The humble, sujeck of these here rimes
Tried hogging' the highway too many times,
So his soul went hents fer to be a

Point of Etiquette
You're very long on advice, Miss Post,
On the proper relation of guest and host,
Or the thing to do in the social whirl
At that pleasant juncture when boy meets girl
On the rules of traffic when you're at table
And the proper defense when you're with Clark Gable And the right way to act toward friend or lover—
But still there's ground that you fail to cover.

Suppose you had worked like the d—beg pardon—
Raising some flowers in a back yard garden
Till your dahlias stood in a perfect row—
But a boy or a dog or a cat ran—so!
If it happened thus, Miss Post, ah pray!
What were the proper thing to say Or would one swear till the air was toasted
If one were properly Emily Post.

Record Film Hit Here Three Nights

The residents of the Buchanan districts are advised that one of the great entertainment events of the winter is, now in progress here in the showing of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" at the Hollywood Theatre. Breaking all records for popularity and box office drawing powers, the new film vehicle starring Don Ameche seems to owe its power of evoking interest to its resurrection of the golden days of the ante-bellum period, when everyone was humming, whistling or playing the theme harmony, then a current hit by Irving Berlin.

The film play was shown last night and is continuing tonight and tomorrow night, which is perhaps the first time in the history of the present management that any film has had three midweek showings. The week will conclude with a one-night showing of "The Gladiator," starring the popular comedian Joe E. Brown.

A feature of the local appearance of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" was a rendition of the Berlin theme song by the Buchanan high school band in a short concert in the street in front of the theatre at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

To Start Campaign for School Milk Fund

The public spirited citizens of Buchanan are hereby notified that the bottles for contributions to the school milk fund will soon be in place. A fuller account of the needs of the school and the campaign to meet them will be given next week.

ing attorney, will be the speaker at a meeting to be held at the local Republican headquarters on East Front street this evening.

m. Atty. Small will speak on the issues of the present campaign. Other candidates and party leaders will be present and

Bucks Tie Niles in 2nd Half Rally

Match Scores With Heavier Team Backed by More Reserves

The Bucks tied the game against the Niles eleven last Friday in the third quarter by marching the ball down to Niles' six inch line and Leiter took the ball around right end for the touchdown and topped it off by making the kick for the extra point good.

The Nilesites did their scoring in the first period by a passing attack and had control of the ball most of the first half seeming to do what they pleased on the field. At the start of the third period the Bucks had changed into a entirely different team than it had been in the first half. They not only scored to tie up the game but also kept the Niles eleven from pushing them all over the field.

Niles took the opening kick-off to their thirty-two yard line but they failed to gain a first down and were forced to kick. Leiter brought the punt up to his own forty. The Bucks also failed to gain a first down and had to kick, but a penalty against Niles again gave Buchanan possession of the ball. Niles intercepted one of Leiter's passes, and they completed a pass for eighteen yards and picked up thirty yards on an end run. By a pass over the end zone they made the touchdown and completed another pass for the extra point. Best took the kickoff to his own thirty-eight yard line, and by a crash through center and an end run the Bucks succeeded in making a first down. Best fumbled and was thrown for a loss and Leiter tried a pass but it was incomplete and the Bucks were forced to give the ball up to the Nilesites. A fifteen yard penalty against Niles put the ball on their twenty-seven yard line.

The Bucks then tried to complete some passes in the second but failed, they also failed to gain by running either. Niles was stopped from a chance of scoring by the many penalties against them.

Niles kicked to Buchanan's thirty-five yard line at the start of the second half. The Bucks picked up a few yards by crashing center but lost on an end run and had to kick. Niles failed to gain a first down and kicked to their own forty. Beadle picked up a couple of yards by crashing center, and a pass from Leiter to Simpson gave the Bucks a first down. Beadle lost ten yards when he was rushed, but the loss was made up for, when Leiter threw a lateral to Simpson who picked up fifteen yards around right end and Best found a hole in the center and went another ten yards. Leiter went around end for another four yards and a fifteen yard penalty against Niles, put the ball on the one yard line.
Best and Simpson both failed to find a hole in the line, so Leiter went around right end for the touchdown and topped it off by making the kick for the extra point, which tied the game up seven to seven.

In the last few minutes of the game the Nilesites started up again and began moving the ball down the field toward the Bucks goal and at the end of the game the ball was resting on Buchanan's sixteen yard line.

Weekly Wage in Germany Equals Buying Power Daily Wage Here

Relative of Portage Prairie Woman Tells of Life in Germany

Life in Germany among the common people of the inland is not so far from the normal tenor of life as we Americans are inclined to think, according to Mrs. Otto Schneider of River Forest, Ill., who was a visitor recently at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lewis Smith, Portage Prairie, while on her way home from a visit at her native home in Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, a state in southern Germany.

The native home of Mrs.
Schneider and Mrs. Smith is in the famed Thuringian forest, an immense forest of pine owned and maintained by the German government. The district is famous for its scenery, being a country of mountains, hills and great forests, with cities here and there in valleys, and small tracts of farming land. The main industry is glass blowing.

Mrs. Schneider kindly filled out answers to a list of questions submitted relative to the living conditions among the people. Food is plentiful in quantity but the supply of certain articles is restricted in supply or by prohibitive prices.

The situation of her relatives is alleviated in a measure by the fact that they own a small tract of a few acres of land outside the town, where they keep a few pigs that add to their meat supply, and a few goats for milk. The average family can afford meat only about once weekly. The markets carry only one kind of meat at a time;
thus a family can buy only pork one week, only beef the next. The meat is expensive, costing from $.25 to $.45 pound. This is the more expensive when it is realized that a full-time glass blower will receive only from $5 to $9 a week, expressed in terms of American money. Expressed in terms of what such wages can buy in butter and meat in Buchanan at the present time, they actually receive from $.25 to $.30 per week. Butter is restricted to 1/4 of a pound per person and costs $.45 per pound.
Ordinarily there is a plentiful supply of the native fruits, including apples, sweet cherries, plums and pears, but this year the crops of apples and cherries were reduced by late frosts. Citrus fruits are almost prohibitive in price. A single orange costs 8 cents, or .96 per dozen. Bananas are very small but cost 4 cents each or $.48 cents a dozen. Sugar is not nearly as sweet as in the United States and costs about 9 1/2 cents a pound, or about $.95 per hundred.

It is possible for the worker to live mainly because many families own small tracts of land outside of the towns, and these tracts are cultivated entirely by the women, the men working in the factory steadily about 10 hours daily.
There is full-time employment for all. The small farms produce potatoes, rye, wheat, oats, alfalfa and hay. Each family consumes what it raises for the most part, selling the surplus if any to the local mills. Wheat and rye are used in home baked breads, also for coffee cake. Very little bread is sold, only occasionally buns.

Clothing is high priced. Tailors are employed principally by the government in making military uniforms. Shoes and all articles of dress are high in price.

Many automobiles are seen, but the principal means of travel for the workmen and their families is the bicycle. Everyone including both adults and children, has his or her bicycle. Train fares are high and the service is poor compared with that of the American trains.

Special concessions are made for vacation travel for young people, who receive special rates for educational tours in Germany and in other countries. In this respect they are much more advanced than in America.

The vacation with full time pay is universal.

former member of the town board

Around About Buchanan

Among the most attractive of the late fall flowers about Buchanan during the recent phenomenally fine weather have been the fall crocus or resurrection lily blossoms in the yard at the home of Mrs. G. H. Stevenson. These flowers have been blooming regularly in the yard at the home of Mrs. Stevenson for 20 years. In previous years there have been regularly 21 plants, but this year there are 23. The blossoms have a lovely orchid color.

"Good-bye Jim, Take Keer O' Yerself"

Of all residents, man or beast, of this community none have been more "around about Buchanan" during the past 23 years than old Buck Jim, the faithful horse who furnished the motive power for the vegetable and produce route of Joe Schwartz.

Jim died last week and his passing is noted with a real regret by this writer, whose memory, extending as it does well back into the horse and buggy era, tends to impart a sentimental regard for the lingering relics of those days.

During the most of his service on the route Jim was a most dependable servant remaining at his post on the stops at the various customer's homes as dependably as a car or more so, since no brakes were needed to keep him hitched, except during the last year when a restless nervousness heralding his end gave him a tendency to unguided rambling. He was 28 years old and had been owned by Mr.
Schwartz 24 years.

Buchanan Short in Candle Quota

Although Buchanan was heralded as leading in the drive for the sale of candles at $1 each to finance the construction of a handicraft building at Camp Mad-ron, only $95 has been raised out of a quota of $216, according to A. H. Kiehn, who has been in charge of local sales.

This amount, still $121 short of the goal has been raised mainly from members of the Buchanan school faculty and from the personnel of the Clark offices, where an intensive drive has been made.
Unless other parts of the community join in the campaign Buchanan will rapidly fall in standing, Mr. Kiehn warns.

P. T. A. To Hold A Get-Together

To Welcome Teachers at Novel and Informal Gathering Next Monday Night

The Buchanan Parent-Teacher Association is extending a very cordial invitation to everyone to attend the Community Get-Together to be held at the high school gymnasium on the evening of Oct. 24 for the especial purpose of introducing the faculty of the school.

This event takes the place of the former parties held under P.
T. A. auspices to acquaint the public with the teachers. The Association aims to strike a more informal note this year in order to induce a greater number to attend, especially more of the younger parents. Since everyone has a stake in the public school, the association feels that it is worth while for all to be present.

A novel mock radio program is being arranged as a means of introducing the instructors and of giving them a chance to explain their work. This will be called "The Voice of the Teachers," with H. C. Stark as announcer. The program will be opened by community singing led by J. W. Hyink. During the social session games will be directed by Mrs.
Claude Imhoff and Miss Allegra Henry.

Warns Tamperers with Mail Boxes

Interference With Mail or Mail Receptacles Is Federal Offense

The Record has been requested to print the following relative to operations of unknown parties in interfering with local mail distribution:

Numerous complaints have been reported of tampering with mail boxes and contents. Last week a letter containing a check was placed in a mail box at No. Detroit and Fourth Sts. by the carrier in the regular way. Later in the day the owner went to his box and the letter was not there. He received the check next morning however, in the same box folded inside of his Sunday paper. Monday morning he found the envelope in Mr.
Nelson's field. This same letter box not so long ago was smeared inside and out with axle grease.

It is reported that on Smith street, a certain box has been broken from post several times by students enroute to the athletic park. Complaints come from carriers quite frequently, that the Government boxes placed in different locations about the city for relay work and the convenience of persons wishing to post letters, are filled with leaves, sticks, stones, dirt, dead birds etc. Last winter on several occasions snow had been thrown into the boxes wetting and soiling the contents.

The Postal Department has stringent rules governing the use and abuse of its mail receptacles and contents, and has provided suitable penalties for malicious damage to same. It might be well for parents to check up on the activities of their children relative to conditions mentioned.

A. Glenn Haslett, Postmaster.

Will Hold Farm Fair at Gallien

Members of the Gallien Live Stock club are staging a Farm Fair at the Gallien high school Oct. 28-29 as a feature of the Halloween celebration, with their fine exhibits of calves and hogs which won premiums at the Hartford fair as a principal drawing card.

They plan to have full representations of exhibits of grain, vegetables and fruit on display at the high school. The live stock will be housed in a tent outside.
A representative of the Michigan State College will be present as judge. The public is cordially invited.

The Paul Sisters Open Grocery Store

The Misses Louetta and Pearl
Paul opened a cottage grocery Saturday at 403 Moccasin avenue, in the former location of the Banks grocery. They are carrying a complete line of groceries and fresh meats.

"VAMP" OF YESTERDAY

Surely you haven't forgotten Theda Bara, the come-hither girl of the silent days of the movies. Well, here she is in a cogitative mood in her Mayfair, London, home. She is Mrs. Charles Brabin, having been happily married for the past fifteen years. Although many years out of the films, Mrs. Brabin still receives fan mail from hundreds of her faithful followers in the days when she was the vampiest vamp of them all.

Finds 100-Year Old Map of Mich.

Walter Squier Finds Map and Books of Historical Interest

Walter Squier made a find at his home recently in the form of a map of southern Michigan and the states to the immediate south, bearing the date "1832" and showing a Berrien county with only one settlement, that at the "Carey Mission Station."

It bears the title, "Map of the States of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois and part of Michigan Territory, published by S. Augustus Mitchell, Philadelphia, 1832." At the side of the map is listed the population of the states mapped and of their counties, according to the census of 1820. Berrien county is credited with 323, Cass county with 964, Wayne county with 6-787, Van Buren county with five.
The entire state is credited with 31,262. The only settlement listed in Cass county is Edwardsburg.
There was apparently no South Bend worth putting on a map. To the south of St. Joseph county, Ind., was a great stretch of country belonging to the Pottawatomies.

A find of equal interest in the same box of books was a copy of "Beyond The Mississippi," by Albert D. Richardson. This book, no longer in print, is ranked as one of the very best contemporary accounts of life in the pioneer West.
Richardson was a member of the New York Tribune staff under Horace Greeley and the book was evidently originally written for publication in the influential paper of Civil War days. It was published in book form for sale by subscription only.

A book of some possible value in the find is a deluxe copy of a volume of testimonials written to Abraham Lincoln following his assassination. Only a limited number of these copies were printed, especially for the organizations and individuals whose testimonials were printed. There were also copies of "Life and Travels of General Grant," by J. T. Headley, of an autographed copy of Murat Halsted's "Life of President Mc-Kinley" and other volumes of historical interest.

Mrs. Wm. Swartz Called by Death

Mrs. Elizabeth Swartz, 62, died at her home three miles northwest of Buchanan, Saturday, Oct. 15, at 7 a. m.

She was born December 16, 1875, at Niles, the daughter of Gottlieb and Freda Vetterle. She married William Swartz Nov. 8, 1893, at the Christian Swartz home three miles northwest of Buchanan. She is survived by her husband, William Swartz; by two daughters, Mrs. Florence E.
Weatherwax, R. R. 1, Buchanan and Miss Dorothy Swartz, at home; by one sister, Mrs. Earl Whitmore, Dowagiac; by one brother, Charles Vetterle, R. R. 1, Buchanan; by one grandchild.

She was a member of the Gallien Lutheran church. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 1:45 at the home, and at 2:30 p. m. at the Buchanan Evangelical church. Rev. C. A. Sanders officiated. Burial was in Oak Ridge cemetery. Pallbearers were: Clyde Paxton, George Huff, Ralph Hunter, Louis Bay, Frank Wright, Harry Hemphill.

Fred Mead is Taken by Death

Funeral of Veteran Business Man and Popular Sports
Leader Tomorrow

Business houses of Buchanan will close between the hours of 2 and 3 p. m. tomorrow for the funeral of Fred Mead, 53, to be held at the Swem Funeral home at 2 p. m. with Rev. Blanning of the Congregational church of Benton Harbor in charge. The following will act as pall bearers: Ralph Allen, Fred Moyer, J. F. Russell, Charles Bachman, Dr. C. F. Crawford, Ed Pascoe.

Mead had conducted a barber shop in Buchanan for 31 years, during which time he had been one of the most active citizens of the town in the promotion of sports and of general activities for the good of the community.

His name will be especially enshrined in the memory of his fellow townsmen for his long and successful management of the Buchanan Blues, and for his work in securing the present Athletic park as a permanent ground for sport activities.

No business man or other citizen was more consistent in promotion to the best of his ability of any cause which he deemed in the public interest. He was manager of the Buchanan Blues for 22 years, from 1908 until 1930. During that period he led the campaign for funds to buy the tract of land now known as Athletic Park. For a number of years he promoted the civic band concerts and played a cornet in that organization himself.

He was a member of the town board of trustees in 1908, and one of the active promoters of the Centennial celebration in 1933.

Mead's wit and rough and ready good humor made his shop a favorite gathering place for the men of the community for many years and no heated discussion of any local or public matter was at all complete until "what Fred Mead said" had been heard and quoted.

He was born in Bridgman Sept.
16, 1885, the son of John W. and Agnes Mead. He was reared in Bridgman and educated in the schools of that place. After serving two years in the barber trade there he went to Chicago for a short time and then came to Buchanan in 1907, conducting a shop here until his death. For a few months during the World War he was employed at the Clark plant.

He married Eva Waterman in Buchanan June 8, 1920. He is survived by his widow; by one sister, Mrs. Jessie M. Faggart of Benton Harbor.

et and Pontiac will be on dis-eration.

American Income Falls 20 Cents; Living Costs Dip Five Cents In Year

PURCHASING POWER AUGUST, 1938 Compared with AUGUST, 1937

THE above chart, showing how the average American fared in national income changes in the last twelve months, is based on the monthly consumers' study of Investors Syndicate, of Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Public in August had a "real income" of 80 cents, or a decline of 20 cents on the dollar from the same 1937 month. This "real income" is not a subtraction of cash income and expenditures, but an average relative of these figures designed to show how living costs affect adjusted income dollars.

Cash income of Mr. and Mrs. Public in August was 78 cents for every $1 a year earlier. This decline of 24 cents on the dollar resulted from the following losses per dollar: wages 30 cents; salaries fifteen cents; and investments income thirty-three cents. Other income was down sixteen cents on the dollar.

Rents were off one cent in August as compared with the same 1937 month. Food was down eight cents on the dollar; clothing was off six cents; and miscellaneous items were down five cents.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER 56
By HAWES

Fortified daily by the breakfast that was part of the daily lodging service covered by "seven and six" I embarked early each day to explore the heart of old London.

Incidentally, while attempting to acquire as much experience at the least possible expense, I did a hearty justice to that breakfast so fortunately included in the blanket charge of seven shillings, sixpence, on the general theory that it would lighten the a la carte charges later in the day. Walking all day and late at night gives one a wonderful appetite and while undoubtedly my enthusiasm for jam and rolls and breakfast bacon turned the hair of my vinegar-faced landlady a deeper shade of red, I figured that it served her right for jumping by bill up a shilling just because it was Bank Holiday.

Thus sustained I would walk up Grosvenor street towards Hyde Park corner, veer off to the left on Victoria street past the great Victoria station and on along the angling street which in a general way paralleled the Thames river until it formed a junction with Whitehall, the great governmental street of England.

No modern city plan, such as Hitler is impressing on Berlin, has spoiled the tangled charm of the streets of old London. Consequently there has been built up no great wide modern avenue for purposes of state, and the city is the most interesting combination of modern progress and medieval, historic charm that I saw in Europe. Whitehall is nothing like the great state avenues, Unter Den Linden in Berlin and Champs d'Elysees in Paris. During the four days I spent in the city I went through it perhaps a dozen to twenty times, for it was directly on my way to the center of the city, but I remember very little about it. About midway from its beginning near Westminster Abbey and the Parliament buildings to Trafalgar square, the famous Downing street branched off. I made it a special order of business to see No. 10 Downing street, the most famous street address in the world. Here is the unpretentious residence where the English cabinet holds its meetings pictured in innumerable photographs in the past weeks as the scene of the momentous meetings deciding England's participation in world-shaking events.

Downing street is about as pretentious, relatively speaking, as Short street, Buchanan, and about as short. Bus loads of tourists disgorged at intervals down the street and gaped even as I did at the plain brick house, about three stories high if I remember, with a small plot of ragged grass a few yards square, inclosed by an iron railing. It was nothing to look at, but it gave me a more vivid sense of the reality of world events as I listened to radio reports and read newspaper accounts of the English cabinet meetings in September. My first and only disappointment worth mentioning in England was the fact that Westminster Abbey at the lower end of Whitehall was closed for repairs when I was there. That great tomb and church combined, occupying a position in London similar to that of the Pantheon and Notre Dame cathedral combined in Paris, was enclosed by a vast forest of scaffolding. The casual observer gathered a general idea that the British Empire was undergoing extensive repairs in a literal as well as in a figurative sense. My disappointment was at first deep as I stood outside the high board fence about the abbey, reading the sign: "Closed to Visitors, by order of the dean."

In fact I could hardly believe that the order was so binding that an American newspaper man could not circumvent it but a short chat with a gigantic, helmeted "Bobby" reassured me that the dean meant for me to stay out. The "Bobby" was more than kind about it, however, and escorted me around through the 1000-year old cloisters in the rear of the Abbey, relating to me the legends of the monks that dwelt therein, not a bit of which do I now remember. Since they would not let me see the tombs of Pitt, Wellington, Lord Byron, Tennyson and others I was not interested, comforting myself with the thought that after all there was not much sense anyway in mooning about among the graves of the dead dogs of England.

On up past the entrance of Downing street on Whitehall was the gate of St. James Park, where there was enacted daily the show of the changing of the guards of Buckingham palace. If any honest-to-God Britisher is reading this and checking some errors in my location of palaces and parks, I hereby freely concede him any satisfaction he gets, for I paid scarcely any attention to that show of royalty which is the false front of government in England, while the actual duling of the country goes on in a remarkably unpretentious way. From short loitering about the gate, and through St. James Park I gathered the impression that the public in England is indeed democratic and increasingly unimpressed by the spectacle of royal pomp. The guards at the gate wore the most pretentious uniforms I saw in Europe; their strutting was the most fantastic. It may have impressed the tourists; it did not seem to greatly impress the English. I saw ragged urchins slyly strutting in the wake of the gigantic guards, imping every movement while their companions watched with glee, and the passing citizenry look on with mingled curiosity and amusement.

More than all this pomp and heraldry of Empire I remember a poorly-dressed, middle-aged man, stumping about on a full length artificial leg, selling sets of postcards of the "changing of the guard." He was evidently one of those wrecks of the World War seen everywhere in England. Having learned by experience where courtesy was to be expected, I stepped up to him and asked him the way to the Hay market. "It's only a bit of a walk," he said, "and I want to go around that way myself. Come on, I'll show you." So he stumped several blocks with me and indicated the place. He was too much of a gentleman to be tipped, but to square things I bought a set of postcards for six pence. He seemed surprised and a little embarrassed. It was on beyond Trafalgar square on Regent street that I was looking for an old church. Baffled by the interlacing tangle I stood, evidently with a lost look on my face. A truck veered to the curb and stopped directly in front of me and a good natured-looking truck driver said, "Something you can't find, brother."

I told him and he told me and wheeled his truck back into the traffic, evidently having no other business there than to help a lost soul find itself. He was a better advertisement for the good manners of England, however, than a dozen courtesy campaigns.

While I searched through the tangles of streets in Old London, looking for this and that, I pestered the police, the "Bobbies" unmercifully, and only once did I encounter anything but the utmost patience. Then I was lost and going in circles and I encountered a cop who had directed me shortly before.

"I'll ask him over," I thought, "There's so many here he won't remember me."

But he did, and looked at me with an expression of wearied disgust.

"I just told you that," he said, "Now see if you can remember." (To be Continued)

Woods' Standard Service Station To Hold Grand Opening Saturday

Handsome Modernistic Structure of Glazed Tile Draws Much Attention

The grand opening of Woods' Standard Service Station in the fine new modernistic quarters at the corner of Main and Dewey avenue will take place Saturday, according to announcement by the manager, L. A. Woods.

Mr. Woods is very well known to Buchanan residents, having been associated with the Standard Oil company at the local bulk station for six years. He will be assisted by Bob Watson. Watson recently completed three years in training at the federal aviation school at Selfridge field, during which time he had extensive experience in handling gasoline and lubricating materials for airplanes, which should be of excellent use to him here.

The handsome modernistic style and materials of the new station have attracted much attention. The front is of white glazed tile trimmed in blue with the name of the station in raised red letters illuminated by indirect lighting. The interior of the station is of glazed tile and the sides and rear are of pressed brick. The building is equipped with air conditioning and with other modern features for the service, convenience and comfort of the public.

Edward Hess is the general contractor in charge of construction, with John Savoldi as the subcontractor in charge of the mason work. The plumbing and heating was installed by H. H. Banke. The W. J. Miller Lumber company furnished the lumber. Wiring and electrical work was done by Morley Myers. The Schoolcraft Sheet Metal Works furnished the roofing and materials for the air conditioning system.

Highlights of Grade Program

U. Chicago Professor Takes Pictures Eye Movements; Grades Have New Report Card

Pictures Eye Movements
Dr. G. T. Buswell, professor of psychology, from the University of Chicago was at school Monday to take some photographic eye movements of some of the grade children. This is one of the objective ways of finding out how children read. Some of the children will be given training in reading, using a reading film on which words are grouped into phrases. The idea is to see how this will effect their ability to improve in reading.

New Type Report Card
The grades have a different type of report card. For grade one, two, and three there will be an individual note. For grades four, five, and six there will be a check list plus an individual note. It is expected that these types of reports will give the parents a better idea of the child's social, physical, as well as academic life in school. These types of reports are used in many schools throughout the country.

Physical Exams
Dr. J. C. Strayer will at school Tuesday to give all children starting school a physical examination. The examination took place in Mrs. Lamb's office and included the looking over of tonsils, adenoids, ears and eyes, heart and lungs.

Etta Kett's Column

For Girls Only

If a girl has refused one boy's invitation for a dance, she must not accept another's invitation for the same dance.

It is the girl's privilege to stop dancing whenever she wishes to and ask to be taken to her seat.

A girl should never call to a boy on the street to attract his attention.

A girl should dress as inconspicuously as possible.

If your caller is a boy who has a tendency to stay late, it is not courteous to tell him that your parents prefer that your callers should not stay after ten o'clock.

For Boys Only

A boy should always thank the girl for the dance by saying, "Thank you for the dance."

A boy should never leave a girl alone on the dance floor. He should escort her to her seat. The only courteous way for the boy to leave it to say, "Will you please excuse me? I have the next dance."

It is discourteous for the boy to dance the entire evening with the same girl or the girl he brought, and it is equally bad to wander off to some secluded spot.

It is the boy's duty to see that the girl's program is arranged. He should always take the first and last dance, and the dance before and after refreshments.

The boy assists the girl with her bundles or carries her books.

B. H. S. Girl Drum Majors Look Chic

Buchanan High School has the best uniformed band in its school history. The maroon and white uniforms stand out like dark-colored flowers against the gold of the autumnal foliage. The flaring skirts of the girl drum majors look gay and collegiate—surely a grand inspiration for the team.

Due to the efforts of Mr. Robinson and the cooperation of the girls and boys, better music is being played.

Our five new cheerleaders have proved themselves worthy of the name. At pep meetings they have already established a new record of bringing up the house. The feminine half yells for "Peanuts," and the masculine half for "Cannonball."

F. F. A. Prepares For Farm Exhibit

The local Future Farmer chapter look 3rd prize in an educational exhibit which was held October 6, 7, and 8 at Berrien Springs. On Wednesday, October 12, the local chapter went to Three Oaks and Eau Claire to set up exhibits in the high schools.

Mr. Langer says "Preparations for the local fair, which will be held in the gymnasium at the high school, are well under way." He also states that the local chapter is expecting everyone to keep the dates, November 3 and 4, open so they might attend the fair.

Grade News

Miss Ekstrom—Fifth Grade
This week each child in the room has been given an individual timed test in the multiplication combinations to determine which ones were still unlearned. Speed as well as accuracy is necessary for fifth grade work. The children who need extra drill should be helped at home by an older member in the family until the required standard has been reached.

As the result of an editorial written for the Grade Tribune criticizing the condition of our playground, the two fifth grades have undertaken the task of thoroughly raking the playground.

The grade put on a sale selling milk and orange drink to raise money for Red Cross dues. The room will take a membership in the Red Cross and also join the Junior Red Cross.

Miss Spear—Fifth Grade
If by some accident all our trains, automobiles and airplanes should stop running some day, how would that change our ways of living?

That is the question we are thinking about in our study of transportation. We want to find out just how important transportation is to us and imagine if we had no cars, trains, ships or airplanes. We are going back in history to the primitive man who had no means of transporting his goods or himself and so carried his bundles on his back.

We are going to find our study of transportation very interesting as we follow its history in the next few weeks.

Miss Pelhank—Third Grade
Our story book Freize has been completed. There are scenes from "Alice-in-Wonderland," "Peter Pan," and "Pinocchio."

We have been making colorful designs from cut paper and crayons of materials collected for nature.

Thursday, October 13 we will have a poetry hour for the Mothers' Club.

Mrs. Fuller—Fourth Grade
The fourth grade have made a cut-paper border illustrating jungle life as art in correlation with their geography. Children who did something especially well in art class were given that part to do in the border.

Six new books are found on our reading table: "Antarctic Icebreakers" by Lorene Fox, "A Doll's Family Album" by Edna Knowles King, "How they Sent the News" by J. Walker McSpadden, "Azam" by Irvin S. Cobb, "The Swiss Twins" and "The Dutch Twins" by Lucy Fitch Perkins.

Miss Jeffery—Sixth Grade
Hadley Borders has moved to Sullivan, Indiana.

Miss Jeffery's room sold old iron and papers that we collected. We wish to thank everyone who helped us in this project. We are enjoying reading our new science books "Discovering Our World."

Joyce Morley and Phyllis Renbarger have been ill for several days.

Our progress in arithmetic work is shown on our "Arithmetic Skills" chart. Hadley Borders, Doris Fuller, and Wendal Hall have had perfect scores in all the lessons.

Dewey Avenue News

The kindergarten work shop has been making boats and aeroplanes from orange crates, and now are making a train of cars from cheese boxes.

First Grade Dental Honor Roll: Earl Ditto, Vernell Green, Wayne Mann, Leslie Mangus, Flossie Mollberg, Donna Lee Mathie, Phyllis Postlewaite, Patty Jean Weaver.

Vernell Green brought a peanut plant, that she grew in her garden this summer, for the children to see.

The second grade is working on a large chalk poster for a background for our farm. Billy Ferris is making the cornfield, Sharon Davis the trees and grass, Schuyler Hinman the sky, and Arthur Backus, Dorothy Brown, and Noel Noggle, the animals.

The following names are on the Third grade Dental Honor Roll: Donald Clemens, Roscoe Coleman, Franklin Green, Wilma Green, Donald Gray, Donna Gowland, George Hawkins, Ruby Mikesell, Donald O'Bryant, Joanne Renbarger, Emily Elkins, Delores Sherwood, John Spatta, Jane Walter.

Merlin Noggle brought us a cotton plant and some sugar cane for our specimen case.

Our Christmas cactus is in bloom. It has six pink buds almost ready to open.

In the special room many of our caterpillars have spun cocoons. We also have some sugar cane on our nature table. Joan Samson brought us a pumpkin Jack-o' lantern. The following people have had perfect attendance for this grading period: Jr. Gregory, Vera Heckathorne, Evelyn Liska, Joan Samson, Billy Stark, Ted Thurston, Bonnie Young, and Kenneth Clemens.

The people whose names appear on our dental honor roll are: Jr. Gregory, Vera Heckathorne, Richard Karp, Betty Jane McCarty, Joan Samson, Charles Stroud, and Bonnie Young.

The fourth grade citizenship committee gives wise, constructive criticisms.

Willis Hurley, Dewey Mollberg, Lemont Renterghen, and Lloyd Dokey are very active in raising money for our Red Cross Fund.

News of Week in Girls' Athletics

Bicycle Hike
Members of the G. A. A. enjoyed a bicycle hike to Clear Lake Monday after school. All arrived home about seven-thirty. The comments on the hike the next day were, "Oh! my legs!"

G. A. A. Pins
A G. A. A. meeting was held Monday afternoon in Miss Henry's office. It was voted that the club should send for some G. A. A. pins. The pins are maroon with gold letters. Members are anxiously awaiting their arrival.

Girls' Soccer Champions
"Quit shoving! You don't need the whole field." This was the story that reached the ears of any passersby as the second hour gym class played the fifth hour class Tuesday night, October 11. The fifth hour class was the champion by a score of two to nothing.

Last week the playgrounds of both schools were equipped with teeter-totters.

A county superintendents and principals meeting was held in the high school on October 17.

Color Lovers
Beautifully colored rather than fragrant flowers are a greater attraction to butterflies, whose sight is keener than their sense of smell.

And so beside the silent sea
I wait the muffled oar,
No harm from him can come to me
On ocean or on shore.

I know not where His islands lift
Their fringed palms in air,
I only know I can not drift Beyond His love and care.

It looks like Five Years from Now!

THE vast Buick factory is a grand place to visit, these days.

Down the roaring aisles, throughout the sprawling bays there's a sense of great things happening.

They're building something ultra, here at Buick, and they know it.

It looks like five years from now, they'll say of this dazzling 1939 Buick, and they're not talking of appearance only.

They're talking of "catwalk-cooling" that floods air under forced draft to ease the temperature of your engine.

They're talking of BuCoil springing and the soft shock-smothering spirals that give you the true "full float" ride.

They're talking of that Dynaflex great eight engine, instant with life and wringing good from every drop of fuel.

They're talking of weight-balance and gravity-center that hold you to your line-of wheels that camber to let you take the curves more safely—of new visibility—up to 413 square inches more glass in SPECIAL and CENTURY models.

They're talking a thousand and one details of Buick that you'll never know nor need to know but that to their schooled eyes spell a better built automobile. And they're thinking of now as they talk.

For they know that no car sells spectacularly when it's merely up-to-date. They know that for big years a car has to be ahead—that a car which looks like the future means better times for today.

You can see this car they're talking of at the nearest Buick showroom.

When you do see it, think of what the men who built it are saying, not boastfully, but with quiet sureness.

They know. And they're saying "Looks fine for '39!"

"...to find a better thing or a better way"

An 1884 scene in the Bell Laboratories, birthplace of telephone progress.

Scene in the modern Bell Laboratories.

Back of the high quality of telephone service you enjoy today in Michigan is the group of several thousand scientists and experts in the Bell Telephone Laboratories and at the headquarters of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, whose sole job it is "to find a better thing or a better way."

The telephone employees who are engaged day by day in maintaining a high standard of telephone service are doing their part, and a most important part, in increasing the quality and keeping down the cost of service; but progress is assured by having a large group of scientists and experts devoted exclusively to seeking ways and means of making the service better and cheaper.

'UNCLE SAM' WAS REAL CHARACTER

Jackson's Men First Used Name in War of 1812.

DALEVILLE, MISS.—The man believed to have been the original "Uncle Sam" is soon to be memorialized by a national pilgrimage to his grave. Walton, director of the Gen. Sam Dale Historical society, has been gathering data from musty records and manuscripts for the last five years.

Now Walton has come to the conclusion that Gen. Andrew Jackson's men, on their way to New Orleans to fight the final battle of the War of 1812, were the first to refer to "Uncle Sam" as a symbol of the United States.

According to old records found in Georgia, a company of Jackson's men on their way to New Orleans were crossing Dale's ferry on the Alabama river. A second company arrived while the first company was eating and wanted to know where it could get some rations.

"From Uncle Sam yander," the coonskin-capped Tennessee mountaineers yelled, pointing to General Dale. Later, at New Orleans, the soldiers referred affectionately to the old Indian fighter and scout as "Uncle Sam."

After the War of 1812, soldiers carried back home stories of "Uncle Sam" and his generosity. From this, the government became known as "Uncle Sam," according to Walton's theory.

The completed dike will be 34 miles long. It is expected that the area will be under cultivation by 1948. The dike will be ready in 1940 and water will be pumped out the next year.

The director of this project, Dr. Debloq van Kuffeler, explained that the present work is easier than at earlier stages. The barrier dike, begun in 1926 and completed in 1932, runs for 22 miles across the Zuider Zee. This body of water became Yssel lake. The depth had been decreased from 80 feet to 12 feet below sea level at present stage of operations.

The total cost of the project has been set at $80,000,000.

'Monkey Diet' Offered As Aid to Longer Life

BUFFALO.—Go on a "monkey diet" if you would live to be ninety years old.

This suggestion is made by the dietitians at Buffalo's zoo, who claim that meals prepared by them have quipped the simians' life span. And they declare, it ought to produce the same results for humans.

"Many monkeys have never known a sick day in their lives since they have lived on our special diet," one keeper declared.

"They live on vegetables and fruit. The diet never changes. And it is the same diet human beings should follow if they want to live beyond the average span."

"Some of the monkeys have reached the age of 35. The usual age of monkeys in captivity is seven years. This prolonged life is equal to ninety to one hundred years in the life of a human."

Starved Rock a State Park—Starved Rock State park, covering an area of 800 acres, stretches for four miles along the Illinois river, 90 miles southwest of Chicago. Its crowning feature is Starved rock, rising 140 feet out of the river.

ANCIENT CASTLES ABOUND IN FRANCE

Many Chateaus Leased by Wealthy Americans.

PARIS.—A "chateau census" just completed by the French government offers proof that France holds the world's record for ancient castles and palaces, both in quantity and quality. It boasts 761 chateaus, with or without fortifications, dating back to the days when knight-hood was in flower.

Of this number, 539 castles and 33 palaces are in a good state of preservation, while the others either have fallen or are falling into ruin. Not included in the unusual census are 13 fortified churches and one fortified cathedral, the latter the Cathedral of Palavas-les-Flots on the Mediterranean, a structure which has resisted time and tempest for 1,000 years and is now serving as a parish church. There is also a fortified mill at Nerac, Lot-et-Garonne, where Henry IV, when king of Navarre, used to hold his court before he ascended the French throne.

Touraine Richest in Type.
The touraine region, "Garden of France," is the richest in palaces and chateaus of regal type. Unlike the quantity of Burgundy castles built primarily for war in the days of armored knight, the Touraine castles were elegant residences for princes. Their narrow loopholes for defense gave place to wide windows, and their sentries could pace in magnificent terrace gardens.

One of the castles, that of Pierrefonds, was restored during the Second Empire and served for a while as a home for Napoleon III. Castles of the Dordogne region are all of ancient medieval type, having been built to receive and to give hard knocks. Many of them were built by the English in the days of Edward III and the Black Prince, and to travel in Dordogne is to wander back into ancient history when England and France were exchanging blows instead of bouquets.

Legends for Each Chateau.
Legends, ghost stories and varied folklore accompany each chateau, although it may not have been inhabited for centuries. Many of the old castles and fortresses have become the homes of wealthy Americans, Indian maharajas and retired business men of all nations. Ambassador William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, recently leased the Chateau Firmin, not far from Paris, for a week-end home.

Blind and Deaf Girl, Age 6, Learns to Talk

EVANSTON, ILL.—Six-year-old Joan Higgins is laboriously learning to speak her forty-first word. The only reason that is news is because Joan is blind and deaf. Until a year ago, she could not talk. Now her vocabulary includes 40 words and she rapidly is learning more.

Abandoned by her parents when she was an infant, Joan was for four and one-half years a charge of Cook county hospital. Then a private home was found for her and for the past year and a half she has been a protégé of Prof. Robert Gault, Northwestern university psychologist, under whose painstaking speech training she at last is learning to use her voice.

A year ago, Joan spoke her first word, which was not "mama" but "go." Before that, she had expressed herself only with babyish squeals and grunts. Unable to hear a human voice or see the moving lips of another person, she could not sense speech differences or the use of her vocal organs.

Under Gault's supervision, and in a home with other children to play with and learn from—largely by the sense of touch, Professor Gault thinks—she now knows the names of the things about her, can ask for her food, play with blocks, and is beginning to group her few words into simple, hesitant sentences.

Farmer 'Blue' for Years Is Still Able to Smile

BATON ROUGE, LA.—Sidney Woods, farmer living near here, has been blue for the last seven years. His body lost its natural color after he took silver nitrate for a stomach ailment. During warm weather the blue tone is intensified by the heat.

Woods has become accustomed to his condition and even declined to take a treatment which might have restored him to normal. There was, however, a chance that instead of being successful, the treatment would have left him with several other colors.

His temperament is cheerful and he's used to being questioned about the change. Woods held a public position at the time of his illness, but quit because his new appearance frightened people.

Drops $29 in Change And Gets It All Back

CHICAGO.—There was plenty of excitement when a man dropped $29 in nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars in the crowded lobby of a Loop bank.

Scores of persons picked up the coins as they rolled to all corners of the lobby. The picker-uppers were honest. A counting machine showed return of the $29.

AUTOIST TOURING U. S. IN 1904 CAR

Claims Doing by Land What Corrigan Did by Air.

CARSON CITY, NEV.—When it comes to "crates," George C. Green of Lambertville, N. J., insists that he is doing by land what Douglas C. Corrigan did by air, when the latter flew his "crate" from New York to Dublin.

Green arrived here in a single cylinder, curved dash Oldsmobile, 1904 model which he bought for $165 in 1907 when it was three years old. He is touring the United States in it.

The car is 34 years old and Green has had it in his possession since he was 21. He is now 52. Green, who is the proprietor of a small machine shop at Lambertville, gave his "crate" a complete overhauling early this year, and together with his wife started out to see America.

The first leg of their journey took them to Niagara Falls. Then they crossed to Canada and returned to the United States at Detroit. They have since kept on going until they reached here and departed for the Pacific coast. Altogether they hope to cover 7,000 miles.

Green does not know how far he has driven the car in the 31 years he has owned it, but thinks from 1,000 to 2,000 miles annually. It has a speed of 30 miles and runs 28 on a gallon of gasoline. He can only carry five gallons, so stops are frequent. The wheels are fitted with motorcycle tires.

The reactions of people who pass him on the road—he never succeeds in passing them—are different, he said.

Pursued by Wild Buffalo, Coolie Leaps to Safety

SINGAPORE.—A Malay coolie, pursued by a wild buffalo, leaped over a 20-foot cliff in British Malaya and was not injured. The buffalo, leaping after him, was killed. The story is told in the annual report of the government survey department of British Malaya.

The coolie was carrying a box containing a heavy theodolite when he was pursued across the rice fields by the buffalo. The coolie placed the box carefully on the ground and ran, with the buffalo gradually gaining. It was within a few feet when suddenly the path along which both were running stopped abruptly with a 20-foot drop to the ground below. There was no question of stopping. Over went the coolie, followed by the buffalo. The coolie fell on his head and was stunned, and when he came to there was the buffalo lying dead beside him.

'Baby Loans' Received by 30,502 Couples in Italy

ROME.—In 10 months since the inauguration of "baby loans," designed to increase the birth rate, the Fascist government has advanced more than $2,800,000 to 30,502 married couples who want children but can't afford them. The effect of these loans on the birth rate cannot be determined yet because the first loans were only granted in August of last year. But Fascist officials are confident the natality chart will register a sharp upward rise.

The loans, varying from $2 to $155, are restricted to couples under 28 years of age who are not earning more than $830 annually. The loans are repayable over a number of years, with the stipulation that the payments would be reduced with the birth of each child.

Farmers Enjoy Music; Pianos in Many Homes

WASHINGTON.—That music has a large place in the American farm home was shown in a survey by the department of agriculture.

The survey disclosed 16,774 interviewed farm families owned approximately 25,000 radios, pianos and phonographs. More than half of that number were radios.

The percentage of farm ownership of radios ranged from a low of one-half of 1 per cent among Georgia and Mississippi Negro sharecroppers to 94 per cent among West Coast farmers.

Italy Plans Motorists' Paradise in Ethiopia

ROME.—The "hell-hole" of creation will soon be a motorists' paradise, if Mussolini's plans are completed.

Over 1,400 miles of macadam roads are now being laid down in Italy's new African imperial colonies, according to a report made by the Italian ministry of public works.

The first stretch to be inaugurated will be "Victory Highway" which follows the line of march taken by Marshal Badoglio when he ploughed through the Negus' army to Addis Ababa, two years ago. This road will connect the capital with Asmara, chief city of the Eritrean province, and Massau, Red sea port.

Exportation of Spiders In Jelly Now Planned

LONDON.—British chemists are experimenting with new methods of preserving spiders in jelly for export to the East. Many eastern races believe that by swallowing spiders they can be cured of ague, malaria and other diseases. They are particularly impressed by species of spiders with which they are unfamiliar.

Scout School Opens in Twin Cities Oct. 20

The annual training course for all those interested in the Scout movement opens Thursday night of this week in the Benton Harbor Junior High school at 7:30 p. m. The courses made available this year by the Council training committee are: Elements of Scout Leadership, which teaches the methods used in presenting the Scout program to boys. Troop camping, a course given to familiarize all leaders with the requirements for week ends, as well as long term camps. The advanced American Red Cross First Aid course, the Junior American Red Cross First Aid course, Elements of Sea Scouts, Elements of Cubbing and Patrol Leadership.

The time on each Thursday evening will be divided into two sections. Students in the courses can take two different studies each evening. This applies to all courses except the Advanced First Aid, which requires two hours on each night.

The training school operates on each Thursday evening up to and including December 15th. Those completing the courses receive certificates from the National headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America. The credits for Scout Leaders are applied on the Scoutmaster's key—a coveted award amongst the volunteer leadership of Scouting.

In the past years over a hundred men have attended the courses and it is expected this year that the enrollment will be increased. There is no charge for the training course and the Council offers this privilege not only to those connected with Scouting, but others who are interested in youth.

Many in Favor Court Amendment

The Michigan League of Women Voters has been added to an impressive list of organizations which have endorsed the proposed constitutional amendment to take the Michigan Supreme Court out of politics. The League, at its recent convention at Saginaw, endorsed the amendment by an overwhelming vote. Endorsement has also been received from the executive committee of the Michigan State Grange, Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs, the executive committee of the Michigan State Medical Society, the Board of Commissioners of the State Bar of Michigan, and many other civic, professional and fraternal organizations. The amendment will be number two on the November ballot.

The Supreme Court amendment is sponsored by a state-wide non-partisan committee of 161 business and civic leaders. John W. Miner of Jackson is chairman of the committee and George E. Brand of Detroit is chairman of the executive committee which is actively conducting the campaign for passage of the amendment. The committee received enthusiastic cooperation in every part of the state in securing the necessary signatures to place the amendment on the ballot. Although 175,000 signatures were required, nearly 300,000 Michigan voters signed the petitions for the amendment which were filed with the Secretary of State.

The amendment provides that instead of being nominated by party conventions controlled by politicians, henceforth candidates for the Michigan Supreme Court shall be nominated by a non-partisan judicial commission composed of three judges, three lawyers and three laymen. The amendment effectively insulates the judiciary commission against partisan influences by requiring:

First: The members of the commission are selected by five independent agencies: the Supreme Court, the circuit court judges, the probate court judges, the governor, and the Board of Commissioners of the State Bar of Michigan.

Second: The three year terms of members of the judiciary commission are staggered and no member can serve two successive terms.

Third: The lawyer and laymen members of the judiciary commission cannot hold any other political office and not more than two of each group can belong to the same political party.

The amendment further provides that the selection as between nominees for the Court shall be made by the governor rather than by the electorate.

In a nut shell, the amendment provides for nominations of Supreme Court justices by a carefully selected commission insured against politics, instead of by the politicians controlling party political conventions, and it further provides that the electorate delegates to the governor the right of final selection as between nominees.

The Truth at Last

Some New Dealers charge that while I criticize the present Administration, I offer nothing constructive.

Consistently, in Congress and out, I fought the New Deal's extravagance and waste, the use of relief funds for political purposes, corruption in public office; advocated protection for the workers, adequate pensions for the aged and the unfortunate, proper relief administered by local authorities for those who needed it; for almost six months, practically alone on the floor I carried on the battle for the American Federation of Labor and the individual worker against the CIO and the Communists. All these acts were constructive.

I voted against the reorganization bill, against the attempt to pack the Supreme Court. My opponent evidently thinks that was not constructive; as a 100% New Dealer, he would support those measures when they come up again.

My opponent and some New Dealers seem to think that nothing is constructive unless it means the imposition of additional taxes upon the already over-burdened worker, the giving of more relief funds to some political boss to use for political purposes.

More than a year and four months ago, on the floor of the House I charged that the Communists were in control of the CIO.

Attention was called to the fact that the civil rights of men who lived by their daily toil, the right to earn a livelihood for themselves and their families, was being taken from them by the wrecking crews of John L. Lewis and his CIO.

It was then pointed out that State and Federal laws were being violated; that property was being destroyed; that whole communities were being thrown upon the relief roll, through the unlawful activities of Lewis.

On the floor of Congress I called upon the President to carry out his oath of office, to obey the Federal statute which required him as Chief Executive to prevent violence and riots, to suppress rebellion and anarchy; to give protection to the citizen and his property.

My plea was ignored. The charge that Communists sought to overthrow law and order, to take over industry, to bring about civil strife, was laughed at. A high state official said I was "dreaming dreams" and having a nightmare.

The week of October 10, the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled solemnly declared, in answer to President Roosevelt's demand that it make peace with John L. Lewis, that it would make no peace with dictatorship or Communist leadership. Thus it expressed again its patriotic Americanism, its determination to refuse to bargain with those Communists who would destroy not only the A. F. of L. but our form of government. It charged what we all know to be the fact, that the President and the NLRB have consistently favored the CIO, the Communists who control it, against the A. F. of L.

Re-elected to Congress, in the future as in the past, always will I be on guard to protect the right of the worker, not only against oppression from employer, but from exploitation by labor racketeers, by Communists, by those who would use him for their own political advancement.

Always will I be alert to recognize and to meet the efforts of those who, politically ambitious, would use those powers which the President said had been "returned to Washington," to place "shackles upon the liberties" of the citizen.

For the preservation of our form of government, for the right of Congress to make laws, the right of the Courts to interpret those laws and the duty of the executive to enforce them, I will ever fight.

Sincerely yours,
CLARE E. HOFFMAN.

Mich. Bell Observes Anniversary of The First Telephone Exchange

Only 100 Telephones in State 60 Years Ago; Now 900 in Local Exchange

Telephone people here and throughout Michigan are joining in an informal observance of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the state's first telephone exchange and the issuance of its first telephone directory, both of which occurred in Detroit in the early fall of 1878.

Sixty years ago there were less than 100 telephones in the state, all of them in Detroit; there were only a few hundred in the entire world, all of them in this country.

Today, there are more than 900 in the Buchanan exchange, alone. Michigan today is served by three-

Activities of the company were confined, until the summer of 1878, to the construction of private telephone lines rather than exchanges. The two or three telephones on one line could not be connected with those on another. Single iron wires that extended over the roofs, or were attached to trees, were used. Messenger boys were employed as operators, but in 1880 were replaced by girls because of the latter's greater "patience and general adaptability." And the first telephone directories contained no numbers, calls being placed by the names of the called parties.

Subscribers on one line began to ask for connections with those on other lines, and the idea of an quarters of a million telephones, of which the Michigan Bell Telephone Company operates $60,000 in 252 towns and cities. The lines of the Michigan Bell and of the Bell System make available to every local telephone, connections with 35,000,000 others in 70 countries.

Here, as at Detroit, the first telephone was thought of, perhaps, much as were the first crude radio sets of 20 years ago—an interesting experiment. Therefore, at first, telephone service was not much in demand and it was some time before many names were added to the lists of the venture. Some first few subscribers. Among those, listed in the 1938 telephone directory here possibly are some few of those connected with the local exchange upon its establishment.

The first telephones were brought to Michigan in 1877 by W. A. Jackson, a telegraph operator. He and associates he had interested, secured what is said to have been the first license contract the Bell interests ever made to operate telephone service, and organized the Telephone & Telegraph Construction Company, forerunner of the Michigan Bell Company.

exchange was born. In the summer of 1878, a canvass was made for customers for exchange service, and a small switchboard was installed in a basement room. There were 73 subscribers, only 53 of whom had their lines connected with the central office.

The Telephone & Telegraph Construction Company itself, or by subcontracting local people, also was instrumental in establishing exchanges at other points in the state. Then came a "natural demand for inter-city connections, and the state's first long distance line was built from Detroit to Port Huron, in 1881. At the time it was the longest long distance line in the world. Long distance lines connecting other points followed rapidly.

That, briefly, was the beginning of the development of the state's telephone system, the 60th anniversary of which is being noted quietly by Michigan telephone men and women. To them it is an important event, for they believe they are supplying their communities, and there state, with a necessary service, telephone service of a quality that is unexcelled anywhere in the world.

Buchanan Leads in Candle Sales

Stuart B. White of Niles to be Speaker at Anniversary Dinner at Madron

In compiling the sales of birthday candles for the Council birthday anniversary cake it was revealed today that District No. 6, with Buchanan as the headquarters, edged into first place. District No. 4 with Three Oaks as the headquarters, moved up into second place. Third place is held by District No. 1, with Benton Harbor as the headquarters. Fourth place was taken by District No. 5, with Cassopolis as the headquarters. Niles, District No. 3, holds fifth place. St. Joseph, District No. 2, holds sixth place, and Dowagiac, District No. 7 holds seventh place.

Candles are selling very rapidly now, both to those connected with Scouting and those interested in the movement. Many industries, clubs, organizations, and sponsoring institutions are purchasing one or more candles. A handsome plaque will be mounted in the building with the names alphabetically arranged of all who have contributed to make the building possible. In checking contributions today it was found that a Chinese troop of Boy Scouts have purchased candles in order that they may be represented in the plaque.

In announcing the program to-day the Area office advised that they secured Stuart B. White of Niles to make anniversary address, and conduct the ceremony for the breaking of ground for the new building on the day of the party. Assisting Mr. White in the special ceremony will be a Sea Scout, a Land Scout, and a Scouter. Each of these will be selected because of their standing in Scouting and their standing in Scouting and birthday candles. Chairman Morris G. McGawn has contributed the nickel plated spade which will be used in the ceremony.

Commodore Jack Gardner of the Sea Scout division, and the Sea Scout Ship of the Area, will conduct a special drill, inspection and flag ceremony at 2:30 p. m. Immediately following the ceremony will be special sports, including sailing, horse shoe pitching, ball games, treasure hunt, and tours about the Scout reservation in charge of the birthday committee members. Promptly at 4 o'clock the birthday celebration proper will take place on the spot where the new building is to be erected. This will be in charge of Mr. McGawn, chairman of the birthday committee, assisted by Mrs. Louis C. Upton, president of the Council.

Immediately after the ceremony all those attending the birthday celebration will go to the administration building. There under the direction of Mrs. Fred Upton, chairman of the Hostess committee, the cutting of the mammoth birthday cake will take place. Mrs. Upton will announce the members of her committee in the very near future. The dining hall is to be especially decorated for the occasion, and the cake with three thousand candles will be the center of the attraction. The cake is to be seven feet long, three feet wide, and approximately 2½ feet high.

During the last week of October invitations will be sent out to all those who have contributed to the candle party, and it is expected that hundreds of people will visit the camp on that day.

Under the direction of Troop No. 43, Stevensville, a special program of drum and bugle corps music will be played during the afternoon for the different ceremonies. To make the program more effective the fall camporee of the Council is being staged the afternoon before the birthday party, which is to close at 2 o'clock preceding the birthday celebration—this will bring several boys to the camp overnight and they will be there ready for the party Sunday.

The following is another list of contributors to the birthday candle fund.
