It sure must take a morrow akrobat to stand up fer his rites an' lay down on his obligashuns at the same time, but sum fellers kin cut it.

Seems a lot o' the boys never learn that if fifteen eazy payments kum due at wunst, all uv 'em are hard.

Nuts to Farmers Anyway

The time has come for us to go All through the glad autumnal scenery, Where bittersweet on fences grows Amid the changing summer greenery.

Although at home we firmly state That rights of property are vital, When autumn comes we demonstrate Small deference for the farmers' title.

You'd think that order had gone hence And communists were in the saddle To see us crawl the farmer's fence As through his premises we straddle.

The boys who tells of our rights We listen to as they were charmers, But when the lure of fall invites, Our sentiments are "Nuts to Farmers!"

Good Tenants Picked as Buyers

Select Farms in Mt. Tabor, Bend of River and Portage Prairie Dist.

The Buchanan district has been selected for the purchase of three farms by the Resettlement Administration under the Bankhead-Jones Act, for the financing of farm ownership for successful tenants.

The farms were among six selected by the Resettlement Administration in Berrien county in 1938 and include the Arthur Mead farm in the Bend of the River, the old Michael Cauffman farm on Portage Prairie and the farm near Mt. Tabor belonging to the Preston family of Benton Harbor. The project, similar to resettlement farm financing for many years in Denmark, Norway, Ireland and other European countries, loans the entire purchase amount at 3% interest and 1.32% amortization payment on the principal, retiring the debt in 40 years. The entire debt charge is thus 4.32% annually. The purchaser is selected by the county resettlement committee, on which Mr. Charles Tichenor acts, from an application list of tenants. The aim is to finance a tenant farmer, one who has been successful as a tenant, and preferably a fairly young, married man, who has his own farming equipment. After the committee has selected an applicant, he is further investigated by William Anderson of Benton Harbor, supervisor for this district, and by Mrs. Ketcham of Paw Paw, who is the home investigator.

Alvin Swain, who has been a tenant on the farm of Emory Rough on Portage Prairie for eight years, has been financed to purchase the old Michael Cauffman farm of 120 acres, located immediately south of the O. B. York farm on Portage Prairie. The government financed the purchase in full and is also improving the buildings, including re-shingling and repaving, and the construction of a new milk house. He will move on Dec. 1.

William Schlutt, who has been a tenant on the old Helmick homestead, east of Mt. Tabor grange hall, has been financed by the government to buy 160 acres from the Preston family of Benton Harbor.

Godfrey Soucek of Coloma has been financed by the government for the purchase of a 40-acre grange hall, has been financed by the government to buy 160 acres from the Preston family of Benton Harbor. Soucek is moving at once, Mr. and Mrs. Mead having rented the house on the George Richards farm immediately north. Soucek will be supervised by resettlement officials in his farming operations, cropping according to a diversified crop plan laid out for him.

If Asteroid Should Strike New York Harbor!

This drawing by Walter Favreau of the Hayden planetarium shows the destruction of New York if an asteroid, such as Hermes, which came within 220,000 miles of the earth last year, were to fall in New York harbor. A tidal wave would inundate the city, shipping would be destroyed, bridges would crumble and skyscrapers would burst into flames as a result of the terrible heat.

Scout Birthday Party Progresses

Buchanan Downs Paw Paw 33 to 0

Fast Running Attack Rips Visitors' Defense to Ribbons

A stream of maroon and white swept over the Paw Paw eleven last Saturday afternoon for a 33-0 victory for the Bucks. This gives them a clean slate when they face Niles next Friday. In the last quarter when Coach Miller was sure of the game he sent in the reserves. The visiting eleven didn't threaten to score against Buchanan during the entire game. They made some fair gains in the last half by a passing attack, but they were usually either knocked down or intercepted by the Bucks.

The Bucks made three of their touchdowns in the first half and two in the last half. Leiter's kicking ability was much better last Saturday than in any previous game this season, as he made three of the kicks good for the extra point out of a possible five. Buchanan in their last two games failed to make any of their kicks good. This factor may help out very much in the game with Niles as it will most likely be a close game.

Buchanan made their first touchdown in the first part of the opening period when Leiter on a reverse went on a long run to score, he also made the kick good for the extra point. Buchanan again got possession of the ball and marched it up to the visitors five yard line by a series of end runs, Simpson took the ball through the line but was stopped on the one yard line, and the end of the second quarter prevented him from taking it over for the score.

At the start of the second period Simpson finished the job by going through the line for the touchdown. Leiter failed to make the kick good. Paw Paw tried a long pass but it was intercepted by Leiter. Hanover made a good gain on the next play, but Beadle fumbled on an end run and it was recovered by Paw Paw but they failed to gain much yardage and were forced to kick. Leiter brought the punt up to his own forty, and by a series of end runs and a short pass from Leiter to Beadle the Bucks gained a first down. They failed to get any farther and lost the ball on downs. Paw Paw also failed to gain any ground and had to kick. By some very good runs Buchanan got the ball down to the visitors ten yard line, and by a line plunge Best went over for the touchdown. Leiter made the kick good which made the score 20-0 for the first half.

At the start of the third period Leiter made a long gain for a first down. He threw a pass intended for Beadle but it was knocked down by Paw Paw. Best made a good gain for a first down. They continued to gain yardage but finally lost the ball on downs. The visitors tried a long pass but it was incomplete. They completed a short pass and by a lateral they made a long gain for a first down. On an end run the visitor's ball carrier, stumbled and was thrown for a loss. They tried another pass but it was incomplete and they had to kick. Buchanan continued to make good yardage but failed to score in third quarter.

At the beginning of the last period Paw Paw made a good gain through the line, and tried a pass but it was incomplete and were forced to kick. The kick went out of bounds on Buchanan's forty yard line. Leiter completed a pass to Simpson who lateraled it to Hanover. However they were knocked for a loss on the play. Beadle made a swell gain for a first down. Leiter and Hanover both made fair gains by charging through center. Buchanan moved the ball up to the visitor's twelve yard line by hard line crashes. Best went through the remaining twelve yards to score. Leiter again made the kick good for the extra point. Paw Paw brought the kick-off up from their own twenty to their thirty. They made a small gain on a reverse and they completed a short pass; but they failed to gain enough ground for a first down and had to kick. Hanover made a short gain and Leiter picked up much yardage on an end run. A penalty (Continued on Page Six)

IT'S HERE AT LAST

Long predicted, the cellophane bathing suit finally made its debut at Miami, Fla., where blonde Anna Belle Larsen is revealed in an attractive transparent beach robe and a two-piece suit of the same material.

Many Inquiries on Sewers, Paving

City Officials Report Delay on Projects Due to Inability of Engineers to Complete Estimates

Projects for black top paving on a number of streets and for additional sewerage are still in good standing but progress has been delayed by the inability of the engineering firm of Cole, Moore and Geupel to complete the cost estimates necessary for formal application.

The office of the city clerk has been besieged with inquiries from interested people who had been confused by a previous statement that all applications must be filed before Sept. 30, 1938. This time limit applied only to PWA projects, and the local streets and sewer projects will be entered under WPA.

The actual work has not been delayed, as there has been no intention of doing the work before 1939. The city is awaiting formal approval on the two projects already filed for cemetery improvement and installation of a new bridge across the mill race and a drive around Athletic park. It is hoped that these will be approved so that the force now working on relaying brick may be transferred as soon as the streets are finished.

Farmers, Rural Schools Eye Fair

Farmers, teachers and pupils of rural schools and all others interested are advised to keep in mind the date for the Future Farmers' Fair, to be staged at the high school, Nov. 3-4.

Premium lists covering 70 classes of exhibits are being printed at the Record shop and will be out next week. Instructor Clarence Langer states that he knows of several rural schools that are preparing programs for competition at the Rural School Program Saturday evening. On this occasion the auditorium seating will be reserved until all guests from the rural sections are accommodated. On the evening of Nov. 3, there will be a general program with a speaker who will be announced later.

Around About Buchanan

One of the sights in the near-down town district worth attention, at least until a hard frost strikes, is the little plot of dahlias at the home of Sam McClellan, immediately north of the post-office on Oak street. Mr. McClellan has fifteen varieties of thrifty dahlias on a small plot. One flower measured 11 inches across and 27 inches around.

Niles Eleven Has Big Advantage in Weight, Experience; Has Lost Only to Class A Teams

Whether or not the 1938 edition of the Buchanan football team in any way approaches the stellar aggregation of 1937 as a scoring machine will be demonstrated next Friday evening when the Maroon and White plays their ancient rival Niles under the lights in that city.

Although the Buchanan eleven has won all of its games to date and the Niles eleven has lost in each of three starts, that actually proves very little. The Niles eleven lost to the strong Class A teams from Michigan City, South Bend and Benton Harbor, while Buchanan won from teams under its class. Advance statistics give a margin to the Niles eleven, since Coach Bradfield has back nearly all of the sophomore line-up which he played his last games with in 1937. This aggregation averages ten pounds to the man heavier than the Buchanan team.

Only the scrapping spirit of the Bucks can carry them through to victory against such handicaps in weight and experience and it is very desirable that both student and towns people accompany them to Niles, Friday evening. The game will start at 7:30 p. m., under the lights in Plym park.

Alexander's Ragtime Band Is All Time Hit

The outstanding series of programs of the year will be staged at the Hollywood theatre during the coming week, in the following sequence: "Little Miss Broadway," starring Shirley Temple, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday; "Alexander's Ragtime Band," one of the great film hits of all time, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings; "The Gladiator" starring Joe E. Brown on Friday and Saturday.

Any one of the above three features would be outstanding in the program of an ordinary week. "Alexander's Ragtime Band" is reported to be surpassing even "Snow White" in attendance and in other evidences of public appreciation. Manager Hoffman is planning if possible to get the high school band and Mr. Robinson for one evening, to play the great theme song by Irving Berlin.

Sees World-Famed Bird Collections

That the new vacation plan at the Clark Equipment company, may be profitably turned to account in the pursuit of hobbies and avocations is demonstrated in the case of Herbert Huebner, a 25-year man at Clark's who recently used the two-weeks paid vacation which that service period entitled him to in a trip through the east. Huebner had as his objectives the greatest collection of pheasants and of jungle birds in the United States at Great Barrington, Mass. Mr. Huebner is especially interested in pheasants and he was shown through the beautiful 208-acre estate in the Berkshire hills by the owner.

Mr. and Mrs. Huebner also attended the Danbury fair in Connecticut, where they saw the fine collection of water fowl exhibited by Philip Plant, New York playboy and former husband of Constance Bennett.

They returned by way of the "Blue Water" bridge at Port Huron, officially opened the previous Saturday.

WPA Orchestra To Hold Practice

The Buchanan WPA orchestra will hold rehearsals on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at the home of the organizer, John Clements, over the Mills Hartware store, starting next Monday night. Clements states that he has about a dozen players lined up. Election of officers was held last night.

THE WORK OF THE CHILD STUDY CLUB

The smaller family with an intensified concern in the care and development of fewer children may eventually result in the widening of the social interests of parents.

Or at least this is the conclusion that might reasonably be drawn from the activities of the Buchanan Child Study club. Child Study clubs, if we have them right, were originally organized from the top down, as an outgrowth of a state extension service which supervised the study of groups of mothers interested in child problems. But in the case of the Buchanan clubs at least, the activities extended beyond the study of the child into a vital interest in the local environment. Which explains why it was that the Child Study club membership contributed the largest group of active workers in the local library movement. The membership was mostly of young mothers who were keen enough to realize that parents have a stake in the community that will not permit them to ignore the atrophy of community institutions necessary to public well being.

It is not enough that their own children are provided for; for the welfare of their child may be affected by the wants of a neighbor's. Consequently the Buchanan Child Study club stepped in when other organizations faltered in seeing that no child of the community lacked a Christmas. With a program which at first required them to furnish a doctor and nurse for immediate confinement emergencies of those unable to purchase such service, the club went on to furnish active aid to young people and even adult and aged in emergencies. Designed at first mainly to educate mothers to care intelligently for their individual offspring, the club has concerned itself with all that enters into the welfare of young people in particular and the community in general. After all, their child will be a citizen of the world and their interest in the child leads them to concern themselves not only in its immediate health and education but in the state of the world that it will enter.

EVERY HOME ITS OWN NEWSPAPER PLANT

The "facsimile" newspaper, broadcast by radio equipment and received and printed by small sets which may be attached to an ordinary receiving set, is heralded as the coming thing in news communication, and many wonder what the effect will be on the ordinary newspaper.

At the present time technical limitations and cost of equipment bar it from serious competition. However these difficulties are being rapidly surmounted. It is now claimed that the home recording machine can be made in mass production to sell for less than $50.

Without attempting an explanation of the highly technical method of transmission, the receiving set may be housed in a cabinet a foot square and may be connected without auxiliary amplifying equipment to the output circuit of any broadcast receiver having a power rating of three watts or more.

In operation the loud speaker is switched off and the facsimile recorder is switched on. The resulting operation is wholly automatic requiring no attention. The operating speed of the present machine is a two column newspaper printed at the rate of five feet an hour. There are about 160 inches of column length on the front page of the newspaper using the conventional 8-column format; consequently the facsimile equipment at its present stage of development can reproduce the equivalent of a page of type in an hour and twenty minutes.

Among the stations licensed to transmit "home newspapers" are WLW of Cincinnati, WGN of Chicago, WWJ of Detroit, WSM of Nashville, Tenn., and several others within receiving distance from Buchanan. During the present experimental period, the facsimile broadcasts are made between midnight and 6 a. m. when sound broadcasting facilities are ordinarily idle. Time clocks switch the radio receiver and recording motor on and off. The newspaper thus printed may contain anything found in the regular newspaper common today, including news resumes, illustrated advertisements, news pictures, cartoons, and even comics. Paper costs are about 15 cents a week.

It is evident that the facsimile newspaper will compete principally with the city daily as a surveyor of news activities of large areas, and that it is not at all likely to threaten the peculiar field of the small town weekly. In fact it seems possible that its competition, plus that of the radio, may serve as an indirect protection to the small local paper by drawing elsewhere the fire of the daily, whose invasion of local fields has been the weekly's chief threat.

who gave a reception at their home on North Eddy street for eighty guests.

The young couple left Saturday evening for a vacation of two weeks in California, and they will be at home at 1518½ West Lincoln Way after Nov. 1.

Frost and Blight Nip

Potato Crops
 The severe frost of Thursday evening and Friday morning blackened most of the late potato vines which had not already been blackened by the blight of the preceding weeks.

The blight had killed the vines of practically all of the unsprayed potato patches. A few growers who sprayed had green vines still growing at the time of the frost, which did not entirely kill them. However, as a result of blight and frost and the dry weather in early September when the potatoes were setting the crop has been very materially reduced from previous estimates, according to some observers as much as 50%.

Four Flags Hotel

The public of our county, people from over the state and beyond, have pronounced the Four Flags Hotel in Niles, the finest to be found anywhere. All the rooms are thoroughly modern and tastefully decorated. The management takes special pains to see that the service is as near perfect as possible. Unescorted ladies are always sure to receive courteous treatment. Travelling men and our farmers are always extended a cordial welcome and are made to feel at home. This hotel is headquarters for social and commercial activities of this county because of its unexcelled facilities and service which is on a line with the best luxury hotels of this country. The hotel received its name from the fact that this territory at different times was governed by four nations. The hotel caters to special parties and banquets and in this line it is unquestionably unequalled. Indeed, the Four Flags Hotel is in all respects a modern high grade hotel and in this edition we congratulate it on the superb order maintained in its operation.

licious loaf KREAMO, that is being served on the finest tables throughout this area. Every ingredient is selected with exacting care—that is what gives KREAMO bread that finished flavor, that fine texture and wholesomeness. Each day when the loaves are taken from the oven an expert baker scores a loaf to make certain it has the proper weight, fluffiness, size and crust, and that it has been baked sufficiently to make it taste just right. This scoring method is employed only in the most metropolitan bakeries of the country today. It is only one of the details this progressive baking concern uses to insure complete bread satisfaction to the public. We suggest on your next trip to your local grocery that you try a loaf of this well liked bread, KREAMO and you too will then say that it is the finest bread you ever tasted. adv.

Service Preferred Here

Paul's Kreamo Bread

The Paul Bread Company of South Bend are the bakers of that fine bread—KREAMO—that so many in this territory prefer. In baking this superior bread, they first test the milk that goes into it so thoroughly that it would surprise the average housewife. For this milk must be more than pure, it must have exactly the right amount of fatty ingredients, just the proper sugar content in order to produce that de-

The Davies Laundry of South Bend have been rendering the public of South Bend a fine service on laundry and dry cleaning for the past thirty-eight years. The service which is provided to our people compares indistinguishably with that which is available to the people of South Bend. Many housewives and others using this concern's excellent laundry and dry cleaning service would not have their clothes taken care of by any other firm. For the benefit of their patrons of this area they make several scheduled trips each week and work sent in on any trip is returned on the next. You may have your laundry and dry cleaning taken care of by this

Typhoon and Flood Visit Japan's Capital

More than a hundred were counted dead, thousands of homes demolished and damage extended into the millions when a typhoon visited Tokyo recently. Downtown shopping districts felt the full force of the typhoon, and heavy storms caused overflowing of nearby rivers, bringing flood waters into crowded areas. These Tokyo residents made use of mat-boats and other improvised means of getting about.

establishment, Davies Laundry of South Bend in the most expert manner. Wearing apparel which is serviced by this well known concern is accepted by many of the women and men too as the most economical and popular service possible to get anywhere. Your clothes are handled carefully by only experienced employees and are returned spotlessly clean and fresh. Their dry cleaning facilities are beyond question the best to be found. One feature that bears remark is the clean odorless result when suits or dresses are returned. We are indeed highly pleased to recommend this splendid pioneer concern, the Davies Laundry of South Bend, to the readers and suggest that you give it an opportunity and trial—we know you'll be completely satisfied with the results. adv.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER 55
By HAWES

From my meager experience in globe trotting I came to the conclusion that the secret of a satisfactory success in the roaming business is a process of judicious sampling.

In other words, don't try to take in too much, but see typical things that will give an accurate general idea, and try to see things right. And try to see things in their natural old world setting rather than something doled and half-faked for the tourist trade. The latter consideration made it necessary to keep somewhat off the beaten track.

I had tried to pay more attention to the living peoples and their present conditions and problems than to the historic and literary shrines, but that was hardly possible in London. After all, London represents a tremendous lot in the past of the English-speaking races, whether one be pro, anti or neutral in reference to English things. It must be said that the English have achieved a remarkable job in the preservation of their past. Within a mile square in the heart of old London proper are forty-odd old churches, some of them dating back the best part of a thousand years. Regardless of growing congestion and thickening traffic they have been preserved. On roving Fleet street the heavy tides of humanity, are parted by the old church of St. Clements, Danes standing in the middle of the widened street like a ship plowing through rapids. The same is true of many other relics of the past.

Since London means what it does, I felt I must sample the historic places, and I would see one or two shrines of literature. It would have required weeks to see them all where I had days. So I singled out the home of Keats in Hampstead, one of the outlying towns which has been incorporated within Greater London by the spread of the metropolis.

I knew nothing of the whereabouts of Hampstead but I had not been about the streets long when I saw one of those big two-decker busses with "No. 26 Hampstead" on the side. I decided that I would do Hampstead Sunday. It was a lucky choice for it happened that the great common, half open, half forest, known as Hampstead Heath, has been permitted to remain in its primitive condition down through the centuries, and here on Sunday, the last of the two day holiday, flocked scores of thousands of the poor East Enders, too poor to get to the sea shore or the back country, but intent on a breath of fresh open air. So I saw the Great Unwashed of London disporting themselves, and fulfilled another constant aim, to see the people themselves in their own habitats.

Early Sunday morning I got an early and excellent breakfast. Despite all I had heard about poor English cookery, I did not meet much evidence of it. The breakfast included the inevitable but excellent jam and rolls, plenty of well cooked bacon and an egg, something else that I do not remember, and lastly, some coffee not very good. But they say that the mineral content of the water of the British Isles explains that.

I had not stood long in front of Victoria station when a No. 26 bus whirled up, I caught it and was on my way to Hampstead. I asked the conductor if he knew anything about the home of John Keats at Hampstead. He knew a lot about it, which he was quite willing to tell. Nothing of the unapproachable Britisher about him. He came back time and again between stops, and talked about the place. I dropped off at the Hampstead station, walked a few rods up a winding lane flanked by old houses, turned down a shaded street to the left and within three or four minutes I was looking through a high iron fence at the home where some of the greatest literature of the language had been written and where, to my mind, the most poignant personal story in the history of English literary men had transpired. But it was yet two hours until it opened at 10:30 a. m. and I went back to the main road and watched the thickening swarm of the poor bound for the Heath, which began there. I had heard but had seen little of malnutrition or its effects in Germany, but I saw plenty of it there. There were too many pinched, weakened, old faces among the children and youth, too many under-sized, anemic mothers, too many slim, gangling, pale men. But they were in a holiday mood that day. There was no evidence of unemployment that I saw in London in the summer of '37; all seemed employed, and they were out to enjoy Bank holiday.

I saw one rather aristocratic looking couple, rather out of place there, looking with remote aloofness at the passing throng. "Why," said the woman, "do THEY have to have two days!" And the intonation she gave "they" indicated gulfs that knew no passing in class distinctions. Across the street a girl took her station with a handful of roses and began crying, "Buy a rose for a penny—a penny a rose." The heavy human tide swept by her, only a lad with his girl occasionally looking at the roses, but none buying. I went over and stood nearby. A boy motioned toward the roses with an inquiring look at his girl.

"They'd wither today," she said. "Wait until we go home."

So that was the luck and finally I bought one for an English penny (two cents) and sauntered down through the crowd looking for some one to hand it to. Weakened wisps of womanhood, pale slim girls went by, but none that I dared venture hand the rose to, as I had had a little experience with the results of mistaken intentions. Finally I saw a slim, tall boy coming, pushing a baby cab, and beside him a thin girl not shoulder high to him. But in the cab rolled a rosy, almost naked baby. As they went by I dropped the rose on the baby. The woman looked over her shoulder and laughed, so that, as we English say, "came off" all right. In fact, topping.

Just up the hill opposite the beginning of the Heath was a regular "Coney Island," or in European phraseology, a "Tivoli" with numerous stands, rides and thrills of all sorts. The mechanical music blared down the hill and I walked through a wilderness of rather cumbersome thrill-ride devices, mobbed with shrieking, laughing people. Out beyond was the old Heath, much as it had been since the dawn of time in England, save that the grass was trodden and the trees were a little dingy. Here was the hangout in old days of the famous bandit, Dick Turpin, the Jesse James of the 18th century, who held up stage coaches when this wooded stretch was miles out of London. I climbed out on Parliament hill, the highest eminence around London, famous for its sweeping view of the city. There I could see the spires of the Parliament buildings, the dome of St. Paul and the steeples of innumerable churches over the old city.

Around about me over the hill were the swarms of the East Enders, lying so thick that you almost had to step over them to get about. Among them were numberless Jews from the London Ghetto, speaking an amusing half-English, half-Yiddish. I sat down and listened to several boys and girls chattering and laughing. I could understand only a part, part being in Yiddish and the significance of a part of the English was lost on me, but I gathered in a general way that conversation was quite free and easy in mixed company in the lower orders—or perhaps it was that way only on bank holidays.

'IDEAL CO-ED'

Miss Mary Grabhorn, 17 years old, of Short Hills, N. J., was chosen as the "ideal American college girl" in a contest which barred all "career girls." Miss Grabhorn, who entered Blue Ridge college as a freshman this fall, was chosen on "avowed pursuit of marriage and a home."

When I left Hampstead Heath I returned to eKats' Grove and the poet's home. It is the house in which he lived only a few years, but there his best work was done. Back in the late 1920s the existence of the place was endangered by a residence development project. However, a group of Americans, headed by Miss Amy Lowell, poet, biographer of Keats and member of the Boston Lowells, raised money to buy the house and establish a foundation for its permanent preservation. The public can enter free but may contribute by buying pictures and mementoes.

There I spent two hours. It is a double house, in which Keats, then only a boy, and a friend lived on one side, and his flame and fiancée, Fanny Brawn, lived with her mother on the other, with a common garden. Here began the romance that found expression in the finest phraseology of the English language, and here it ended when Keats was suddenly shattered by tuberculosis and died at 24 in Italy.

The appearance of the rooms in Keats' time had been preserved in paintings made of him by his artist friend, Joseph Severn, and the Lowell group had restored it with similar though not the same furniture. The bed room in which Keats lay sick when he had his first hemorrhage and looked at the handkerchief with the words, "There is my death warrant" was furnished as it had been, and the "sitting room" in which he did his work adjoined, the furniture as it was in Severn's paintings, the two chairs even side by side with an open book lying on one. On the walls under glass was the original manuscript of his last poem, "Bright star, would I were steadfast as thou art!"

Out of the double swinging casement window was the heavy-folled garden, with even the old, gnarled mulberry tree where he had sat 120 years ago to write "An Ode to A Nightingale."

I read over the original manuscripts, looked over the pictures, walked through the garden and went, having seen a sacred place of English literature under the most advantageous conditions. Only two people came in while I was there. Out at Stratford-On-Avon, as I heard from tourists and read in London newspapers, the mobs thronged the birthplace of Shakespeare, fought with the business men over food and lodging rates, and threatened boycotts "because the Americans are being held up," until it became a brawl, aired not too sympathetically in the English papers. So I staid away from there. (To be continued)

Survey of Financial Responsibility Cases Started

A preliminary survey of the Financial Responsibility Division's 18,575 convictions, with ages ranging from 18 to 66, recorded since October 17, 1933, reveals that 37 years is the average age for persons convicted of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The survey further substantiates the belief that the majority of Financial Responsibility cases are convicted of intoxication. Since 1933 when Michigan's Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Law took effect, 82% of the drivers taken from the Michigan highways have been convicted of this offense.

Another interesting feature of this survey reveals that of the total number of convictions, only 21% involve those under 30 years of age. The results of this preliminary survey have been so satisfactory that it has been decided by Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, to continue the study until completed.

In Bed With The Reds

"Tollies makes strange bedfellows" and no candidate can prevent undesirable or disreputable support, but no candidate need welcome and encourage such support.

The Communists crawled into bed with Murphy, or he with them, in the sit-down strike, and there he still remains. Said Murphy:

"Communists deliberately created disorders in the Lansing labor holiday, the Consumers Power Company strike, and in some phases of the sit-downs. They not only sought disorders but they sought bloodshed. They wanted bloodshed, and they sought to draw us into a fight."

Then Murphy, standing on the State House steps, figuratively speaking, patted them on the back. Murphy knows who his bedfellows are, what they were doing in the sit-down strikes and what they want. He did not disown them. He permitted them to do as they liked.

September 29, 1938, substituting for Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist Party in America, a Communist leader in return pledged the Michigan Communist organization to support Governor Murphy for reelection. Murphy never has denounced the sit-down strike nor the Communists who brought it about and who would strangle Michigan industry. Apparently, they are birds of a feather.

Speaking to the Democratic State Convention, Secretary Ickes said:

"Franklin D. Roosevelt needs Frank Murphy once more as Governor of Michigan," a rather frank admission that Roosevelt thinks he is running Michigan and can pick its governor again, as he did once before when he needed someone in the executive office at Lansing to protect John L. Lewis and his wrecking crew when they drove the workers of Flint and other cities from their jobs and threw them, as relief clients, on the taxpayers of Michigan.

Are we of Michigan to submit to Roosevelt's selection of a Governor who will drive the motor industry from our State, as the rubber industry was driven from Akron, Ohio?

We need neither Murphyism nor Communism. Let Roosevelt have Murphy, take him and send him back to the Philippines.

If Michigan is to maintain her position as a great industrial center, Murphy and the Communists should be kicked out together November 8, thus serving notice on Franklin Roosevelt that we have no further need of a dictator here in Michigan; that we once more have resumed our place as a free and independent state; that Michigan can select her own Governor.

Sincerely yours,

CLARE E. HOFFMAN

New Style of License Plates for 1940

Larger and more legible license plates are to be made for the year 1940, according to Leon D. Case, secretary of state, who has recently approved of the new design. The 1940 plates are to be wider and the length varying with the size of the numbers stamped on it. The style of the numerals will also be changed, making the plate more readable. This has been advocated by the state police and the police and sheriff's department for several years.

The new plates will be so punched that when affixed to the license bracket of a car, there will be a more firm contact and eliminate rattles and the number of lost plates.

The old dies, for stamping out license plates now nearly worn out, have been in service for eight years and have stamped nearly 18 million pairs of license plates. The new dies will also allow a different spacing of the numerals.

The auto license plant of the Michigan State Industries is able to turn out 18,000 complete sets of license plates every eight hour working day.

Sale of 1938 License Plates Higher Than 1937

Sale of auto license plates in northern Berrien county this year has been slightly ahead of last year, according to Mrs. Eva Dwan manager of the department of state's auto license bureau office in the courthouse.

A total of 25,104 1938 plates had been sold up to September 26, inclusive, this year, compared with 25,048 plates sold up to September 26 in 1937, her figures showed.

GIRL ADMITS SHE'S BAD; TAKES POISON; NOTE TELLS STORY

Letter Recounts Sordid Life And How Flight With Boy Caused Downfall.

NEW YORK.—A girl dressed in gray walked into the ladies' restroom of a bus terminal here, raised a bottle of poison to her lips, and collapsed. Twenty minutes later at the Bellevue hospital she died.

In her pocketbook police found the only clue to her identity. It was a scrap of paper on which was scribbled "Veronica Kern, 290 Eleventh street, Brooklyn." Police talked to Miss Kern who said that the girl had boarded a New York bound bus in South Carolina and that they had talked on the way up.

She referred to herself as "Patricia" Miss Kern said, and mentioned that she was from Oklahoma, but was now employed by a New York brain specialist as a nurse.

A letter to the World.

Also in her pocketbook was an eight-page note. It was addressed "To whom it may concern," and was signed, "The Girl in Gray." In it she wrote, "I have been in the dark all my life, and have never seen the sunshine."

"I am drinking this poison in the hope that it may rid this world of a pest," her little autobiography, meticulously penciled on a stenographer's pad explained.

"I started out when I was 14, running away from home, although I was careful of the company I chose. Time and time again I was brought back and my dearest of all mothers would plead with my father and also with the authorities to give me into her care."

"This I never thought was anything more than her duty. I did not realize the sacrifice she was making for me. When my father came home it was the same old sixes and sevens."

Runs Away With Boy.

"I stood it as long as I could (or thought I could) and ran away with a boy. That was my downfall."

"Since that time . . .

"There is hardly a state in the East I have not been in. And I am known and recognized as a woman who would take your money and cut your throat without a moment's hesitation."

"And now I am in a bad way. When I am buried (I don't really care whether I am or not) I want people not to pity or to scorn. Just say, 'She was at least intelligent enough to know that when she reached the bottom she had sense enough to know she really couldn't get up.'"

"To my mother wherever she is: 'You will have no more heartaches and grieving to do over an erring daughter. 'As for you, dad, I'll see you in Hell. 'I am broke, hungry (I haven't had a meal in three days), no place to sleep. So I took my last money to buy this paper and poison, and if it will help a girl who has even the first thought of leaving home, then I have not done this in vain.'"

Wisteria of Memories

Barely Survives Fire

NEW ORLEANS.—Neither heat nor cold, nor the pruning knife can kill the 78-year-old "twisted vine" that gives a name to a courtyard in the French quarter here.

The wisteria became so large that it supported a canopy that covered most of the "Courtyard of the Twisted Vine." Spring after spring it blooms into a blanket of lavender blossoms.

Last winter remodeling forced pruning the vine. Only a stub was left against a wall. Last spring the stub bloomed out.

A short time ago a fire swept the courtyard. The vine was twisted and shriveled by the flames. But experts have examined its roots, and they believe that with another pruning the vine will survive and bloom again next spring.

Christian Science Churches
"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday October 16.

The Golden Text (I Thess. 5:9, 10) is: "God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us, that whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (I Peter 4:12, 13): "Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you; But rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; that, when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 21): "If Truth is overcoming error in your daily walk and conversation, you can finally say, 'I have fought a good fight. . . I have kept the faith,' because you are a better man. This is having our part in the at-one-ment with Truth and Love."

The phrase "Hobson's Choice" owes its origin to Thomas Hobson, an old carrier and livery stable keeper, who plied between Cambridge and London in the Seventeenth century. When a man came to Hobson's stable for a horse, he found that he was obliged to take the one nearest to the stable door. In this way the carrier considered that he was serving each of his clients impartially.

Club 66 Niles Leads

The Club 66 located on 306 South Eleventh in Niles is known all over this county as the leading establishment in its line. It serves the most palatable of beverages and the menu consists of many tempting delicacies to satisfy the taste of its most fastidious patrons. It is readily accepted that there is no other establishment that has met with a greater favor or is more entitled to the splendid patronage which has been gained by The Club 66.

Mr. Ted Abermann, the manager, has had wide experience in this line and it is through his management that this club has made such great strides. This is a popular meeting place where both the young and the old may come for a few hours of relaxation. The Club 66 caters to many of the people of this county and on various occasions it has handled banquets and parties and the admirable manner in which it takes care of the many details has been the subject of much favorable comment. In order to make your next affair a real success why not leave it to Ted Abermann at The Club 66 to take care of all the arrangements and it is sure to be just that. For further information we suggest that you call and Ted will discuss everything along this line. We take pleasure in referring The Club 66 to the public on this occasion. adv.

against the Bucks took the ball babok kick by a ways, but they made up for it by completing a long pass from Leiter to Beadle who took the ball to the visitors five yard line, and a short pass from Leiter to Simpson gave the Bucks their fifth touchdown of the game. Left-er failed to make the kick good. In the last few minutes of the game Coach Miller sent in the reserves when he was sure the game was clinched.

He Chisels His Toes Off; Surgeons Complete Job

WATERTOWN.—Mercy hospital surgeons completed the job on John Lapham's toes.

Mr. Lapham, who is 68, had been trying for months to get some physician to cut off two of his toes, which had curled back under his left foot and pained him when he walked. Every doctor he saw told him he was too frail for such an operation.

The other day he went out by the woodshed and spread the offending toes on a stump. He held a chisel to the toes and beat the chisel with a wooden mallet. He used alcohol as an anesthetic and a patent medicine as an antiseptic. The toes came off. His wife came out in time to tie the rag around the foot and stanch the blood. The hospital admitted him for after-treatment and described the amputation as a thorough job.

Needle Left Inside Head Emerges 23 Years Later

LONDON.—A surgical needle left in a man's head when he was operated on 23 years ago worked its way through his body and emerged through his hand. When Private Charles Morgan was wounded in the head in 1915, a brain operation saved his life and he returned to the lines to serve to the end of the war.

Origin of 'Hobson's Choice'

The phrase "Hobson's Choice" owes its origin to Thomas Hobson, an old carrier and livery stable keeper, who plied between Cambridge and London in the Seventeenth century. When a man came to Hobson's stable for a horse, he found that he was obliged to take the one nearest to the stable door. In this way the carrier considered that he was serving each of his clients impartially.

Charcoal has for ages been the staple fuel of Japan.

He Offers an Eye So Children Can Eat

SEATTLE, WASH.—John Nargard, 47, unemployed truck driver with a wife and three children, is looking for a buyer for one of his eyes.

He asks $2,500.

"One eye will be enough for me," he said. "I'm washed up as far as work is concerned, anyway. I've had arthritis for eight years, and I've given up hope of getting better. I need money for the wife and kids, and surely someone needs an eye."

NARCOTICS PEDDLED OPENLY IN NANKING

Gangs Get Armed Protection From Japanese.

SHANGHAI.—Nanking, which suffered so atrociously from burning, looting and rapine after the Japanese captured the city, is now being afflicted with peddlers of narcotics who work openly under the protection of the Japanese army, according to confidential reports sent here by foreigners still living in the former capital.

Opium is sold openly for around 20 Mexican dollars an ounce, which is less than $4. Heroin, for a pure ounce, commands a price of 244 Mexican dollars, the equivalent of about $45 an ounce. But this narcotic is mixed with cheap flour and sold to the poor in small packets at 5 and 10 cents each—prices respectively less than 1 or 2 cents, in United States money.

The leaders of the narcotic gangs are in possession of arms, which is charged, they receive from the Japanese military. Many of the drug distributors are Chinese, working under military protection, and these men organize gangs at night which rob and loot without military interference. The Chinese police, not permitted to carry arms, are helpless.

Opium pipes and lamps are sold openly at stalls on all the main streets and a degree of license exists, which Nanking never knew under Chinese administration. In fact, many of Nanking's main streets today are like the streets in the Japanese concession at Tientsin, where opium and its derivatives have been peddled openly for many years.

Chinese currency still circulates in Nanking and is accepted everywhere except at the telegraph office, railway station and at a few Japanese shops. The general rate is 1.04 to the Japanese yen, of which ever larger quantities are being forced into circulation by the Japanese military.

Tennessee Woman Gets Three New Teeth at 92

KNOXVILLE, TENN.—"Aunt Mary" Rule doesn't know what'll happen next.

"I'm sproutin' new teeth," the 92 year old Miss Rule announced to fellow patients at Knoxville General hospital.

Miss Rule, confined to the hospital since a fall four years ago, opened her mouth to prove that she is getting new teeth.

Already one jaw tooth has passed through the gum and two front teeth are coming through.

Physicians said such cases are rare and usually result from the failure of permanent teeth to replace baby teeth during childhood.

When old age advances the jaw bones and gums recede, exposing the dormant teeth.

Miss Rule, sister of the late Capt. William Rule, former editor of the Knoxville Journal, said she would never let this get her down.

"I guess," she said, "I'll just keep on teething."

Mr. Torsan Thinks He's Tarzan; Cop Tames Him

CHICAGO.—It all came out in Berwyn police court why they didn't nickname George Torsan "Tarzan."

He was arrested after his truck had knocked over a flare guarding a pedestrian cross walk.

Policeman Frank Vratil looked at his bulk and went to call his squad: Torsan drove off Vratil followed in a commandeered auto and caught him.

"Just try to take me from my cab," dared Torsan. Policeman Vratil took him from his cab.

"Who's big enough around here to put me in a cell?" asked Torsan when they reached the station. Vratil put him in a cell.

"He shouted and broke two straw hats for 'other prisoners,' Vratil told Magistrate Frank J. Pavlek.

"Even the neighbors complained, so we took him to Stickney, where there aren't so many neighbors."

Torsan apologized, paid his fines, and left for home.

Wild-Burro, Barbecued, Better Than Roast Pig

REDLANDS, CALIF.—A new dish for epicures was discovered here when a band of desert enthusiasts ate two barbecued wild burros. They assert the meat was sweeter than that of a young roast pig and far superior to beef. The hills and mountains of southeastern Riverside county and parts of the Imperial valley contain small bands of wild burros, descendants of animals used by prospectors.

SURVIVOR RECALLS FIRST BOAT TRIP IN GRAND CANYON

Thrilling Tale of Hardship And Adventure Related By Old-Timer.

PHOENIX.—Last surviving member of the first expedition into the Grand canyon by boat is James Fennemore, a spruce old fellow of some 90 years, who sits every day at the Arizona club here to spin his tales of adventure.

The spare, lean-faced Fennemore has had more than his share of adventure in one way or another, but tops the tales he tells by his arduous inland voyage on the Colorado river with Maj. John Wesley Powell.

"It wasn't fun," he said, speaking of the trip through the canyon. "Our clothes were wet for days. We slept beside mud puddles that bred mosquitoes big enough to bite through a Navajo blanket, and we stood in water up to our necks for hours dragging our boats around some of the rapids."

Drives Wagon Train.

Born in London, Fennemore came to America in 1864, and although he didn't remain long, he came again in 1886 to stay. Like most young men of the day, he saw opportunity in the West.

A photographer by trade, Fennemore came West by working as a driver on a wagon train taking supplies to Fort Bridger, Utah. The wagons were pulled across the plains by oxen.

"Texas longhorns are what they were," said Fennemore, "and wild ones at that."

When the going was good the train made seven or eight miles a day. It took four days to get the wagons across the Flattie river, using 36 cattle to each wagon.

Finally arriving at Fort Bridger, Fennemore pushed on ahead 90 miles to Salt Lake City, where he got a job in a photography gallery.

To him one day came an army officer, Maj. John Wesley Powell, who wanted some pictures printed. Fennemore did the job and Major Powell took the prints back to Washington. With the aid of the pictures the officer succeeded in getting enough money from congress to outfit an expedition to the Grand canyon.

Joins Expedition.

Powell remembered Fennemore and offered the youth a chance to go on the exploration as official photographer.

"Of course I went," said Fennemore.

Fennemore remained with the expedition seven months, going from Lee's Ferry up the Colorado river and into the mouth of the Grand canyon.

"Every day was an adventure," he said. "We started on February 28 from Salt Lake City and took the stage as far as Toquerville. We outfit in Johnson's canyon east of Kanab and set out overland for the Colorado river."

The expedition ran out of supplies in what Fennemore terms the "Henry mountains."

They then made their way over the range by digging steps for the horses and men in a loamy cliff. Once inside the Grand canyon, Fennemore decided to return to Salt Lake City. He operated a photography store for a time, and retired in the late nineties.

Blind Man Hears Autoist Kill His 'Seeing Eye' Dog

BOSTON.—Patrick Folan, 43 years old, is sightless again because Elaine, his "seeing-eye" dog, is dead—victim of a hit-run driver. Standing in his back yard awaiting the return of his pet from an exercise run, he heard brakes screech and then a series of animal cries. Folan shouted for help. His wife and three children ran to the street and found the dog lying helpless, its back broken.

With the blind man faltering behind them, they carried Elaine inside the house. A veterinary took her to the Angell Memorial hospital, where she died.

Folan, a machinist, lost his job during the depression. Scorning relief, he bought a portable saw and went from door to door cutting wood. Three years ago he was blinded by a piece of wood which flew from the saw. He continued to work, however, making bird houses and small household articles. The Norwood Knights of Columbus bought him Elaine for $600 and sent him to Morristown, N. J., where he learned how to use her as his "seeing eye."

They're Beautiful, But Slightly Dumb, Say Profs

BERKELEY, CALIF.—A test of 600 c-eds at the University of California has indicated that there is a tendency toward lesser intelligence when pulchritude is outstanding. That is the finding of Dr. Samuel J. Holmes, outstanding authority in the realm of racial behavior, and C. E. Hatch, his associate.

The two scientists refuse to admit that the result of their tests justifies the expression of "beautiful but dumb," but find rather that too much pulchritude has a tendency to draw the beautiful c-eds into too many other lines of distractions to enable her to make the most of her academic career.

Dog Obeyed Orders Given Over Phone

REGINA, SASK.—Dinty Moore, Saskatchewan's most unusual dog, is dead. He took orders—and obeyed them—over a telephone.

His owner left his car and the dog at a garage one day. The dog refused to let the mechanic into the car. Then he thought of phoning the owner. He asked the owner to speak to the dog over the phone. The phone line was extended and pulled out to the car and the owner shouted, "Come home," into the dog's ear. The dog was off like a shot and in his way home.

The greatest attribute of B. H. S. is its friendliness toward newcomers. There is always someone to help him with hard problems or schedules, and if he goes halfway, he's sure to acquire many friends.

Perhaps we're unsophisticated in being so kind, but it's a lot more fun than waiting six months to see if he's in the same social set. Too, people who have been here for a time aren't lonely because a few cliques usurp all the privileges and take over the parties. We have cliques, yes, but they're not snobbish groups.

Let's Keep to Right in Halls

Smash! A bottle of ink falls to the floor and splashes all over. Bang! A head-on collision between a speeding senior and a fast-stepping freshman—both are trying to make the next class within three minutes. Then the bell rings, doors close, and all is quiet until the next period is over.

These accidents are avoidable and inexcusable. If everyone would keep to the right while passing in the halls, instead of wandering down the middle or scurrying up the other side, the janitor would have less ink bottles and contents to clean up and there would be fewer heads bumped.

Let's start a "Keep to Right" campaign in our halls. It might work.

Typing Students Learn Keyboard

The first year typing students have finished learning the alphabet on the key-board and have started having speed tests. Last week they learned how to tabulate.

Office practice students have been studying forms and parts of business letters. Chapters on paragraphing and phrasing have also been studied. On Thursdays the office practice students type the Microphone news and on Friday have speed tests.

The shorthand students have been learning to write their outlines on the board and last week wrote their first letter. A six-week's test over the first chapter was given on Wednesday.

Posting from the journal to the ledger has been the work of the bookkeeping class this week.

Velmorian Lit Names Officers

The Velmorian Literary Society formed this year's club on September 29. The officers are: Bob Habicht, president; vice president, Howard Dillman; Secretary, Betty Ann Miller; treasurer, Mary Garoutte; literary critic, Rex Hungerford; and parliamentarian, Bill Strayer.

The program committee with Constance Kelly, Martha Trapp, and Barbara Schram, and the creative writing contest committee with Rex Hungerford, Ruth Jean Haslett, and Lelan George are the special committees.

The meetings are to be held the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Ten Organize in Debate Squad

The new 1938 debate team was formed when ten members of the Buchanan High School met with Mr. Elbers, the debating coach. The question for debate this year is: Resolved, that the United States should establish an alliance with Great Britain. Mr. Elbers has lost two of his old club members: Richard Austin, and Charles Bainton. Continuing in this work with last year's experience are: Rex Proulx, Eleanor Naugle, Richard Habicht, Jack Morris, and Fred Ketchum. New members are: Vivian Carlisle, Martha Trapp, Kenneth Herman, Rex Hungerford, Frank Bonak, Robert Dix, Chas. Matthews, Margaret Miller, Phillip Birong, Eugene Dairymple, and Fred Bonke. It is expected that they will join the debating league again this year.

LEADS LEGION

Stephen F. Chadwick, Seattle attorney, is the new national commander of the American Legion. He was given the high office by acclamation at the annual Legion convention in Los Angeles.

Our helpers for the month of October are: Richard Karp, Ted Thurston, Billy Stark, Evelyn Liska, Betty Jane McCarty, Kenneth Clemans, Ira Lakin, Joan Samson, Charles Stroud, and Russell Wolkins.

The kindergarten is making a model village in connection with the study of their community.

The third grade is studying about wheat as a food. Just now we are learning of the different ways of cultivating wheat. We are drawing new and old plows, tractors, and other machinery.

The boys and girls are enjoying some new new books received last week. They are "The Story of Sugar," "Children of China," "The Stone Age," "People and Friends for Every Day."

In the first grade we have made Mother Goose booklets in connection with language work.

The fourth grade has had several books added to their library. They are "The Swiss Twins," "The French Twins," "The American Twins of the Revolution," and "The Norwegian Twins."

We have missed Gerald Marsh for he has been quit of school with a bad cold.

Sally Thaning was elected president of the Citizenship Club.

The second graders are making a large farm poster in colored chalk as a background for our standable farm. We have also started to make farm booklets.

Vivian Carlisle is already working to be a staff writer on the National Geographic Magazine.

Senior English Class Completes Research Essays

Scholarly Articles, Serve As Introductory to Preparation for College English

The senior English class students have completed their research articles with very fine results. Card notes have been taken from at least five sources. Bibliographies have been made and topic sentences written. The rough draft has been revised and the type copy of the production turned in. The research article is a scholarly piece of work and is introductory to college English.

The following are some of the most successful papers turned in:

Bob Habicht wrote on the subject, "Sailing," furnishing graphs and pictures to illustrate. Bill Strayer's paper on "Anaesthesia" was well done and not too technical for the average reader. Betty Ann Miller turned in a document consisting of thirty-five pages on the subject, "The Seven Wonders of the World." Lelan George wrote on "Television." Dale Simpson on "Offensive Football." Dale Leiter on the "Conquest of Rubber." Phil Pierce on "America's Fastest Growing Hobby." Louis Pascoe on "Steel." Constance Kelly on "Life and Work of Sarah Bernhardt." Barbara Schram on "The Manufacture of Paper." Ruth Jean Haslett on "Technical Movies." and Rex Hungerford on "United States Naval Academy," giving the old tradition which helps make the academy more interesting.

Grade News

First Grade

In Miss Carnagan's first grade there are six names on the Dental Honor Roll. All the children hope to have their names on the roll soon.

The first excursion taken by Miss Connell's grade was one to the green house. Play time was spent in Kathryn Park.

There are six names on the Dental Honor Roll.

Second Grade

Miss Heim's children are enjoying new penmanship books, "Show Me How to Write."

On Thursday of next week the children will have a fruit sale to pay for membership in the Junior Red Cross.

Miss Fritz's children are practicing good manners in school and on the playground.

Mary Jo Ham brought a hedge ball to school. We learned that it grows in the south and is not good to eat.

Third Grade

Following our Indian unit we are beginning discussions of early history of Michigan. Pictures, books, and story-telling are being used in the study. The children will write original, descriptive stories of the important incidents we study.

We have enjoyed "Pinocchio" so much, that we have constructed toy ones of colored paper.

Some of our children have a band. Betty Rifenberg is the drum major. Instruments have been made of sticks, tin, paper, and cardboard tubes. Bob Waldo carries the banner, while Nedra Smith carries a flag. They will play for our circus Wednesday afternoon.

Fourth Grade

The fourth grade has gained one new member, Donald Dalenberg; but is also losing one, Harold Layman, who is moving to Bridgman.

Robert Virgil and Jacqueline Burks brought us some gold fish and David Coultas brought a lovely big bowl to put them in. Birdie Lou Schoffman brought some sand and Barbara Schoen brought some water plants to put in the bowl with the fish. A bracket, fungus brought by Bonnie Lolmaugh, a coconut shell by Norma Thompson, and a tree frog by Norma Thompson, are new and interesting items added to our Nature Study collection.

Fifth Grade—Ekstrom

The pupils have been divided into three tribes of Indians, namely, the Iroquois tribe of the Eastern Woodland Indians; the Plains Indians of the Western Great Plains; and the Pueblo Indians of the Southwest. These three tribes were selected for study to illustrate how the various Indian tribes adapted supplies offered by a natural region to their needs for food, clothing, and shelter. Moreover, if a tribe has contributed something to civilization in arts, that particular art is studied. Each child is held responsible for some phase of Indian life which he is interested in. Research work in reading, writing down, orally telling facts in an interesting fashion, painting and handicraft work have been activities in this unit of work. The study of Indians will be a background for the study of the natural regions of North America.

The fifth grade had a sale of white milk, chocolate milk, and orange drink to raise money for Red Cross work. The class belongs to the Junior Red Cross as well as to the main organization. Sixth grade

There are some very attractive Health Posters in Miss Jeffrey's room.

The children are enjoying a new set of books which are part of the series, "Treasure Chest of Literature."

Twenty names are on the Dental Honor roll. This is more than half the enrollment.

Old newspapers and magazines are being collected to sell for Red Cross membership. Any contributions would be appreciated.

Sixth Grade

Twenty-three names are on the Dental Honor roll in Miss Ream's room.

"Tales and Travel," a new set of readers, are being enjoyed by the children.

Hobbyhorseman

Has Aerial Hobby

Dick Hayden's hobby isn't so unusual, but well worth seeing. He collects and builds model airplanes, and his collection now contains about seventy-five. He has been doing this since 1934. One of the models stayed in the air for one minute and forty-five seconds. They are made of balsa wood and Japanese tissue paper.

Dick won a handicraft prize with a model of an F. E. 23. (Farman Experimental Bomber, Type 2.)

Collecting is as interesting as anything one may do. It ranges in cost from a king's ransom to a few cents. Collect anything! It'll give you some thrills and a great many interesting hours. It makes a nice exhibit to show your friends, too.

PATIENT AT HOSPITAL

Word was received that Ruth Montgomery, a former student of Buchanan High School, is a patient at University Hospital in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Miss Montgomery has been absent from school since her sophomore year as a result of illness. She is missed by her friends and classmates very much. A card or letter from students would be highly appreciated.

G. A. A. Girls

Hold First Hike

The G. A. A. girls had a roast Monday evening at four-thirty. They walked to the sand dunes on the Red-Bud Trail and there had the roast. It was a big turnout for the first hike of the season. They were accompanied by Miss Henry. Many accomplishments are expected from the club this year.

WE THANK YOU

We, Donna Smith, Mary Louise Zupke, Evelyn Briney, and Elayne Blaney, wish to take this opportunity to thank Miss Henry and the Girl's Athletic Association (G. A. A.) for the sweaters and megaphones we received for cheer-leading purposes. The money was taken from the club treasury.

(Signed,)

The Cheer-Leaders.

Books of the Week

"Sweden, the Middle Way" by Childs explains clearly the history and aims of the co-operative movement in Sweden. As it is presented here, it seems truly Utopian. Because of its illustrations, it should appeal to students of geography, history, and economics, as well as to persons who are genuinely interested in other horizons besides their own.

Fifty-four Prisoners Booked During Sept.

Fifty-four prisoners were confined in the Berrien county jail at the end of September, according to the monthly report of the turnkey, William Hedrick, prepared Saturday.

During the month 156 persons were booked at the jail on 31 different charges, and 168 persons were discharged.

Seventy-one persons held at the jail last month were charged with drunkenness or disorderly conduct. Ten were charged with driving while intoxicated. Four were held for reckless driving, and eight for other traffic offenses. Thirty-one were booked for investigation.

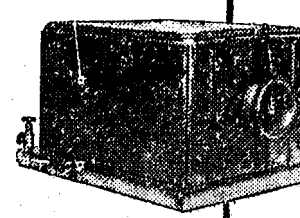

Sixty-two of the prisoners were arrested by the sheriff's department.

OTHER TIMES, OTHER Telephones

Since 1878, the telephone instrument has continually improved in efficiency and convenience... and all the other equipment went through the same process. This was largely due to the constant research of the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the manufacturing skill of the Western Electric Company.

Membership in the Bell System, which puts these improvements at our disposal, has enabled us in the past... as it will in the future... to keep your telephone service on a par with the best in the world.

BUICK 1939 PRICES ARE LOWER
—lower than last year, lower than you'd expect.

Star Performer ushers in new Style Cycle with stunning designs that keynote next year's mode

It all started with "catwalk-cooling," on the costly racing cars of Europe.

They were shooting at better aerodynamics, not new styling—but they touched off something that will re-pattern cars everywhere before it's done.

Not that looks alone ever come first with Buick. What's really Buick is underneath all that, down deep in the good true metals, the split-hair precisions, the tough alloys.

But everyone goes for beauty, and you would be less than human if you didn't thrill to an eye-ful of the smartest dressed automobile you ever saw.

So let your gaze take it in. Spot the radiator grilles... down low. They're the key to new-day design.

They're also placed where air pressure's greatest—your engine cools under forced draft!

Under that comely bonnet is the engine with more abundant life—that quick quiet Dynaflex valve-in-head straight-eight!

Under that roomy Body by Fisher are the great slow spirals of Buick Coil springing, to give you the true "full float" ride. And in that body, is new wide-paned visibility—up to 413 more square inches of glass.

The whole staunch, firm, beautiful car looks like what it is—a car to love and live with.

Come see it. Just as it stands there, tuned for your service, it seems to be ready to fly!

Helen Mogford Weds Walter N. Bieneman

In a beautiful ceremony performed at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Inverness Country club in Toledo, O., Miss Helen Mogford, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. Mogford, of Toledo, O., and Diamond Lake, Mich., became the bride of Walter Newsam Bieneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Bieneman of Detroit, Mich. The Rev. R. Lincoln Long of the Collingwood Avenue Presbyterian church officiated in the presence of 150 guests.

The ceremony was read before the massive fireplace which was decorated with large baskets of autumn flowers and candelabras.

Escorted by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of ivory satin which was fashioned with long pointed sleeves, a slight train and a small pearl collar tied at the neckline. Her tulle veil was fastened at the head with a pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of white roses, valley lilies and white gladioli.

Miss Ann Mogford, as maid of honor, was attired in a green velvet with a bouffant skirt and wore a green ostrich tip in her hair. She carried a colonial bouquet of gladioli. The bridesmaids, including Miss Vivian Mogford, Mrs. Norman Barnes of Detroit, Miss Margo McCall of Ann Arbor, Miss Nancy Berdan of Bay City and Phyllis Price of Toledo, were dressed in gowns similar to that of the maid of honor and carried colonial bouquets.

Blanche DePyl and Maurice Metz Marry

Blanche De Pyl, daughter of Mrs. Katherine De Pyl, and Maurice Metz, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Metz of Bertrand, were united in marriage at St. Mary's parsonage at Three Oaks Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. John R. Day performed the ceremony. Vella Gray of Buchanan, was bridesmaid and Roy Kraft of Niles was best man.

The bride wore a wine-colored dress with brown accessories and wore a corsage of Talisman rose buds. The bridesmaid wore a dark red dress and a corsage of roses. A wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's mother. Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. R. Metz and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Metz of Bertrand; Mr.

and Mrs. Harley Davis and Ray Kraft of Niles.

The bride was graduated from Buchanan high school with the class of 1936 and is employed at the Simplicity Pattern Co., in Niles. The groom was graduated from Niles high school with the class of 1936, and is employed at the office of the Kawneer Co., in Niles. The couple will reside at Cedar street, in Niles.
