drop from a tree by swinging a la Tarzan, off a grapevine. All Smiley got was a pair of scratched hands and an intense desire to do a Tarzan character in his next production.

PAT PATERSON AND ZASU PITTS MAKE VOCAL DEBUTS IN WANGER'S "52 STREET": Pat Paterson and Zasu Pitts, featured in Walter Wanger's "52nd Street," coming Wednesday and Thursday, which dramatizes the story of America's Montmartre, also make their vocal debuts in this picture. Miss Paterson, while doing a special dance number, introduces a new ballad, "I Still Love To Kiss You Good-night." "Twenty-three Skidoo" is the comic melody presented, by Miss Pitts.

HONEYMOON ISLE IN HOLLYWOOD FOR "HURRICANE": A honeymoon island is Hollywood's newest glamour contribution. Appropriately enough, it is a South sea island, bordered by a rippling lagoon, shaded by towering palm trees, carpeted by ferns and tropical shrubs. This ideal lover's retreat is the mythical island of Motu Tonga. It was constructed as an action background for Samuel Goldwyn's "The Hurricane," which comes to the Hollywood Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday adjoints, as in the Charles Nordoff-James Norman Hall story, the larger island of Manukura. The rocks are all studio-made, but like the palms which crowd the shore, they are completely authentic in appearance. Goldwyn's art director, Richard Day, had plaster casts made of rocks which separate the coast line of an actual South Sea island, used them as molds for the studio creations. There are 30 tall coconut palms on Motu Tonga, half a dozen smaller palms which resemble somewhat the California fan palm. A blue sky backing surrounds the setting on three sides, making possible lighting effects of exceptional beauty.

The Golden Text, from Psalm 114:7, is: "Tremble, thou earth, at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the God of Jacob." Among the Bible citations is this passage, (Ecc. 3:14): "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it; and God doeth it, that men should fear before him."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 469): "Life is neither in nor matter. What is termed matter is unknown to Spirit, which includes in itself all substance and its life eternal."

Service at Oronoko at 9 a. m. Sunday school following. A Lenten thought: The breeding ground for crime is among those who receive no moral and spiritual training. There are 20 million boys and girls in our country receiving no religious education whatsoever. Evidently our spiritual bread line is longer than our physical, which states our major problem, for did not our Saviour command: "Give ye them to eat." When you attend church or Sunday school you are doing your part to counteract this appalling situation by your example, and that which we do for God and humanity brings with it unspokeable joy.

Junior, Jack and Tommie Slekman returned to school Monday after an absence of one week because of illness.

The seventh grade are learning to distinguish between editorials and news items and having some practice in writing each.

Trees are being tapped on the Emory Rough farm. Maple syrup making will soon be in full swing. Virginia Rough submits the following composition on "Fun at School."

We have fun at school. We have a large school and it is more fun when there are more to play. Some folks might think it is too early for baseball but we have been playing for two weeks. When there is snow on the ground and the sun comes out, it melts the snow and makes it slushy. Sometimes we slide and fall down. Then we get all muddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Houswerth will arrive Sunday from Los Angeles, where they have been spending the winter.

Alvin Swain and Alene Rough are the only two pupils who have been neither absent or tardy this year.
