Who's Got the Postoffice?

Well, friends and neighbors, the old game of postoffice is the chief entertainment in Buchanan this week, and what a game it is!

When we hit this burg ten years ago they were playing it. The government took a notion about that time to move it to West Front from East Front, because the old location was so wet that the help were showing signs of developing wet feet. In fact it was there that Bill Ednie got his first sea-going experience. But with that stubborn loyalty to old ideals and ideas that characterizes so many of our citizenry, a good slice of the patrons insisted in trying to mail their letters on East Front street many moons afterward. For many months forlorn derelicts could be seen wandering about on East Front street with a fistfull of postcards moaning, "Where's the postoffice gone?"

And that is a sample of what we will be up against again.

There is a report that the city will not get any new building at all because not enough people are plugging for any one of the 233 places suggested to date. Therefore we feel that it is our duty to throw our left behind one of the locations and we pick the top of the Chamberlain hills. The government could do itself proud with a big marble building on that prospect, and the help could rest their eyes from reading the postcards by looking over the beautiful rolling landscape. Grand views are said to elevate the mind and widen the viewpoint and, not getting personal, we know a flock of guys around here who ought to go there for the mail often if that is the case.

There are other suggestions which we feel it our duty to oppose. The idea that the postoffice should be combined with the proposed sewage disposal plant is of course unthinkable, even on the score of economy.

Bear Cave, on the other hand, is too far from town, although it would indeed be a noble place. If it is to be clear out of town we might as well have it in Niles or South Bend so the boys could go to the postoffice when they do their tracing.

Tucking in the Civic Shirt Tail

Well, Niles may have a business section full of window boxes but anyway the Buchanan business section has one, in the window of D's Cafe. The box is full of choice petunias and since beauty is heightened by contrast, it is very safe to say that none of the Niles window boxes are more beautiful than Mrs. McFarlin's.

The Niles movement which resulted in flower boxes in the business district and in flower pots around all of the electric light poles was the result of a campaign by the Lions club of that city. Any time any club in Buchanan wants to tidy up and dress up the town a little they have opportunities galore and they can do things that will make the beautified business streets of Niles look like an alley back of the gas works.

No Bicycle Club Meeting

George Sullivan, who is sponsoring the Hlawatha Bicycle Safety club, announces that there will be no meeting this week on account of the Legion Carnival.

Congressman Hoffman is running for re-election for his third term this fall.

Dunbar Brings in 6-lb. Black Bass

Clarence Dunbar, who won the trophy for blue gills given by the Berrien County Sportsmen's Association two years ago, maintained his reputation by landing a 23-inch black bass, large mouth variety, weighing six pounds and two ounces at Cable Lake Tuesday evening.

Dunbar was using night crawlers and a spinner when he hooked the giant, who battled fifteen minutes before he gave up. Dunbar and James Garren, who was with him, rushed to a grocery at Dewey lake nearby and had the fish weighed on an electric scale. The fish is by far the largest bass brought in here this year, and is the largest that Dunbar ever caught. He is having it prepared by a taxidermist to be mounted in his dining room, with other game trophies including a giant trout, a 4-pound bass, a partridge and a ringneck.

Take Cumberland Mountain Tour

The mountains of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia are becoming increasingly and deservedly popular as objectives for vacation trips of a week or less. Friday evening a party comprising E. S. Arney and John Bonham of Buchanan, Will Womer of Niles and Harvey Arents of Coloma arrived back after a four-day trip in which they covered 1600 miles, enthusiastic over the scenic beauty and historic interest of their route. They went by the way of the toll bridge at Madison, Ind., through the beautiful Lexington country, to Hazard, Ky., where they had the privilege of going back 2 1/2 miles in a drift coal shaft in a motorized car. They stopped over night at Harlan, scene of the famous "war." Thence they went down through the mountains of Tennessee and to Jonesville, Va., where they made a short visit at the home of Bonham's father. There they visited an old water-wheel grist mill and saw the boys and men of the mountain country bringing in their grists on horse or mule back, the grain balanced across the horses back two ends of a sack in front and behind the rider. A bushel for grinding is called a "turn" there.

PWA Street Project Delayed Few Days

Attendance Over Record at Madron

205 Awards Made at Court for 4th Period Friday

With every accommodation taken during the fourth period and with more Scouts coming in for the fifth period, it was necessary for the camp to add still more equipment to handle the large attendance for this week. It was necessary to transfer many who wished to enter into the sixth period which opens next Sunday. The fourth period of the camp, which closed Sunday, was most outstanding in many ways. Two hundred and five awards were given out at the Friday night court of honor, and in spite of the heavy down pour of rain hundreds of visitors jammed the building. Throughout the week the activities were very popular. Archery was started, additional events were added to the field day program, sailing races were conducted daily, and the new features in the handicraft division made possible by the electric current proved most popular. Interest is running very high in the erection of the handicraft and recreation hall—many parents and Scouts have purchased candles during the week for the birthday cake which will celebrate the erection of this building. It is hoped that by October 1st three thousand will have been sold. At the present time the architects drawing of the building is on display at the camp, as well as a model. Thermometers have now been erected and each District of the Council is represented with its quota of candles to raise. Thermometers will be adjudged as the candles are purchased. Competition among the Districts will be very keen.

During the past week Sea Scouts have been very much in evidence at the camp. During the fifth week the Explorer division will be in the camp. The sixth period will again take care of many Sea Scouts. The sixth period which opens next Sunday will close the season of the Camp Madron project. One week after the camp closes the Eagle Scouts will start on their trip into the northern part of Canada. This will be a canoe trip this year and take in the Eagles from the two counties.

Mrs. Vern Quinn and daughter, 'Patty, South Chicago, visited here Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. McFarlin. Miss Patty remained for a visit and Miss Kathryn Quinn, who had been here a month, returned home with her mother.

Softball

(By JOHN SCHULTZ) The softball play of the past week was once again interfered with by the weatherman.

The feature attraction of the past week was the Donkey ball game that was played last Tuesday evening. Bakertown and the Future Farmers rode the Donkeys owned by Ralph Miller. Bakertown seemed to be the ones riding the donkeys when they felt like going to the bases for they emerged victorious 2 to 1. Bainton and K. Olson rode home with scores for the Bakertown team. J. Hemminger scored the lone tally for the Farmers.

In a preliminary game Poorman's Grocery ten jumped on Fabiano for twelve hits and won a softball game from the Boyce Insurance ten 9 to 8.

Bobek knocked a home run for the losers.

Donley with two hits in three attempts, and Hattenback and Dellinger with two hits in four attempts lead the winners' attack.

Fabiano got two hits for the losers.

Thursday night Bakertown nosed out the Presbyterian Church ten 3 to 2. Each team scored twice in the first frame but Bakertown was able to come up with another in the sixth inning to win.

Bainton had a perfect day at bat with two hits and a walk in three tries. His triple scored Shipperly who had singled with the winning run.

Herman got two hits in three bats for the losers.

In the nighttime Poorman's defeated the Future Farmers 5 to 3. Three solid hits and a walk gave the winners four runs in the second inning. One of the hits was a home run by Batchelor with two on bases. They added another run in the fifth for insurance.

The Farmers scored in the third when they got their three run total on four hits. Sult's homer with a man on climaxed the scoring.

Monday night the Foundry won on a forfeit from Dry Zero. Phillips 66 played the Boyce Insurance ten in the night cap. They played five innings and got rained out. The score was one to one.

Carnival on All This Week

Second Annual Event Is Held on Gridiron and Under Park Lights

The Junior Drum and Bugle corps composed of the sons and daughters of Three Oaks Legionnaires, will be the chief attraction at the Legion carnival here at 8 p. m. Friday evening.

The date for the corps was originally announced for Thursday evening but was later altered.

The second Legion carnival to be held at Athletic park began last night and will continue each evening this week. The concessions and entertainment features have been located for the most part north of the field, across the run-off track from the football field. A few have been placed on the grid turf. It was demonstrated last year that four days of use would not injure the turf.

City Buys Grader To Scarify Streets

The city commission voted at a special meeting Tuesday evening to purchase an Adams No. 20 street grader, which they had already been using in demonstration several days.

Supt. Ed Mitchell has been working since Saturday, using two demonstration graders, scarifying the oiled streets in preparation for retreatment. It will require about five days to get the streets ready. Then a wire will be sent to St. Louis, Mich., and a shipment of 7,500 gallons of oil contracted by the city will be brought here by truck with an expert in charge for installation.

After the oil is installed the city plans to rent a county grader to pack the streets.

Father Day Back From Camp Custer

Father John R. Day arrived back Saturday from Camp Custer, where he had served two weeks in his capacity as state chaplain for the Michigan national guard.

'ROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

Flocks of Phlox

The stately, delicate colored phlox seems to be much in favor around Buchanan this year. This staple of "grandmothers garden" has always maintained its hold on the gardener's but this year it is to be seen in masses of delicate pink and pastel in many gardens. Among those going in for it in a considerable way is George Exner. Another feature of the Exner grounds are the two fine tulip trees in front. Although the tulip tree is becoming a favorite for decorative and shade purposes, as far as we know these are the only large specimens in the city. The tulip tree has a straight smooth trunk and a graceful well-balanced top, with a handsome waxy leaf, and large, beautiful golden green flowers in early June.

Rain'g White Clover

Some of the local horticulture authorities are claiming that there must have been some sort of white clover seed dust storm which rained white clover seed over this area during the last year. There is more white clover everywhere than ever before. And as a special proof they point to the hillside yard of George Black.

Mr. Black says that until this year there was no white clover in his yard, and he sowed none. But this summer most of the large lot is a solid mass of white clover. It's all very mysterious unless the WPA did it while his back was turned.

Fire Destroys Kingery Barn

Basement and Stock of Strang Chocolate Shop Damaged Tues. Morn

A bolt of lightning during the storm Monday evening destroyed the horse barn at the Henry Kingery farm seven miles northwest of Buchanan on the Glendora road, with an estimated loss of $2,500.

Reinold Altermatt, young son of the tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Altermatt, first saw the blaze, when he looked out of the window about 9 p. m., and cried: "Oh, see! the woods are on fire!"

The lightning had struck the gable of the barn, setting fire to three tons of hay in the loft. One hay and 300 bushels of corn were burned. The Altermatts had time to get the horses out.

Defective Wiring

Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Strang were awakened about 2 a. m. Tuesday in their living quarters above the Strang Chocolate Shop by the barking of their chow dog, and found smoke pouring into the upper rooms from a blaze in the basement. The fire department was called arriving in the record time of seven minutes after the whistle was blown and the blaze was brought under control. The flames damaged cigarettes and candy bar stock worth several hundred dollars, and melted lead pipes leading to the fountain and carburetor. The interior of the basement was damaged and a section of the stairway and floor in the rear of the store room destroyed. Steve Rudoni is the owner of the building.

Dayton I. O. O. F. Planning Picnic

The Dayton Odd Fellows will hold their 23d annual picnic on Labor Day, with their perpetual chairman, Jerome Sebasty, again in charge. Mr. Sebasty has managed the picnic since its beginning and although he has tried to resign he has been drafted continuously ever since.

The Buchanan Townsend club will hold an open meeting in the high school auditorium Thursday evening, Aug. 4, at 8 p. m. The speaker will be Floyd R. Moody, a member of the national board of directors and a field organizer of the national Townsend clubs.

Sewer Project Cost 78.9c Per Ft.; Niles Installs 5 Miles of Asphalt Pavement at 75c Foot

All property owners of Buchanan who are interested in the extension of sewers, pavings or other public improvements into their districts (during the present campaign of public works, are asked to secure petitions signed by the owners adjacent to the particular projects and to get them to the city commission as soon as possible.

Niles Paves 5 Miles

Considerable interest is being manifested in the installation of "black top" or asphalt paving, such as is being laid in Niles. Engineer V. N. Taggett of Niles says that that city is now collaborating with the federal government in black top projects on 28 streets, totaling five miles. The property owners are being charged 75c per front foot for a 30-foot street, including curb. No gutter is installed.

Taggett says that they are putting on about two inches of asphalt and crushed stone, and consider it a satisfactory, economical paving on residential streets. It is not recommended for main through streets and heavy traffic arteries. However, a pavement of that type has been in service for ten years on Grant street from the viaduct to St. Joseph avenue, being the main road into Niles from Buchanan. These pavings require some maintenance, including a fresh waterproof dressing every few years, but do not cost as much to maintain as gravel streets.

Taggett stated that he would not put them in the same class with concrete paving, which would probably cost three or four times as much.

Members of the commission at a special meeting Tuesday evening stated that it cost from $5,000 to $6,000 per year to maintain the gravel streets of the city, which would lay nearly two miles of asphalt paving.

WPA Sewers 78.9c Ft.

It was reported at the commission meeting that the installation of 5 1/2 miles of sewers in Buchanan as a WPA project had cost the lot owners an average of 78.9c per front foot, as compared with a probable cost of from $2.50 to $3 per front foot by private contractors.

Residents of all parts of the city not yet sewered are urged to get busy on petitions if they are at all interested, as the deadline for the submission of projects is Sept. 30, and it will be necessary to get engineers' plans drawn before that time for any projects submitted.

Commissioners stated that it would be possible to extend the sewers to the Burkhardt addition if the North Portage street connection can be made.

Hold Open House at Camp Waters

The Pattawatomie Trails council Boy Scouts camp will hold an open house at Camp Waters from 2 p. m. until 10 p. m. Saturday, all in this vicinity who are interested being cordially invited.

Scout Executive Harold G. Boltz, who is in charge, states that there will be a program in the afternoon representing the camp activities, including canoe demonstrations and races, and special nature lore exhibitions. At 6:30 a large delegation of parents and friends are expected from Harvey, Ill., the home of the troop, for the evening meal. At 8 p. m. a stunt demonstration will begin, to which the general public is invited.

Raise M. C. Coach Fares to 2 1/2 Cents

Coach fares over the Michigan Central were raised on July 25 from 2 to 2 1/2 cents per mile, the raise applying to all railroads east of Chicago. Pullman and sleeper rates remain the same. The fare from Buchanan to Chicago under the new rate is $2.15 as compared with $1.75 at the 2 cent rate.

CONSOLIDATION—YES OR NO?

There have been intimations recently that the idea of school consolidation is entering the minds of the country residents about Buchanan.

Three Oaks, Galien and New Troy have already drawn many country schools into fine new modern educational structures. Hills Corners has already discontinued the use of the old one-room school and now transports the pupils to New Troy, at much less expense to the district than the maintenance of the old school involved. The Painter and Coveny districts have recently been nibbling at the bait.

Others aspire to a partial consolidation, getting permission to transport the seventh and eighth grade pupils in so that they may have the advantages of junior high school instruction and courses in the Buchanan schools.

Outlying sections of Buchanan to the north and east sides of the city have been clamoring for some time for another schoolhouse located more conveniently for them. The school population of the city already taxes the capacity of the existing structures, and the admission of even the seventh and eighth grades from the country would make new construction necessary.

To one whose youthful memories render him partial to the one-room country school it seems that the partial consolidation might be satisfactory from an educational standpoint. We know a number of the rural teachers and we tend to believe that the instruction there is in most cases good. The removal of the seventh and eighth grades would cut down the burden of numerous classes on the country teacher, also the yearly nightmare of running the gauntlet of the county eighth grade examinations.

And it would bring the new school building which many people in Buchanan now wish.

PREVENT WINTER FIRES NOW

Now is the time to get ready for winter comfort, while the heating plant is out of service. Many a December fire has been prevented in August.

Your furnace should be thoroughly examined by an expert, cleaned, and necessary repairs made. Flues, chimneys and fireplaces should be given similar attention. All this work should be done in a first-class manner—short-cuts don't pay.

Another excellent plan is go on a still hunt through the house for debris. Litter in the basement—rickety furniture you stored away in the attic and forgot—greasy rags and waste in the garage—accumulations of junk in drawers and cupboards—get rid of it now. Such accumulations are fire's favorite breeding places.

Next inspect lamps, electric cords and other equipment which is used little this time of year. They will have to carry their heaviest loads during the winter months—and any defect may result in a disastrous fire. Add again, call in an expert—it's cheapest in the long run. Amateur electrical repairs are often worse than no repairs at all.

When this work is finished, you'll have a more comfortable home as well as a safer home. It's no sport to have your heating plant break down when you need it most—because of neglect and inattention. And no one enjoys awakening in the middle of the night to hear the crackle of unchecked fire. In brief—do your winter fire preventing now!

Murphy to Speak at REA Fete at Cassopolis Sat.

All is in readiness for the big, two-day celebration which will mark the energizing of 890 miles of rural electric lines of the Fruit Belt and Van Buren Co-Operatives, at the Cass County Fairgrounds, Cassopolis, next Saturday and Sunday, July 30 and 31, it was announced by the civic committee in charge of the celebration today.

With Governor Frank Murphy top lining the speaking program scheduled for the afternoon of the first day, and games and contests, awarding of valuable prizes, presentation of free acts and motion pictures, the event promises to be an outstanding one in this section of the state. Officials estimate the affair will attract an attendance of 10,000 persons.

Governor Murphy has definitely accepted the invitation to act as principal speaker Saturday, sending word to Joseph M. Donnelly, member of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, at Lansing, who extended the invitation at the behest of Robert Thompson and C. E. Dow, superintendents of the Fruit Belt and Van Buren Co-Operatives, respectively.

Tenant Farmers May Get Loans for Purchase of Farms

Berrien County tenant farmers may again make application for loans to purchase farms, it was announced this week by W. A. Anderson, County Supervisor of the Farm Security Administration.

Under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, Berrien County will receive another allocation of funds to make 40-year loans at three percent interest to eligible farmers. Last year this county and two others were designated for the loaning program which will be expanded this year to three additional counties. Michigan allocation for the present fiscal year is $274,880.

All applications must be filed at the Farm Security Administration office, 206 Post Office Building, Benton Harbor, Michigan, before August 15th, after which they will be examined by a county committee of three farmers who will later recommend a limited number for final approval. Each application must be accompanied by a financial statement.

Gov't May Buy on B. H. Markets to Prevent Slumps

Commissioner John B. Strange of the Department of Agriculture has asked the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, to investigate the possibilities of purchasing fresh vegetables at the Detroit and Bepton Harbor markets, to prevent price slumps similar to those occurring during the 1937 season. Strange indicated that he believed that these two markets controlled prices to a great extent, upon other markets, and said that he felt prevention of slumps at these points would protect producers throughout the state.

Around About Buchanan

Mr. Ropp was on the streets Monday afternoon, having just sold some more new potatoes to local stores. He has dug only a part of his small patch of early potatoes, but had already sold $20 worth. He has also taken care of a patch of late potatoes and a general garden, although about May 1 he suffered a stroke of apoplexy. He will be 77 in September. He figures that is just about 35 years more than he had any right to expect. For on the back of his neck is the scar showing where he was struck by lightning 35 years ago this summer. He was in the porch of his home during a shower, and had stepped to the edge to look out and see how the storm looked. Just then the bolt struck. A rain water barrel nearby was shot full of holes and emptied of water and the whole side of the house was torn out. The bolt ran through Ropp's body and left by his feet, tearing his shoes off. He was unconscious for 36 hours.

Traces Ancestry 300 Years Interested in a recent item in an outside paper stating that a family here traced their ancestry back over a hundred years, Elmon Starr brings in an interesting story of an American ancestry traced back nearly 300 years to Josiah Starr, born, Sept. 1, 1657. Mr. Elmon Starr belongs to the 6th generation in line of descent from Josiah Starr. His grandchildren in this district represent the eighth generation.

The Library R. F. D. The many "immigrant farmers" who have settled in the Buchanan district from the city, and everywhere as well who have ever thought about farm life should be interested in "R. F. D." a new book recently placed in the Buchanan Public Library.

The author, Charles Allen Smart, had been a teacher, editor and author. He inherited a farm in Ohio and at once he and his wife went out to live on it. The book relating his experiences is an excellent appraisal of some of the values of farm life. A couple of extracts will serve to sample of its style:

"Not only have I been farming only three years; my farming is extremely small potatoes. Most of Oak Hill's 63 acres is in pasture and woods. The only people I know who make what city people would call a decent living have farms of 1,000 acres or more. My kind of farming is only possible for people who have no interest in 'getting ahead,' who like animals and plants more than machinery, processes more than figures, solitude more than most company, and a hunting cap more than a derby hat.

"For farming is so hazardous and absorbing, so rich in values, that for those who love the earth and animals and growing things it offers a deep rooted and superbly satisfying way of life. Perhaps I have made clear by this time that a small farm is a very poor place to earn a living in the ordinary meaning of that phrase, and a very rich and splendid place to earn a living in every other meaning of it."

Berrien Receives $22,000 From State Vouchers totaling $1,275,000 were turned over this week to the auditor-general by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner for payment to Michigan counties. Berrien county receiving $22,494.73.

The vouchers cover the first half of an annual payment of $2,550,000 from the gasoline tax as a result of a 36 per cent reduction in the weight tax voted by the special session of the legislature in 1934. At that time, the weight tax was reduced from 55 cents to 35 cents a hundred pounds with the legislature estimating the total reduction at $5,100,000 a year. The legislature decreed that the counties be "reimbursed" for half this amount from gasoline tax revenues.

Current payments bring the total returns to local governments from highway revenues to $18,024,875 to date this year.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER 47
By HAWES

I spent about 19 hours on the Berlin-Paris train, from 10:57 a. m. to about 6 a. m. the following day traversing Germany from Berlin to the Belgium frontiers west of Cologne, thence across a segment of Belgium and then down across northern France to Paris.

I was riding on a Paris exposition excursion ticket from Stockholm to Paris, which cost me between $16 and $17. During the entire trip on the ticket I spent some 38 hours in travel, nearly all on the train, with a short voyage by ferry across the North Sea. These continental travels were all through trains, traveling right along and it seems fair to say that we averaged about 40 miles an hour, according to which estimate the mileage would have been about 1500 miles. The rate, accordingly would have been a little over a cent a mile.

The Swedish travel bureau employee who sold me the ticket said that I was paying about 60% of the usual fare. To secure this reduction I had no choice in my route, but had to take the most direct, with stopoff privileges.

The Berlin-Paris train was perhaps the best I traveled on in Europe, since it was a special train on a heavily-traveled line. Even the third class was well maintained and fairly comfortable. I say "fairly," because the seats were the usual wooden slats, whose imprint I can still feel in memory. Through Germany there was a "housekeeper" in charge of the car—a neat, middle-aged woman who tolled busily and continually picking things up and dusting and polishing the compartments, aisles and washroom. Since all German lines and nearly all French lines were then government owned, it is likely that I was traveling on a government train. The third-class car I rode in went directly through. Since the signs on the car were in French it seems likely it was a French-owned car. I had as companion through the entire Berlin-Paris trip the immaculate Frenchman I referred to in a previous chapter, and whenever I was not looking out the window with my hands over my ears I had plenty of conversation to listen to. The train skimmed along through neat German cities, stopping only occasionally in the larger places, where food vendors ran along side selling hot sausages, sandwiches and coffee.

As we approached one of these German cities, the French gentleman became very excited. He opened the car window and craned his head as we approached the depot platform and suddenly began waving his hand and exclaiming volubly to someone in the crowd. Then as the train stopped he rushed out and greeted profusely a chic German fraulein, whom he escorted into the compartment. The fraulein I judged to be about 35, whereas the French gentleman would never see 60 again, (either that or he had lived speedily). He was as bald as an egg and florid with plenty of wine and good living. He went to no trouble to introduce his companion or explain, but devoted most of his time thereafter to her, talking in German.

After the excitement of the meeting wore off, however, he told me that they were going to Paris and thence north to Belgium, where they would spend a week's vacation. They had vacation tickets which provided hotel accommodations, meals, and railway or bus fare for daily excursions. They would stay at this city (I forget which one) and every day they would take some excursion through Belgium. Their expense for everything would be "a pound a day" (a little less than $5) each.

Throughout the day I was too busy watching the scenery to pay much attention to my train companions. Towards evening we pulled into the old city of Cologne and I longed more than ever to get off the train. The spires of the famous old cathedral came in sight and the train approached quite near it. Just as I had settled myself for a good view we entered a covered shed in which we remained until out of sight of the cathedral, with no sight except through occasional gaps. I got a glimpse of the great church, however and the Rhine river.

Approaching Cologne and thence to the Belgium frontier we passed through a succession of great factory cities and tremendous mazes of switchyards. The neat farming country was left behind. Nearing the frontier I watched for guns but saw none, but here and there were great artificial platforms of earth, evidently either used for fortifications during the past war or some way connected with present defenses.

At Aachen the passengers all began to open up their baggage and get out their passports and declarations for the customs officers. There a party of men in military uniform came aboard. I dreaded the German officials, but they came down the aisles only glancing cursorily over the papers of the passengers. Finally an officer entered our compartment and picked up my passport, gave it a glance and said: "You will come with me."

I accompanied him to the corridor at the end of train, taking with me my bag and a package. He ordered me to open everything. I was a little flabbergasted by the extra attention and had trouble with the package knots, and asked him for a knife. After the baggage was opened he searched it intently. Then he devoted his attention to me, going through my pockets, the lining of my hat and then feeling every inch of my clothing carefully for any possible papers or money sewed in.

When he was through he demanded if I was concealing anything. I insisted I was not but he kept questioning, evidently with some suspicion in mind. Meanwhile a number of passengers, mostly French, had followed us out and were watching. My compartment companion intervened in my defense, talking German to the officer, and evidently insisting that I was entirely harmless. The German shrugged and pointed at my passport, saying in French "International journalist?" I was so flattered at that that I almost forgot to be scared. After about 15 minutes of search and examination, the German officer told me I could go. He and his two fellow customs officers got off the train at a station a minute later while I packed up my scattered belongings. Just as they were getting off the train I saw the knife that I had to borrow and I followed him out on the platform and gave it to him. He looked at me a little, questioning and then laughed and waved his hand as he left. Three minutes later I was kicking myself because I had gone to the trouble to take his knife to him. What a fine souvenir of that little experience it would have been! And it would have served him right.

After the officials were off the French crowded about. There was one young Frenchman, an exquisite dandy, whose soft, silken Vandyke whisker and twirled mustachios must have imparted palpitations to many a feminine heart. He addressed me in smooth English.

"What was the matter, American?" he asked. "Why were they so rough with you? You are a newspaper man? Perhaps you are connected with a radical newspaper?"

The elderly Frenchman of my compartment laughed and shrugged his shoulders:

"Oh, that is just the Germans' way," he said, "that is always the way of the conquered."

I looked for a notebook in which I had been scribbling chance impressions of the trip but it was gone. Whether the Germans took it or someone else picked it up I could not prove. Perhaps the young officer took it just to make sure there was nothing in the way of contraband information in it. If that were it I had my revenge. The German secret service is probably still trying to decipher it.

However I had a hunch that the attentions of the officials were probably connected in some way with my visit to the American express company office that morning. My explanation must have sounded fishy to the German clerk. He had all the information on me in the papers I left. I was leaving on the 10:57 Paris train. Nothing could have been simpler than a word to the police: "An American on the train, newspaper man, suspicious-looking. Check him."

After the Germans got off the train the Belgians got on, but as all the passengers on that car were going through to Paris they did not check baggage and only glanced at passports.

We began to settle ourselves for the night. I inferred from occasional hints that my companions would have preferred to have the compartment alone, but I was deaf to such suggestions. The Frenchman and his fraulein had gotten out little circular rubber cushions which they inflated with air and used to protect themselves from the slatted seats. I pre-empted a corner and the Frenchman shut the compartment door as other passengers got out and there were just us three. He made things comfortable on the other seat for the fraulein and then lounged half reclining on my side and began to sing Tom Moore's "Those evening bells, those evening bells,

How many a tale their music tells
Of life and hope and that sweet time
When first I heard their soothing chime."

And so through the melodious old ballad. He had learned it by heart when he was studying English, a boy, he said. I sat bolt upright in the corner with my raincoat hung over my head and drooping about me, as was my usual night arrangement on a third-class train, and so napped intermittently. Some time in the early morning hours we crossed the French frontier and the officials merely walked through the train, not looking at baggage and only glancing to see that the passengers had passports in their hands. They were more than usually lenient, I understood, because they were encouraging foreigners to come to the Paris exposition.

I woke once again and the Frenchman had changed places with the fraulein, he resting full length on the other seat while she sat on my side, with her feet on the opposite seat. She leaned back with closed eyes apparently asleep but the Frenchman lay and smoothed and patted her silken ankles.

Fire in Furnace
is News in July

If you must have a fire, the furnace is a good place to have it in, in the opinion of the Buchanan fire department, smoke eating department, who made a hurried run with three trucks to the William Richard home on Main street Monday morning following report of neighbors that smoke was pouring from basement windows. None of the inmates were home, but after effecting entrance via a basement window the fire boys at last located the source of the smoke in some smoldering rubbish in the furnace.

Co. S. S. Assoc. Will Hold Camp

Plan Young Adult Camp at Camp Warren Aug. 25 To Sept. 1

Announcement of a camp for Young Adults was made this week by officials of the Berrien County Sunday School Association. The camp, which has as its objective the providing of a comprehensive view of activities, leadership and purpose of the Church, will be held at Camp Warren from August 25 to September 1.

Rev. John G. Koehler, popular young Twin-City pastor and a leader in young peoples' work both in and out of his own denomination, will act as dean. Assisting him will be outstanding leaders in Christian education who will lead discussion groups in "Personal Religious Living" and "The Art of Christian Leadership." In addition, a part of each afternoon will be given to a seminar on "The Life of a Well Balanced Church."

Prominent laymen of the county will contribute their experiences in the planning of worship programs, Sunday School work, helping the church to serve the needs of the modern world and organizing activities for children, youth and adults.

Interspersed with the study hours will be periods for relaxation and invigorating recreation. Evenings will be given to a brief vespers service at sun-down and a social-recreational program on the beach or about a campfire.

"The camp program has been designed," said Dean Koehler, "to meet the challenge of today's needs in the church of Jesus Christ. We believe the church of tomorrow will grow in proportion to the interest shown by the young people of today. It is our purpose to develop that interest by giving them, in a worth-while way, the interesting side of the church. We believe so much in the program that we would recommend that every church in the country pay the way of at least one active young adult."

Inquires concerning the camp should be sent to Rev. Koehler, 238 Broadway, Benton Harbor.

Rural Mail Box Clean-Up Next Week

What is the condition of your rural mail box? The spotlight of the entire nation will be focused on it during the week of August 1-7, which has been designated by the post office department as "Clean-up Rural Mail Box Week."

As a matter of community pride it is urged that every resident on our rural routes examine his box carefully and determine whether it measures up to the required standard. Motorists along our highways, it is declared, invariably judge a community by the condition of their rural mail boxes. It can readily be seen, therefore, that proper attention should be given the boxes as a matter of good business.

Postmasters and rural carriers will be more than anxious to cooperate with you in the matter of your mail box. If it is one of those "antiques" which is so unsightly, you are urged to purchase a new one. There are two sizes, a small No. 1 box, and a larger No. 2 box. Purchase of the larger box is strongly urged if you receive many parcel post packages.

The condition of your rural mail box, as a matter of fact, is a serious matter. The box is the receptacle for millions of dollars worth of money orders, invaluable documents and priceless letters.

In connection with the observance of "Clean-up Rural Mail Box Week," why not go a step farther and see that your name is placed on the box, so that your friends or strangers may know just whose home they are passing as they drive along the highways.

Fed. Land Banks Extend Reduced Interest Rates

The reduced interest rates on Federal Land Bank and Commissioner loans have been extended by Federal legislation for a period of two years, according to word received today from the Federal Land Bank by J. G. Boyle, Secretary-Treasurer of the Berrien County National Farm Loan Association with headquarters at St. Joseph, Michigan.

On Federal land bank loans through national farm loan associations the temporarily reduced rate 3 1/2 per cent per annum will be continued for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940. On loans obtained directly from the land bank the rate will be 4 per cent.

The temporarily reduced rate of 4 per cent on Land Bank Commissioner loans is also continued until July 1, 1940, J. G. Boyle, said.

"The temporary interest reduction does not change the contract interest rate, that is, the rate written in the mortgage at the time a loan was made," J. G. Boyle stated. "At present the contract rates on new land bank loans are 4 per cent for loans through associations, and 4 1/2 per cent for direct loans. The contract rate on all Commissioner loans made through the land bank is 5 per cent. Under the law, as now amended, both land bank borrowers and Commissioner borrowers will resume interest payments at their respective contract rates on July 1, 1940.

"Farmers who now obtain new loans through an association at the 4 per cent contract rate," J.

G. Boyle, continued, "will get the benefit of the 3 1/2 per cent rate for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940, and after that will not have to pay more than the 4 per cent contract rate for the balance of the term of the loan, which may be for as long as 20 to 30 odd years."

License of $25 for Manufacture of Apple Cider

Apple cider and its manufacture attracted the attention of the Department of Agriculture officials during the past week, two revised orders having been promulgated by Commissioner John E. Strange, with requests from manufacturers in nearby states indicating that there is to be a demand for Michigan's cider apples. The first signed order classifies apple cider as a soft drink and as such makes its manufacture subject to $25.00 license fee while the second order prohibits the use of dried peels, cores, apple waste, apple chops or apples found to be diseased, decomposed, putrid, infected, tainted or rotten.

Commissioner Strange called attention to the action of the 1937 legislature in amending the soft drink laws, to make inclusive of apple cider, which formerly was exempted. The new law exempts only the manufacture and sale at retail of apple cider or fruit juices by the grower of the fruit from which such cider or juices are made. The order governing the manufacture of cider remains unchanged except for the fee clause.

The second order cites the provisions of Act 384, P. A. 1917, establishing standards for cider vinegar, and prohibiting use of other than pure apple juice. The order, according to Commissioner Strange, is designed to strengthen the act by making it necessary to use only sound apples in the manufacture of the original cider. Because of an apparent shortage of apples in Ohio, manufacturers of that state have been requesting information regarding the movement of cider apples in interstate commerce. Commissioner Strange has advised that cider apples have practically free movement after establishing proper grade and marking as to grade.

"There are no restrictions," Strange wrote, "on the movement of bulk apples out of Michigan for cider apples, other than that they be sound, useable fruit free from worms and decay, and suitable for cider making, meeting the requirements of Michigan cider apples and so labeled, and that they be inspected for tolerances for this type of apple before starting in interstate commerce."

Tapoca, also known as cassava and manioc, is made from the roots of the manioc plant. The native home of the manioc is Brazil, but it is produced in a limited way in Puerto Rico, Jamaica and Trinidad. However, on account of the cheap labor in the Far East, its cultivation was begun there and has developed until the greater part of the world's supply comes from the East Indies, the Straits Settlements and Japan.
