1st National Bank Trust is Closed

The trust of the First National Bank of Buchanan was closed Friday by the receiver, W. R. Payne, and 850 unclaimed dividend checks were turned over to the comptroller of the currency.

Most of the unclaimed checks represented trifling amounts, all totaling approximately $1,750. To obtain payment now the claimants will be required to write to the comptroller of the currency.

Last records of the bank were burned June 10, final day for claiming checks at the bank building in Buchanan. Since then representatives of the receiver have been posting unclaimed checks for the final report to the comptroller.

Mr. Payne held the receivership twice on alternate terms with H. R. Botkin. The last appointment was made June 1, 1936.

Cost of liquidation of the bank's assets figured less than 7 per cent. The receiver collected $525,650.96 in cash, against offsets of $48,048.10 and charged-off losses of $142,080.13.

The Hiawatha Safety club, composed of over 50 boy and girl bicyclists of Buchanan, will hold its organization meeting and election of officers at the high school at 8:30 p. m. today, following which a schedule of bicycle hikes will be arranged.

The club, which is for the purpose of promoting safety in bicycling and also of increasing interest in the sport as a source of entertainment and of healthful exercise, is being sponsored by Bill and George Sullivan at the Gamble store. Anyone over ten years of age who is interested may join by seeing them. No admittance fee or dues are charged.

It will be the purpose of the club to see that all of its hikes serve as a drill in the laws and practice of safe riding. The Ten Commandments of the club are: 1. To obey all traffic regulations such as red and green lights, one way streets, stop signs and hand signals. 2. To ride in a straight line. 3. To have a white light on front and danger signal on rear for night-riding. 4. To have satisfactory signaling device to warn of approach. 5. To give pedestrians the right of way. 6. To look out for cars at crossings and pulling out of parking places. 7. Not to hitch on vehicles. 8. Not to carry another person on my bicycle. 9. To keep my bicycle in good condition. 10. Prove Success in Wet, Dry Weather

Wheat Crop Conditions to Date Excellent; Harvest on by July 1.

More and more combines are going out to the farms this year and the first will take to the fields for the early winter wheat harvest by July 1.

In some sections of the Buchanan district it is reported that practically all of the wheat will be cut and threshed by combines. The practicability of the new model combines has been attested by their successful use in both the dry summer of 1936 and the wet summer of 1937. The former objection to their use was that they were not satisfactory in wet years, when the straw would be too tough at the time of cutting to thresh out the grain. It has been proven in practice that the grain can be allowed to stand later in the field to overcome this handicap, without danger of the shattering caused by the multiple handlings under the old method of cutting, shocking, stacking and threshing.

Winter wheat prospects are above the average here at the present time. The heads are now in the milk in the bulk of the acreage and conditions for proper filling will determine the extent of the crop.

Now Here's the Proposition

Well, the candidates are about ready to start in on the baby-kiss-in', but if the babies kin stand it the politishuns can't kick.

The city dads down at Buchanan air fixin' to build a fence around the city clerk's desk. Seems they got a Post there they don't know what else to do with.

Sum peepul live to a ripe ol' age—uthers air keerless drivers.

Idee that most fellers hev of education these days is that it don't make sence unless it makes cents.

Ain't it turrible how the government is spendin' money—and that makes me think, why in sin ain't Glendorry got as much right to a new postoffice as St. Joe hez?

Tip For Antique Hunters Here's a tip for anybody that wants to get in on the ground floor in futures in antiques—the old style threshing machines are on their way out.

There will be less and less wheat threshed here in the next few years, the way combines are going out and in five years the only use for a threshing machine will be its antique value as a mantel piece. So get yourself a threshing machine for your den before the price goes up-up-up.

First Things Are First Well, all of the boys in case you don't understand the foregoing phrase, it's just a technical term which translated into the language of the street means "all of the boys" are now getting ready to observe that really great occasion, the opening of the general fishing season next Saturday, June 25.

There is considerable variation in their plans. Some are going to pick up their traps and highball it out of town. Others are going to pick up their traps and high ball it out of town. Others will pick up their traps and get the hell out of town. But with all this variance in detail, there is a common feature—they all expect to go fishing. Work is a little slack but that merely gives more time for fishing. And while gas money may be scarce, that merely promotes cooperation in means of transportation. There's always room for one more in a car bound out on June 25.

Which is the cue for an idea, why do we fuss so much about outmoded holidays like Christmas, New Years, Fourth of July etc., which have lost their significance for the ordinary citizen, and why instead don't we just come down to earth and see things as they are. What the boys want to do is go fishing. Memorial Day and July 4th are all right—they observe them by going fishing, but Christmas and Thanksgiving are mostly a dead loss.

If Christmas we must have, let's have it on June 25, instead of Dec. 25. And have Thanksgiving the next day after when there will be something to be thankful about. That is, two days at a stretch to go fishing in.

MORE ABOUT THOSE TAX SALE LANDS

ANENT an editorial in this space last week dealing with the thousands of parcels of Michigan real estate remaining unsold at the recent tax sales and which were technically "bid off to the state," Harry H. Whiteley, editor of the Dowagiac Daily News and member of the state conservation commission in which capacity he has handled state land administration for the conservation department for the past ten years, takes us to task in a letter to the writer for our failure to cite an amendment to the law by the 1937 legislature, under which title to the unsold parcels automatically passes to the state at the expiration of the eighteen months redemption period, unless sooner sold or redeemed.

The Day Spring cited instances in northern Michigan in which original owners and subsequent squatters were still in possession of lands sold for taxes years ago, and who have never been molested in their occupancy.

Editor Whiteley makes the point that under the former law the state could not dispossess original owners for non-payment of taxes, but that their lands were repeatedly offered at tax sales and anyone who saw fit to purchase them could have ousted the owners. If not bid in by an individual and the owner not subsequently ejected in accordance with the tax law, the land remained in private ownership with a continually mounting tax delinquency being placed against the property.

Editor Whiteley offers that provision of the old law as an explanation of the continued occupancy of delinquent tax lands by former owners, and thinks we should have made it clear that under the present law the state will become the owner of parcels remaining unsold at the tax sale, whether occupied by original owners or not.

The amendment is an important one, and while we had knowledge of it we deemed it irrelevant to the point we were trying to make—that because of the comparatively few parcels sold at the sale, the state will become owner of an unprecedented area of Michigan lands. The state will, indeed, be Michigan's largest owner of lands, including city and village properties and thousands of lots in both urban and rural subdivisions which fell short of the dreams of their promoters. We were citing the monumental task that lies ahead if the state does pursue its tax liens to their legal conclusion and takes possession of all of the properties eighteen months hence.

In the ordinary pursuit of the statute, the lands will be subject to deeding by the auditor general to the state department of conservation, and what that department will do with so widely scattered holdings is problematical. It could perhaps, convert a large area of urbanized Oakland county from which high-pressure real estate operators have taken much leave into a game preserve, and no objection would be made to its conversion of possessed portions of Syndicate Park and Roosevelt Hills in western Van Buren into something of the same sort.

And if home and farm occupants, who fortunately are in the minority among owners who must surrender their lands to the state, are dispossessed, will they go immediately to relief rolls with the state paying their rents for new quarters from welfare funds?

But Editor Whiteley's point is well taken. The public should be fully informed that the old law which prevented the state from dispossessing original owners for non-payment of taxes is done away by the 1937 amendment, and that their lands, as well as those of absentee owners, will revert to the state in eighteen months, unless redeemed.

Buchanan's softball games have been progressing rapidly, with two good games being played every night except Saturday and Sunday.

Friday night The Future Farmers lost to the Clark Equipment ten from Berrien Springs 6 to 4. The game was tied at four all until the seventh when Clark's got two runs to emerge the victor. Sult was the best batter for the losers with two hits in three attempts.

In the nightcap Clark's of Buchanan won from Dodge Bronzols of Mishawaka 9 to 2. This game was agreed upon to play nine innings. A one to one tie existed until the sixth inning when Clark's power got underway and with the aid of some fielding bobbles the Clark team won easily. Sinner twirled for the winners allowing five hits, Sinner got two hits in three attempts to lead his team at the plate.

Monday night closed the preliminary round of qualification. In the league standings there were three teams in each league that were positive of being in their respec-

Tibet's Beast of Burden

In the highlands of Tibet, from three to four miles above sea level, live animals with long, shaggy hair. They are known as yaks, and they need warm coats to guard against biting winds and blizzards. In their wild state yaks are said to have no "voice," but when they are tamed they grunt like pigs. The yaks carry heavy loads along dangerous mountain paths. Many Tibetans are nomads. Having no fixed home, they wander from place to place, seeking pastures for their yaks and sheep.

There were, however, four teams that had a 500 average in the standings. These four teams were called upon to play these ties off on Monday night with the understanding that the winners would go in the American League and the losers in the National league. Boyce lost to the Future Farmers 8 to 7 and Dry Zero defeated Phillips 6 to 2 to 1.

The teams in the American league are: Clark's, Poorman's, Foundry, Dry Zero, and the Future Farmers. Those in the National league are: Phillips 66, Boyce, Presbyterian Church, Baktown and Gnotdke.

Tuesday the official league got under way with Baktown defeating Gnotdke 7 to 5. Liska pitched four hit ball for the winners. In the nightcap Poorman's defeated Clark's 4 to 3 in a sweet ball game. Sinner and Liska hitted up in a pitchers duel. Both allowed six hits. Five of Poorman's hits went for extra bases, however.

Please notice the board down town for the schedule. Friday night Baktown and Phillips 66 bring in outside competition. Baktown is slated to meet Montgomery Ward from Niles. Nothing has been said as to Phillips 66's opponent. Notice the board down town.

Fans remember there are two good games a night and the admission is only 5c except Friday when 10c is charged. Come and enjoy some real entertainment.

When Poles Prepared for Invasion

Well equipped, well-drilled, these steel-helmeted Polish troops were photographed at Bydgosz recently as they marched past their commander in chief, General Smigly-Rydz. Soon afterward they were rushed to the Lithuanian border to enforce a Polish ultimatum. When Lithuania capitulated the world breathed easier as a threat of war was removed.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER 42
By HAWES

Tonight (June 23-4) The Hallowed Rites of St. John's Eve Are Celebrated in Europe

If you are reading this paper on Thursday morning, June 23, at that very time, all over Europe preparations will be under way for the observance of the old rites of St. John's Eve, or Midsummer Night, about which varying customs and beliefs have clustered in every country.

Since I did not tell everything that I heard and saw about St. John's Eve, the fifth night after I arrived in Scandinavia last summer, I am going to turn back and write about it.

Even now (Thursday morning) it is afternoon in Norway and Sweden and there is great stir and preparation. The young men have taken down the flag poles in the public squares and are decorating them, or if there is no flagpole available, they are preparing a new pole, the tallest pine they can find. The decorations consist of branches from the powder-gray birches, twined with all kinds of wild and tame flowers into a rope. Liliacs were out when I was there of Midsummer Day and they played a main part. But there were also all sorts of field flowers, including harebells and the little "stepmother" pansies which grow everywhere in the hay meadows.

At the top of the pole is a star emblematic of light, which is also wound with the floral rope, and there are other devices below, whose significance, if any, I do not know.

But while all this flower-gathering and pole decorating is going on, back in Norrland or northern Sweden, the girls have some special business. They must gather nine different kinds of flowers and bind them into a bouquet with a stalk or straw, all the while looking neither right, left or behind then they must put them under their pillows and sleep over them that night. In the morning, if all has gone right, somewhere mingled with the flowers will be a hair the exact color of their future husband's.

Of course this is done on the quiet and I can't say that I saw it, done, but I was told that it was still tried. A Swedish woman, a friend of my wife in girlhood, visited at the Halsingland home where I was, and they related that they had tried it, together when girls. They also vowed and declared that each found a hair in her bouque, my wife's a dark brown, her friend's a sandy hair, practically, so they said, the exact shades of their future husband's. My wife had often told me this before in America, and here was corroboration. I still think somebody jobbed them.

They told of trying the old superstition, used as a part of the Songe Henje play, "Happy Landing," of looking in a mirror exactly at midnight with the hope that their future husband will look over their shoulder, but admitted they never saw anything but somewhat scared duplications of themselves.

Scandinavia and at that time there will be a gathering of the entire community around the decorated pole, which the young men must hoist into place about 6 p. m., while all the remainder sing their national and folk songs. When the pole is up, the village minister, of the state or Swedish Lutheran church, will "bless" it with a prayer petitioning God for health and warmth for the people and fruitfulness in the fields during the coming summer. This "blessing" doubtless goes back to pagan times in origin, to the rites of the heathen priests, for this is a survival of the ancient rites celebrating the return of the sun and the end of the long, dark winter.

After the "blessing" is concluded, other village leaders will talk and then for a short time the entire community, all ages, classes, ranks, will mingle in the folk dances about the pole. Then the grown people will leave for the regular dancing place, leaving the children to play about the pole.

Admittance to the public dancing place is by a ticket from the landsman or police in order to keep the unruly out. This is the only night of the year when they may dance all night, the ultimate hour being 2 a. m. on other occasions. Music may be afforded by an orchestra if the village has one, or in smaller communities they may dance to the strains of the omnipresent dragspels (accordions) or perhaps a single fiddler. The girls will serve coffee and "varm korv," the Swedish substitute for "hot dogs" free of charge in the smaller places.

If you happen to be in the larger centers, such as Rattvik, Mora or Leksand on Lake Siljan, where I made the rounds on the night of June 23-4, 1937, you will buy the same at the stands. There you will see more of costume and pageantry, very likely with an eye to the tourist trade, for you will see many Americans and tourists from other countries there. You will see a bewildering variety of costumes worn by the women or girls, or there are twenty counties in Dalarna, or Dalecarlia, as it is better known here, and each county has its own special costume.

The wearing of these costumes has never been allowed to lapse in Dalarna as it was in many other provinces. But the manufacture of them is no longer a home industry, for at Mora there is a large factory making them, the property of the best friend of Anders Zorn, noted Swedish painter and etcher, in the Nordiska Kompaniet, the largest department store in Stockholm. I saw very beautiful costumes, of Dalarna I believe, selling at from $20 to $30. They were pure wool and silk, beautifully colored, factory made.

I think I described these costumes in a previous installment. Perhaps I did not describe the costumes of the old time fiddlers, the conventional music makers for the folk dances, who come riding in on the Lake Siljan boats at Leksand, fiddling old time music. They wear blue coats, piped in red and cut something like the coats of colonial days in America, and blue knee trousers.

The real show is of course staged by the women and girls in their jackets of delicately flowered silk, their close-fitting bodices of silk or velvet, their hoods of many designs and colors and their striped aprons and colored stockings. There is less variety in the costumes of the men, all of wearing coats of dark blue cloth, cut square at the knee, yellow goat-skin knee trousers, red stockings, shoes with great buckles, and wide-brimmed black hats and high white collars at the opposite extremity.

The women have been cleaning with ritualistic thoroughness for a long time before the festival for it is a part of the rites that the homes be scrupulously clean for the coming of summer. The pine floors will be cleaned to a snowy whiteness and on the afternoon June 23 they will be strewn with aspen leaves, at least back in the mountain farms. Large birch boughs will frame the doorways. It is a time of leisure for the men, since the log drives are over, and they are jolling about for the most part on the wooden benches that line the front porches.

After dancing all night, and until the sun is high the next day, most of the people naturally sleep late on June 24, and then rise about noon and have the morning "kaffe." Then about 4 or 5 p. m. will be the Midsummer midday, one of the feasts of the year, but I have already described that and with this conclusion I will not write of the Scandinavian countries again; but will go on through Germany.

It's a promise.

Name County Crop Insurance Rates

Crop insurance which will guarantee insured wheat growers three-fourths of an average wheat crop in 1939 will cost Berrien county farmers at a minimum of 5-10 bushels per acre, Martin H. Kretschman, Chairman of the Berrien County Agricultural Conservation Committee, announced today.

For insurance on the 1939 Crop that will guarantee 50 per cent of an average yield, the Berrien county rate will be 3-10 bushels per acre. County premium rates, received recently, reflect the average per acre loss in Berrien county during the 10 years, 1928-1935. The premium any individual wheat grower will have to pay for insurance will depend half upon this county rate, and half upon the crop losses on his farm. Rates for each farm will be computed in the branch office of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

The average yield per acre for the county during the 10 year period was 18.2 bushels. However, the cost of insurance is not based upon the average amount of yield, but on the year to year variations in yield.

"Two farmers with the same average yield for the 10 year period would not necessarily pay the same premium for the same percentage coverage," Mr. Martin H. Kretschman pointed out. "The farmer who suffered but little crop loss would pay less than the farmer who suffered frequent and heavy loss, even though their average yields were the same."

The county rates will be available in the offices of all county AAA committees, about which the county crop insurance program will center. The figures farmers need for calculating their insurance will also be available in the county committee offices for farms which participated in the AAA wheat adjustment programs. The county committee will arrange for an appraisal on farms for which these figures are not available.

The premium a farmer pays covers only the actual cost of the insurance. Administration costs and costs for storage of insurance reserves will be paid by the Corporation.

The Library

There is enough dynamite in the Bible to shatter to smithereens our old religious beliefs tinged with superstition, our sectarianism, our insane social order which keeps a large section of our population on the verge of starvation, our blundering international relationships which keep the world sitting on the rim of a volcano, and our unbrotherly industrial relations which cause the worker to hate the employer and the employer to look with suspicion on every movement of the worker to better conditions for himself and for his family. As William Lyon Phelps says, "You can learn more about human nature by reading the Bible than by living in New York."

If only people would read it! But they don't. The Bible remains the best seller of any book ever published, and most people own one. But that doesn't prove that it is being read. Even preachers don't read it. They read books about the Bible instead. Half our preachers couldn't deliver an expository sermon to save their necks. They get their texts and subjects from current events. Bibles are given to church school pupils, and many Bibles are given as friendly gifts. But I've never known a Bible to be given away on condition that it be read. If reading were a condition of receiving, many Bibles would have to be returned. Bibles repose in most hotel rooms, but few give evidence of having been handled by anyone except the chambermaid. A Bible makes a nice appearance in the home library, but Bible in the home but not read isn't a Bible at all.

Niles Undertaker to Run for Coroner

William "Bill" Pifer, Niles undertaker, announced today that he would be a candidate for coroner on the Republican ticket and thereby become one of the first

Educational Fund Odd Fellow Lodge Growing in State

An important part of the program of Rev. Karl H. Keefe, of Gladwin, Grand Master of Michigan Odd Fellowship, is the new Educational Loan Fund now being established in the Michigan jurisdiction, I. O. O. F.

to toss his hat into the county political ring. In making the announcement, Mr. Pifer said that he felt the county would be better served and that public funds would be conserved by having the coroners located in opposite ends of the county. So far, no other candidate from the southern part of the county has made an announcement for the coroners post.

Mr. Pifer is a partner in the Turner and Pifer Undertaking firm, having entered the business in Niles after working some time in Ohio. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and has a wide acquaintance throughout the county.

At the beginning of his term last October, Grand Master Keefe made an appeal for Odd Fellow lodges of Michigan to put on "Work For Boys" classes for this purpose. Many lodges have complied to the Grand Master's request by donations and proceeds from "Work For Boys" classes, and many more will do so before the Grand Lodge year ends.

Donations to the new Educational Loan Fund listed so far run from $5.00 to $100.00 each. The two largest donations to date are from Gladwin Lodge No. 177, which is $100.00, and $98.00 by Dearborn Lodge No. 318. The first to donate to the fund was Santia Lodge No. 511, of Sandusky, last December, which amounted to $37.52.

Grand Master Keefe has appointed Past Grand Sire Herbert A. Thompson, of Detroit, as chairman of the new Odd Fellowship Educational Loan fund committee. The committee is composed of many influential men in Michigan.

When this program is accepted by the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. of Michigan and is established with sufficient funds, it will be at the disposal of sons and daughters of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Michigan, preferably orphans of deceased members, to be used for educational purposes in this state.

At the present time Grand Master Keefe is well satisfied with the response of Michigan Odd Fellow lodges for the new Educational Loan fund.

New Use for Old Cold Storage Car

Mich. Fruit Growers Convert R. R. Refrigerator Cars Into Private Cold Storage Plants

Southwestern Michigan fruit growers, who have regarded cold storage as one of the most promising aids to their marketing, are expected to show interest in the recent experiments of Carl Schweikert, Hopkins, Mich., and Dr. L. G. Morrill, St. Clair, who converted used railroad refrigerator cars into miniature cold storage plants on their own farms.

Schweikert stored as much as 800 bushels of peaches in his car at one time, cooling them with ice and a fan. On one occasion he put them into storage when the price was 35 cents a bushel, held them for 10 days, and sold them at $1.10.

The abandoned car was bought at Milwaukee, Wis., for $175, says H. A. Cardinell, Michigan State college horticulturist. There was no charge for hauling the car to Kalamazoo, but Schweikert paid $9.82 to have the car switched off at Hopkins. It cost him another $42 to have the car moved a little more than a mile from the railroad siding, and $6 for timbers and blocking.

License Tax Returns Big Sum to County

Berrien County Receives Over $400,000 From State for Road Use

Berrien county received a total of $413,832.17 in gasoline and weight tax money during 1937, according to a report prepared Friday by the Berrien county road commission for submission to the state highway department.

A copy of the report was placed on file with County Clerk A. J. Hastings. The county received $366,018.92 from weight, or license tax, and $47,813.25 from gasoline tax.

Under the Horton act, which provides for disposal of gasoline and eight tax moneys, the county spent $208,816.09 for maintenance and an equal amount for service of Covert county-at-large road debt.

Appended to the report was a report showing moneys spent in each township under the McNitt act, which provides for maintenance of roads taken over by the county from the townships. The county contributed $95,645.11 for this purpose from county funds, and $45,080.03 was provided from state funds, a total of $140,725.14.

Maintenance costs for McNitt roads in townships were: Bainbridge township, $8,087.40; Baroda township, $2,994.89; Benton township, $3,059.74; Berrien township, $16,694.55; Bertrand township, $8,417.94; Buchanan township, $1,175.12; Chikaming township, $5,709.96; Coloma township, $2,848.65; Galien township, $4,148.90; Hagar township, $3,670.73; Lake township, $3,385.15; Lincoln township, $3,898.27; New Buffalo township, $3,999.87; Niles township, $11,820.43; Oronoko township, $3,060.80; Pipestone township, $10,237.57; Royalton township, $1,961.49; Sodus township, $3,802.05; St. Joseph township, $1,607.39; Three Oaks township, $3,963.52; Watervliet township, $3,747.45; Weesaw township, $16,038.97.

Washington. — California's earth-quake-plagued coast ranges first started to grow only a short time before the Ice Age began, and received their most recent uplift only a few thousand years ago, according to data reported recently by Dr. W. P. Woodring of the United States geological survey.

Rising first during the Pliocene period, age of giant mammals, just before the beginning of the ice ages, to part of their present height the coast ranges were thrown into a jumble of ridges and basins somewhat resembling their present configuration.

Ice age erosion, during the time of alternating glacial periods and warm spells, changed the shape of the original mountains somewhat, removing material from the higher lands and depositing it in the valleys. It was stated.

Evidence has been presented during the past generation to prove that the coast ranges were built any time from about 40,000,000 years ago to 20,000 years ago, but the most recent studies lead to the conclusion that the greatest uplifting and deformation took place during the Pleistocene period, time of ice ages, which probably began not more than 1,000,000 years ago.

Route String of 24 from Detroit to Benton Harbor

The Berrien county lake front, one of the finest in the whole circumference of Lake Michigan, has not been included in the youth hostel routes now being established in Michigan, according to a review of the facts contained in an article published in a late issue of the Michigan Journalist.

It would be hard to envisage a better location for a hostel route than down the Lake Michigan front, especially for walking tours. The area reserved for the public under the Warren Dunes foundation west of Sawyer is credited with having the finest dunes on the lake.

The Journalist has the following to say regarding hostels within the state.

A chain of youth hostels will make bicycling trips across lower Michigan possible for an increasing number of young people this year, stated Prof. George G. Ross of the University of Michigan, who has been regional chairman of American Youth Hostels, Inc., since its establishment.

The average cost to hostellers is only about $1 per day, Professor Ross explained. Each traveler carries his own sleeping bag, and facilities are available for them to do their own cooking.

Many young people who otherwise could not afford to travel on their vacation, he pointed out, now will find it possible to do so.

The overnight charge is usually 25 cents and goes to the farmer and his wife for furnishing sleeping quarters and for assuming responsibility for hostellers staying with them. The necessity of their OK on each hosteller's pass, he added, gives them the authority necessary to enforce rules. They are responsible in turn, he said, to a local committee of 10 persons.

Boat service is available from Benton Harbor to Chicago at a cost of $1.50, said Professor Ross, making it possible to extend the trip through Illinois and on into Wisconsin, where hostels are established as far north as Milwaukee. Eventually it is intended to establish enough of them, he said, so that the trip can be continued around Lake Michigan and plans also are being made to establish a hostel chain for a canoe trail through Michigan, with farmers' teams waiting at portage points.

Hosteling began in Germany in 1911, said Professor Ross, and has since spread throughout Europe. The idea came to America in 1935 and expanded to Michigan in 1937. Thirteen hostels were established in lower Michigan last year and this year the number is expected to be increased to 24.

Wanderers desiring to make a hostelling trip must obtain a pass from the American Youth Hostels Inc., Northfield, Mass. Passes cost $1 for persons under 25, and $2 for persons more than 25 years of age. A pass is good for one year on any trip in this country—or in any of the 19 countries where hostelling is established.

American Youth Hostels Inc. was founded as a non-profit organization by Isabel and Monroe Smith, two scouting leaders, and the organization is carried on entirely by voluntary contributions. Some European hostels, such as those in Germany and France, are sponsored by the governments; others are privately sponsored—those in England have received assistance from the Carnegie Foundation.

Michigan's hotels now are under the directorship of Justin Cline, who came here last year from national hostel headquarters. What are most needed now, Professor Ross pointed out, are funds to carry out this year's plans for hostels across the state.

One of the larger hostels is at the Saline Valley Farms near Ann Arbor where there are girls' and boys' dormitories and a recreation room, said Professor Ross. Another is at the University of Michigan fresh air camp at Patterson Lake. Farmhouse hostels are located at such points as Dexter, the Irish Hills, Pleasant Lake, Albion, Marshall, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Benton Harbor, and South Haven, so that a bicycle trip now is possible from Detroit to Lake Michigan.

Reference to Poetry, Knowledge Pleria was one of the early seats of worship of the Muses. The expression "Essay on Criticism" is a reference to poetry or to knowledge in general.

The Cenotaph A cenotaph is a monument or tablet in memory of a person whose body is buried elsewhere. The custom arose from the erection of monuments to those whose bodies could not be recovered, as in case of drowning. The term is often used with relation to the monuments raised in memory of those who perished on the field in the World War, especially of the Cenotaph in Whitehall, London.

'ROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

Improve Old Larger Hope Church The Seventh Day Adventists made a fine improvement when they painted the old Larger Hope church building at Moccasin and Third street a fine cream shade. In a way the job for the painters was made easier by the great wide whitewood boards around the top of the walls, each 2 feet wide and two inches thick and clear and knotless from end to end. You would go a long way to find whitewood lumber like that any more.

But the old structure was built in the fifties and it is likely that the whitewood, or tulip wood as some prefer to call it, was cut out of native trees by the old primitive up and down saws that leave their peculiar mark on the surface of the board. According to a deed to an adjacent lot, once a part of the church property, the site of the church was purchased by the Large Hope church from Joseph DeMont and Albert E. Staples in 1854. It may be assumed that the structure was erected soon after that.

Indian Ornament Found in Sewer A fine specimen of the Indian ornament known as "gorgets" was found by Frank Conrad while working on the excavation of the WPA employed on the WPA force excavating for sewers in Buchanan a year ago last winter.

This stone consists of a flat piece of highly polished slate, about five inches long and 3 1/2 inches wide, and perhaps 1-3 of an inch thick. Two holes were drilled through the piece, one near each end. It is believed on fairly good foundation that the drawings at the top of their leather jackets came together in front and the ends were run through the holes of this "gorget" as a sort of binder. Thus it was worn about over the breastbone, part as an ornament and part as a convenience.

The relic found by Conrad about five to six feet under ground under a tree root.

Methyl Bromide Is New Weapon Against Insects

Indianapolis. — Chemical science has equipped man with a new weapon for use in his unending war of defense against insect hordes. Dr. Harold H. Shepard and Frank W. Fisk of the Minnesota university farm, St. Paul, announced to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The name of the compound is methyl bromide. It combines bromine, one of the earlier-tried of the war gases, with the radicle that makes wood alcohol the unsafe stuff it is for internal application. Methyl bromide seems to be good for use against insect pests on a number of fronts. It can be used for seed disinfection, for it kills the bugs and does not harm the seed. It can be used for various kinds of fumigation, with effects comparable to those of hydrocyanic acid, yet it does not linger on, even as a bad smell. The presence of moisture seems to make it more effective.

Meaning of Name Arna
Arna might well be more commonly used as a girl's name, being simple and distinctive. It is of Teutonic and Latin origin and means "of the eagle's breed" or "like the eagle."
