No matter how hot the campaign gets, remember it don't prove nuthin' fer anybody to call any-buddy else names.

To A Boy

You'll never learn it quicker—
The thing you have to learn;
You need a steady ticker;
You have no strength to burn.

Don't let your eye go slower,
Don't let your nerve go slack,
But hunch a little lower
And watch that quarterback!

The other line is bigger
Their backs are better picked,
And lightning on the trigger—
But still they can be licked.

With grim eyed pluck for mentor
With nerve for roving guard
And watchfulness for center,
They fight the battle hard.

You'll never learn it quicker—
The thing you have to learn;
You need a steady ticker;
You have no strength to burn.

And there's no free salvation,
And nary way to peace
Save by a combination
Of brains and elbow grease.

Produces Play in Hollywood Theatre

The following clipping from a Los Angeles paper deals with a play written by Robert Geyer, formerly of Buchanan, and produced by him in a Hollywood theatre:

Troupeteers Present New Hollywood Escapade

A frisky little piece, forged about mistaken identities and frustrated social desires, and written with real continental esprit, despite its Hollywood locale, is "Escapade, Detour" by Robert Porter Geyer, produced by The Troupeteers and now running at the Beethoven Studio Theater, Franklin and Kenmore avenues. Whimsical and piquant, with a charming young German prince, a temperamental American heiress, a daring French maid and an adventurous valet, engaging in a gay quadrangular romantic episode, the play proves to be as fresh as paint.

The thing is polished off with celerity and a jaunty denouement which strikes well the gay tone of the affair. It is clever and intricate in writing, and in the delicate zest of its intrigue. The repartee is provocative, and the characters are drawn with conviction and charm.

As the gallivanting valet, hero of the skittish adventuring, Richard Rose purveyed no end of magnetism and charm. He has a nice gift for comedy, and is decidedly motion picture material. Harlan Thomas gave a splendid and amusingly punctuated characterization as the testy father. Doris Deane proved her individual comedy talents in a colorful and dithery portrait of the hoity-toity mother. Robert Geyer exhibited zest and excellent acting talents as the philandering prince. Evelyn Dille played with grace and nice appreciation of the scene. Norma Deal gave an animated account of the saucy maid who impersonates her mistress.

The setting by Robert Geyer was smartly attuned to the affair. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benak, a daughter, at their home west of Buchanan Saturday, Oct. 22. The little girl has been named Mildred May.

7,250 Bottles Served Last Year

Milk Bottles Placed in All Public Places for Contributions

Buchanan residents who notice the milk bottles stationed in business houses of the city by the P. T. A. will bear in mind that they are intended for contributions to the milk fund for the benefit of undernourished pupils of the Buchanan schools.

Last year the milk bottle idea was tried for the first time, so successfully that the drive was concluded long before the time limit set.

Mrs. Reba Lamb, school nurse, has prepared the following statement:

Seven Thousand Given Away

For several winters the P. T. A. has sponsored the serving of milk in the local schools. Undernourished children are given a half pint bottle at recess time. Last winter it cost $145.58 for 6 months during which 7,279 bottles were given away.

To supply this program this winter will cost approximately the same amount. Milk bottles are now placed in all public places. Drop in your change—that two cents will mean a bottle of milk for some youngster who needs it.

This is for you a most satisfying charity. None of your money goes for administration and there is no chance of waste.

Buchanan Victor Over Coloma 20-7

Maroons Swamp Fighting
Coloma Team, Which Scores on Local Reserves in Last Period

The Buchanan Bucks defeated the Coloma eleven last Saturday afternoon 20-7. They out-classed the visitors from start to finish, had the ball in Coloma territory most of the game. The visitors made their single touchdown in the last few minutes of the game after Coach Miller had sent in the reserves. Buchanan's defense was very good in the first half but they were held to one touchdown by Coloma. In the second half the Bucks came to life and scored twice and held the visitors far back in their own territory until the reserves came into the game.

Buchanan started their first touchdown drive in the first few minutes of play when Coloma kicked to Buchanan's 15 yard line and Leiter took it up his own 45 yard line. He also made a fair gain on a reverse and Beadle went around left end for a gain. Leiter found a hole in the line and took the ball clear down to Coloma's 5 yard line. Best plunged through the line for the 5 yards to score, and Leiter made the kick good for the extra point. The Bucks held the visitors back in their own territory but failed to score again in the first half.

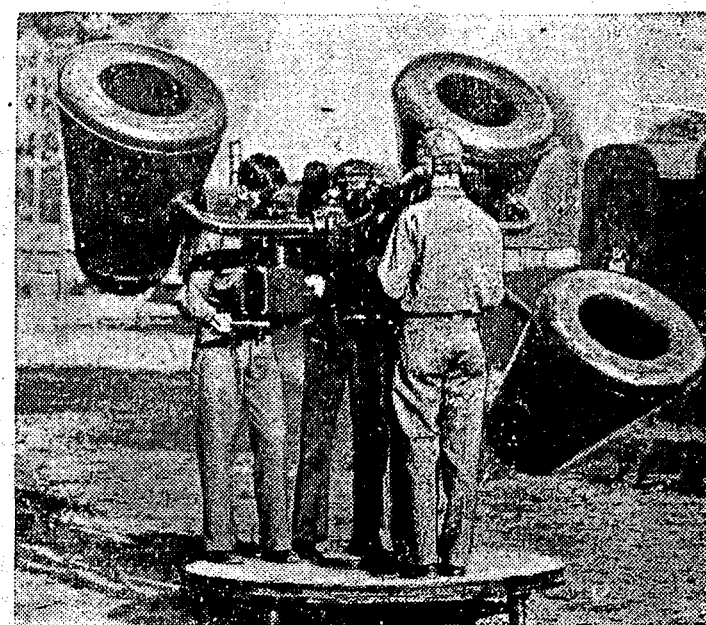

The visitors came close to scoring in the third period when Leiter fumbled on his own 20 yard line and it was recovered by Coloma but the Bucks succeeded in holding them from scoring. Buchanan pushed the ball up to the visitors 12 yard line at the end of the third quarter. At the start of the last period Hanover took the ball up to the 3 yard line and Beadle went over for the touchdown, but Leiter failed to make the kick good for the extra point. On a reverse Leiter threw a pass to Simpson who raced fifty yards for a touchdown, and Leiter topped it off by making the kick good for the extra point. When Coach Miller had sent in the reserves they were forced to kick from the end zone and Coloma took the kick from the Bucks' 20 for their single touchdown. They also made the kick good for the extra point.

At the end of the game the ball up to their own 45 yard line but the ending of the game prevented them from going any farther.

Mr. Larry Smith has been quite ill recently at her home on Terre Coupe road.

"Ears" of Anti-Aircraft Artillery

Photograph shows one of the new streamlined sound detectors the army tested during the air corps and aircraft defense maneuvers in North Carolina. The listening horns are made of balsa wood with rounded edges and a cellulose acetate covering. They have no greater hearing power than the old style, but are more effective in shutting out all but plane noises. Thus searchlights and guns of the anti-aircraft batteries can be trained more efficiently on attacking planes.

Mrs. Sarah Most Dies at 92 Years

Pioneer of Galien District
Had Spun Clothes, Dipped
Candles in Early Life

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday from the Kenney funeral home at Gallen for Mrs. Sarah Most, 92, a pioneer of the Galien community and a resident of Buchanan a part of the time since the death of her husband, John W. Most, in 1908.

Rev. J. W. McKnight of the L. D. S. church was in charge of the funeral rites and burial was made in the Galien cemetery.

Mrs. Most had been gravely ill most of the summer lying ill for weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. W. Johnson. However about a month ago she made what seemed to be a remarkable rally and was able to get up, going to visit her daughter, Mrs. H. J. Stoner of Galien. Soon however she failed again. She died at the Stoner home Friday.

She had been active in the L. D. S. church 61 years. While living in Buchanan the Sarah Most club had been named in her honor.

She was born at Almyer, Ontario, Can., Jan. 28, 1846, and came to LaPeer, Mich., when a young woman of 24. There she married John W. Most and they made their home in a log cabin, where she added to the family income by spinning their own wool and weaving garments for lumberjacks and cloth by the yard for her neighbors. She owned the first sewing machine and one of the first kerosene oil lamps at LaPeer. For years after her marriage she made an annual supply of candles when the beef for the family was killed. She came to Gallen with her family in 1887, and they settled on a farm in the timber, which Mr. Most cleared. She is survived by six children: Mrs. L. W. Johnson and Mrs. C. V. Glover of Buchanan; Mrs. H. J. Stoner and Chester Most of Galien, Frank Most, of Tacoma, Wash., and Charles Most, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

A CANDIDACY TO CONSIDER

It is never advisable these days editorially or personally, to advise on the direction of vote casting unless one has much time and breath to waste, but the Record does take this occasion to recommend that the residents of the community consider carefully the merits of the candidacy of Atty. B. R. Desenberg for re-election as circuit court commissioner.

Mr. Desenberg has spent his life in Buchanan with a favorable credit balance of good report. It is of some convenience to the community and to the southern part of the county as a whole to have a circuit court commissioner in the south end. In this instance we believe it would be fair enough to consider our convenience and our good feeling toward a neighbor rather than strictly partisan considerations.

MEAD PARK?

In a casual conversation in a group of local men recently, the suggestion was made "off the record" that Athletic Park should be renamed in honor of the late Fred Mead, in view of his long service in the promotion of sports here.

The writer does not know the history of the promotion of Athletic Park. Those who do know it have said that Mead's part was very large. Moreover, anyone who can and will manage a small town baseball club for 20 years, producing creditable teams year in and year out, must be gifted with unusual patience and devotion to sport. This Mead did and it is not likely that his record in that respect can be matched by any other. His interest in sport was maintained to the last. To a friend who visited him as he was dropping into the last semi-consciousness not long before he died he murmured in half recognition: "Well, they just can't beat those Yanks."

Nor apparently could Fred's sport interest be extinguished by circumstance.

"I GOT MY LIMIT"

The strong instinct of the average man to fare afoot with dog and gun these fall days is a most natural one with its roots far back in his heredity, and the value of the sport to his health (when moderately pursued) and his peace of mind is not to be denied.

But the work of the Boy Scout organization in instilling into its membership a regard for wild life and its preservation points the opposite side of the picture. Recently a Buchanan man who has enjoyed hunting all his life had this to say:

"I always got so much fun from hunting myself that I wanted my two boys to be sportsmen. So when they were just little shavers I got them rifles and went out with them myself to teach them how to use a gun and how to get the game. For several years they enjoyed it. Then they became interested in Boy Scout work. It wasn't long after that they began to lose interest in hunting. The teachings of the Scout leaders had shown them the danger of extinction of wild life. Now they never hunt at all."

A local hunter-phrased his ideas as follows:
"I like to go out hunting for ducks, pheasants or whatever the season is open on, but a bird or so satisfies me. I can't see the idea of being determined to bring back my limit just so I can lord it over the other boys. If they would all see it that way there would be less danger of the entire destruction of the water fowl."

Offsetting the deeds of the boys who have to have their limit is the fine work being done at the Harold Swift farm at Lakeside, where a large number of wood ducks have been gathered, for propagation purposes. A fine collection of water fowl from all over the world has been assembled at the Swift farm.

NO ROOM FOR DESTRUCTION

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, one of the largest retail chain enterprises in the world, has issued a statement of great importance on the pending Patman anti-chain store tax bill—a bill which, according to economists, would force the large interstate chain systems out of business almost immediately.

The two Hartford brothers, owners of the A. & P., point out that their personal interest in this controversy is insignificant. They pay more than 80 per cent of their earnings to government in taxes, and when they die, inheritance taxes on any accrued profits will probably amount to 66 per cent, which leaves little motive for continued personal service—they could retire and live on their savings in comfort.

But vitally important is the interest of the consumer, the farmer, and labor. The A. & P. system employs 85,000 workers, many of whom have devoted all their working lives to the company. If the company is forced to disband, some of these workers will of course find employment elsewhere—but in the meantime, there must be great privation among them, and permanent hardship for many.

The A. & P., in company with other large chains, does business at a net profit of about 1 per cent, and sells food to the public at prices 8 to 25 per cent lower than many single unit stores that offer the consumer special services such as delivery, charge accounts, etc., which necessarily add to cost if a consumer desires such conveniences. But why should a consumer be denied the economy of chain store service if he wishes to pay cash and deliver his own purchases to save money? The loss of such savings would mean less nourishment, healthful and palatable meals in millions of homes.

The contributions of the chain food industry to the welfare of agriculture—both as a buyer of farm products in the ordinary course of trade, and as the farmers' ally in moving distressed crops, through special sales—are well known. Drive the industry to the wall—and the eight million American farm families will suffer irreparable harm.

This is not all of the story—but it touches the high points. The A. & P. announcement speaks for millions of people, dependent in one way or another on the chain store industry, who cannot make their voices individually heard. There is no room in a free America for any law that destroys legitimate enterprise—and destroys with it, jobs, purchasing power, and the right of the hard-pressed consumer to get the most for his money.—Industrial News Review.

Mason and Dixon Line

The Mason and Dixon line between Pennsylvania and Maryland, takes the name of the two English surveyors, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, who started the survey. They worked from 1733 to 1767, when they were stopped by Indians, 244 miles from the Delaware river. The survey was completed by others. Its exact latitude is 39 degrees 43 minutes 26.3 seconds. This line was popularly accepted as the demarcation between slave and free territory and is currently referred to as the dividing line between the North and South.

Dogs Have 'Roached Back'

Borzo dogs are lanky in appearance, but they are sturdy in bone. Their backs rise in a graceful curve, something that is not desired in other breeds, because it is a fault that fanciers call "roached back." These dogs' long legs have unusual driving power and this accounts for much of their amazing speed.

Cliff Dwellings in Colorado

In Mesa Verde National park, there are several cliff dwellings that have been dated accurately by tree-ring chronology. In Spruce Tree House are roof beams constructed between the years 1230 and 1274 A. D. The Cliff palace was built between 1073 and 1273. The cave in which Cliff palace, the largest of all cliff dwellings, is situated was occupied originally in the First century B. C. or A. D. The Pueblo culture on Mesa Verde, which began to develop at that time, reached its classical stage about the Tenth century. The Basket Makers, as the earliest cliff dwellers are called, were the first agricultural Indians of the Southwest.

In Europe's Swiftly Moving Military Drama

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER 57
By HAWES

Well, friends and neighbors, I dug up my map of London from a drawerful of memorials of my European pilgrimage and I see that it will be advisable to re-orientate (a dollar and a half word meaning to relocate in reference to surroundings) myself there as a safeguard in view of the possibility of some one reading this who knows what it is all about.

My room back of the Victoria Station was on Belgrave Road, not on Grosvenor Road. Grosvenor Road is in the near neighborhood and my memory had played me a little trick. To get to my room from the station where I always mounted and dismounted busses, I would go south on Wilton Road along the east side past a great cinema or movie theatre where the name of American stars daily displayed in lights made me feel at home, then turning west a block along Gillingham street, then a block south on Galsgare road. Perhaps that doesn't interest you but the English sounds of the streets reminds me of my summer abroad and a spot.

Buckingham Palace road ran directly along the north side of the depot, where the heavy traffic flowed and I could walk west on that and turn south on Belgrave road two blocks to the same destination.

At the northwest corner of Victoria Station Victoria street began, at a junction with Buckingham palace road. Victoria street led off northeast to its eastern terminal at Whitehall, exactly opposite Westminster Abbey. To the northwest from the corner of the station ran Grosvenor Road to Hyde Park Corner, a main bus terminal at the southeast corner of Hyde Park, which, with Kensington Gardens, constitutes the largest public recreational spot in London.

You can't see everything in a city of 9,500,000 people in four days. Many Americans do not realize that London is still the world's greatest city, outdistancing New York city nearly a half, even when all environs are included. I have been asked what industries or business maintain this tremendous population, a half more than that of the entire state of Michigan. I was unable to answer the question, but I think that to a great extent it is the business and commerce coming from all points of the great British Empire.

A main beat of mine was up Victoria street to Whitehall, thence through the great government buildings, starting with the needed spirework of the Houses of Parliament, up northeast past the Cenotaph of the Unknown soldier to the great traffic center at Trafalgar square.

There in the heart of old London, the traffic of nearly a dozen streets converged into a great square, centered by a tall column surmounted by a statue of Admiral Nelson, victor at Trafalgar.

In a corner of Trafalgar Square was famous Charing Cross, erected many centuries ago on the place where the funeral cortege of one of England's queens rested on its way. Northeastward, rather as a continuation of Whitehall, ran Charing Cross Road, which a few blocks north became Tottenham road, then Hampstead Road and then a half dozen other roads or streets before it terminated in the environs.

A number of notable buildings surround the great square but the only ones that I remember are the National Art Gallery, where I spent a scant two hours looking up Turner's marine pictures, and the old Church of St. Martin's in the Fields. This was the first of the old English churches that I saw, and the sight of its old gothic architecture tinged with centuries of London smoke right on the edge of one of the greatest traffic tangles of the world gave that sense of odd contrasts between the ancient and the modern that meets the eye so frequently in the heart of old London.

A few side excursions and then I will get back on the beaten track of my pilgrimage. A few blocks north of Trafalgar Square, at the end of Charing Cross road, the great shopping thoroughfare, Oxford street, runs, bordered by great stores, of which the most famous was the great store of Gordon Selfridge, the American who spent his boyhood in Niles, Mich., and went to England to revolutionize the mercantile business with progressive American ideas.

Running northwest but a short distance from the northwest corner of Trafalgar square was the famous old Haymarket, once just what the name implies, but now of course a modern business street. At its northern terminal starts Piccadilly and nearby is Leicester square, famed names that were made memorable in the most famous of World War songs.

"Goodbye, Piccadilly, farewell Leicester Square—
It's a long, long way to Tipperary, But my heart's right there."

But my regular beat was north by east from Trafalgar square along The Strand which after a mile or so became Fleet street. This stretch of The Strand and Fleet street and the immediate environs contained more of history than anything I saw in Europe. One might have wandered there for weeks without exhausting its interest. A main satisfaction to me in the avoidance of war in Europe was the reflection that anyway the magnificent memorials of the past of the English speaking race along these famous streets would not be pulverized by bombs.

It is typical of what is to be found in this region that there are 48 churches all centuries old, within a square mile in this part of London. One of these, St. Clerken's Danes, stands right in the center of The Strand, which parts in two streets on each side of it. Here, if memory serves me right, is the tomb of Isaac Walton, patron saint of fishermen, who attended the church in his life time. Here also is the tomb of Dr. Samuel Johnson, the compiler of the first standard dictionary of the English language, and one of the great traditional characters of London.

Then a bit further along The Strand becomes Fleet street, the most famous newspaper thoroughfare in the world, along which stand the buildings of the London Times and most of the other great English journals, and the London offices of the great American papers.

The east end of The Strand is lined on either side with the Temple Bar and the law courts, the great legal center of London. You pass into these courts through old stone arches and you may wander there for hours, blundering into various memorials of England's past. Here or hereabouts I wandered into the grave of Goldsmith, in a little churchyard buried among large buildings, into the courts where Francis Bacon studied law, into the birthplace of Charles Lamb. It grew dark one night while I was wandering through the tangle of courts. I asked a "Bobby" whether one was safe in those dark precincts after dark.

"Oh yes," he said, "You won't

13.9 days; legumes and forage crops, 13.1 days; and community activities 21.7 days.

Six hundred women are enrolled in the home economics courses in child care and training and in clothing, he said.

The fruit crop this year did not meet last winter's expectations, Mr. Lurkins announced, but reported that 11 major crops on the Benton Harbor fruit market were larger in volume than last year. He predicted that final fruit estimates will show the average farm income to be moderately good.

Fred Koenigshof, Bertrand township, chairman of the board's agricultural committee, presented the financial statement of the county agent's office. It showed expenditures of $5,832.80 for the year, including salaries and office expenses.

State Grange Head Okehs Amendment 2

Clement H. Bramble, Master of the Michigan State Grange, has urged endorsement by the Grange of the proposed constitutional amendment (No. 2) to take the selection of justices of the Michigan Supreme Court out of politics. Bramble stated:

"Amendment No. 2 provides for the nomination of Supreme Court Justices by a non-partisan Board from which the Governor will appoint Judges to this important office. The Executive Committee studied this matter very carefully in all its detail and decided that we would recommend to the Grange members of Michigan the adoption of this important amendment.

"You, who have attended State Conventions at which time the Supreme Court Judges are nominated, know that the nominations are practically made in some hotel room by a bunch of politicians for political reasons. The names are then presented to the Convention and adopted generally by acclamation. Very few of the voters know anything in regard to the ability or standing of these men that are nominated at political conventions.

"Therefore, we considered that a non-partisan Board, as provided in this amendment, would choose men of outstanding ability for the office and from this list the Governor must appoint Judges for this very important position. In this way you remove the Supreme Court Justices from the political arena. When you have an especially good Judge in office he will be continued from year to year and is not subject to the political fluctuations of the State."

Bramble is on the Executive Committee of the state-wide non-partisan committee of farm, civic, fraternal, religious and professional leaders who are sponsor of the amendment.

Savings and Loan Associations Report Spurt in Savings

An upward spurt in savings is noted in latest reports of the 38 insured savings and loan associations in Michigan received by Nugent Fallon, General Manager of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, Washington, D. C., through the cooperation of President Fred T. Greene of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Indianapolis.

During the last 12 months savings invested in these thrift and home-financing institutions increased from $23,780,550 to $33,768,420 or $9,987,870. Such savings are fully protected up to $5,000 for each investor by the Insurance Corporation, a $115,000,000 Federal Government instrumentality.

In the same period, from September 30, 1937, to October 1, 1938, loans made by these associations for construction, purchase, reconditioning and refinancing of Michigan homes rose $7,098,210, from $21,381,760 to $28,479,970.

Marriage Is Aerial Partnership

It is time out for lunch, and it means nothing at all to Frank Pettibone and his wife Ruth that they have to enjoy it 175 feet in the air. They are said to be the only steeplejack couple in the United States and are here working on a water tower at Fort McHenry, Ga. Their marriage is a real partnership. She helps with the steeplejacking, and he helps with the housework.

FIGHTS JAP POACHERS

C. Chester Carlson, delegate of the Alaska Fisherman's union, points out on a map of Alaska some of the strategic spots where Japanese salmon poachers have set up their mile-long nets and seagoing salmon canning factories off the Alaskan coast. The poachers threaten America's $40,000,000 salmon industry with extinction. Mr. Carlson was one of several Alaska and west coast fisheries experts questioned at the bureau of fisheries of the Commerce department in Washington.

These associations made 242 loans in September. The growing list of insured institutions in Michigan shows that they are located in the following cities: Adrian, Battle Creek, Birmingham, Buchanan, Charlotte, Coldwater, Dearborn, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Ludington, Midland, Mount Clemens, Muskegon, Niles, Owosso, Plymouth, Pontiac, Royal Oak, Sault Ste. Marie, Wayne, Wyandotte, Bay City, Benton Harbor, Holland, Jackson, Monroe and Port Huron.

1939 Auto License Plates Sold Today

Mrs. Eva Dwan, Branch Manager of the Auto License Bureau, St. Joseph, announces: "The 1939 license plates will be sold to both new and used cars Thursday, October 27th, 1938. When the 1939 license plates are sold to a motor vehicle that has been registered in 1938, it is necessary that the 1938 license plates be surrendered before we issue the 1939 plates." The applications for 1939 motor vehicle license plates are made on one standard application form, according to Leon D. Case, Secretary of State. In the past, applications for plates required the applicant to look over some 19 different forms before deciding which one to use. The single application form will lessen the confusion of the applicant, in addition to saving the state a considerable sum for paper and printing. The applicant for 1939 full year plates will make out the same application whether he is purchasing license plates for his passenger car, truck, farm truck, hearse or ambulance, trailer, house trailer and trailer coach, or for transferring the 1938 license plates.

The 1939 half-year license plates are not on sale at this time. Those desiring half-year plates may obtain the 1938 plates at half price, which expire February 28th, 1939.

A telephone construction crew of 1938

The threescore years since the Michigan Bell Telephone Company was founded have completely revolutionized telephone tools and equipment. Steadily the old was discarded, replaced by something better.

And time has but served to intensify the Michigan telephone worker's feeling of responsibility to the public. The diligence of these men and women both in routine duty and during the emergencies of flood, fire and storm... is a vital factor in keeping good telephone service at your command twenty-four hours a day.

Representing A Great Agricultural District

CARROLL B. JONES

A great agricultural district—the home of thousands of progressive, intelligent farmers and the location of the world's largest fruit and vegetable market, whose laborers, stores and business enterprises depend largely on the well being of the farmer—properly should continue to be represented in the State Senate by one who not only is a farm owner himself but has proven himself friendly to farm interests.

C. L. Brody, Executive Secretary of the Michigan State Farm Bureau says this of State Senator Carroll B. Jones, who is seeking a second term on the Democratic ticket.

"I am taking this means of extending on behalf of the Michigan State Farm Bureau our appreciation for your splendid service to Michigan Agriculture during the 1937 session."

"You were a watchful guardian of farm interests and richly deserve the commendation of farmers everywhere."

Amendment Changes Control of Welfare

"Every voter should be sure to cast his ballot on Proposal No. 4 the referendum on the welfare and relief law—at the general election on November 8."

This statement was made today by George H. Boyd, Chairman of the Welfare Education Committee, which is urging that voters record a "Yes" vote on this question dealing with consolidation of the numerous state welfare departments into one.

"This question is extremely important because it directly affects every individual in Berrien County. Some of the residents receive aid and all of them pay for it. In the first eight months of this year, an average of 6,699 individuals received help each month. This aid amounted to $419,153.62. This money, coming from county, state, and federal tax funds, was spent in Berrien County for food, rent, clothing, medical care, and other living expenses," Mr. Boyd said in his statement to the Berrien County Record.

"A 'Yes' vote is being sought by our non-partisan committee as the greatest forward step Michigan has ever taken to remove relief from politics. Voters who approve the new welfare law, which is the subject of this referendum, do so in the interest of greater efficiency, more local control, and increased economy in the welfare field," Mr. Boyd added.

He reported that funds to the amounts indicated below had been received by 4,734 individuals in Berrien County during the month of August:

Group	No. of	Amount
Aided	Individuals	Received
Needy aged	1,475	$21,088.50
General Relief	2,894	11,098.98
Needy Blind	77	65.84
Dependent children	358	1,764.96

Totals 4,734 $34,018.23

Mr. Boyd stated further that funds spent by the County Superintendents of Poor, Township Superintendents, Soldiers and Sailors Relief Commission, by local units for hospitalization and medical care for sick adults, and by the Probate Court are not included in the above amounts. He said that there is no complete record of the total cost of welfare and relief services.

Mr. Boyd stated that his Committee will furnish detailed information about the welfare and relief law to anyone who will communicate with Committee headquarters at 512 Olds Tower Building, Lansing, Michigan.

He Doesn't Mean It

My opponent, Dr. Racette, has been saying some pretty harsh and untrue things about me lately. The urge to go to Congress, no matter on what platform, is a taken full possession of the Doctor, but I do not think he really means it, nor does he believe, some of the things he has said.

In the Primary of 1934, where we both sought the Republican nomination, the Doctor many times promised to support me, if I won. He either did not mean it or he forgot about it, because, losing the nomination, he ran on the People's Progressive ticket. I never laid that up against him because I knew he wanted to go to Congress. In 1936, he lost again in the Republican Primary and then ran on stickers.

This year, by making some tall promises, he got on the Democratic ticket and now claims to be a New Dealer, a 100% yes-man, although he promises to do his utmost to bring about a $200 per month pension. But the head of the New Deal, President Roosevelt, who still will have a majority in the Senate, no matter what happens to Congressmen, has turned thumbs down on the Doctor's plan. So what can the Doctor do, if elected? Nothing.

The Doctor claims to have a remedy for our economic and financial ills, as, back in 1932, he claimed he had a remedy for our physical ills. Then he put out, through "Health Institute Laboratories," "Celtona," which was advertised as helpful in cases of rheumatism, neuritis and other nerve and muscular disorders. Some curious citizens had the State Board of Pharmacy analyze "Celtona" and they reported that it might have "possibly some medicinal action." They further said:

"You will notice that the principal ingredient 81.3% is indicated as NaCl, which is commonly known as table salt."

That is a lot of salt in any prescription. It is just possible that the Doctor's advertised remedy for our present national ills and his statements about me should be taken with an equal amount of salt.

The Doctor does not really dislike me. He just wants me to stay at home while he goes to Congress.

The prescription I offer—that is, no more deficits; living within our income; an adequate pension; no excessive taxation; protection for labor and for industry, so that once more there will be jobs for all; the preservation of our form of government and, in particular, the maintenance of the integrity of our Courts—can be taken without salt and with the assurance that it is safe, sound and constructive.

Gives Rules for Handling A Gun

As part of department of conservation efforts to reduce the number of hunting accidents, attention is called again to a few fundamental rules in the use of a gun in the woods.

Posters have been distributed throughout the state showing right and wrong ways to handle a gun. These are:

When removing a gun from an automobile pull it out butt first, not muzzle first;

When walking in the woods, do not carry your gun so that the muzzle is pointing at any other hunter;

When sitting down to rest, do not leave guns on ground where your dogs may accidentally discharge one—place guns out of reach on stump;

When two are in canoe, only one should attempt to use gun and he should be in bow;

In climbing a fence, put gun through first—do not attempt to climb with it in your hand.

Deer Population at Record Mark

Estimate 300,000 Deer in Upper Peninsula and 900,000 in Lower

Although the 1938 deer season does not open until Nov. 15, one of the most frequent inquiries being received by the department of conservation these days is: What are the prospects?

That, like the stock summer inquiry—Where can I catch some fish—is a question which conservation officers are cautious about answering, for the reason there is no means of guaranteeing any hunter a kill.

Nevertheless, information which the game division of the department of conservation has on hand bears directly on the question of how good are the chances for getting a buck this year.

Estimates made on the basis of deer census drives and reports from officers and from other sources indicate that Michigan now has more than a million deer including about 600,000 does, 450,000 fawns and 150,000 bucks. Estimates indicate slightly less than 300,000 deer in the upper peninsula and about 900,000 in the lower peninsula.

Although the record of kill is not believed exact in all cases, due partly to the fact that it was not until last year that hunters were required by law to report their kill, estimates of the number of bucks shot during the last three years are: 1935—30,000; 1936—31,000; 1937—40,000. The number of deer hunters licensed in 1937 was 157,849.

The number of deer in Michigan at the present time probably exceeds that of any other time in the history of the area, consequently hunting should be good in fact it may be better than it will be in the future since the feeding conditions which have played such an important part in building up a tremendous deer herd are becoming less instead of more suitable. Hunters' luck, however, influenced as it is by weather conditions is difficult to predict. Good tracking, snow, rainy weather with quiet trailing or snappy crackling foot may spell the difference between success and failure for many hunters this year as it has many years in the past.

Silk Cotton Tree a Giant

The silk cotton tree, which grows in the island of Jamaica, is one of the world's giants. Its branches extend horizontally, and each of them would be considered a good-sized tree in itself. In order to support the weight of the branches nature, has supplied these trees with buttresses which project laterally from the trunk. These buttresses are so large that a man can shelter himself between two of them.

LAW LIVES ON The law books of "The Great Mouth-piece," the late Bill Fallon, were borrowed from a former associate by Director Alexander Hall for scenes in Columbia's "I Am the Law," which comes to the Hollywood Theatre Friday and Saturday. JANET GAYNOR BECAME A STAR DESPITE HERSELF

Strangely enough, Janet Gaynor, appearing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday on the Hollywood screen with Robert Montgomery in "Three Loves Has Nancy," never even dreamed that she could ever become a motion picture star. The combined efforts of her family were necessary to get her to make her first call at a studio casting office, and the rebuffs she received in her first weeks so thoroughly disheartened her that she renounced motion picture work "forever" and instead took a stenographic course in a Hollywood business college.

'Make It Two' Said

Most Often by Twins

CLEVELAND.—"Alike as two peas in a pod" was probably never more true than in the case of Ed and Bill Day, identical twins. The brothers, leading almost duplicate existences, have been saying "Make it two" all their lives as they ordered hats shoes, food. Anything one wanted, he assumed the other also desired, and ordered two. This was because they wear the same sizes and weigh the same—to the pound.

They have been together for 54 years—ever since they were born, except for one period of two weeks, when they were separated long enough to pitch on different ball teams.

They share the same bed, one never turning in without the other. In the morning they arise at the same time, do their setting up exercises in unison, take a walk together in the park, cook and eat breakfast together.

Then they leave for work together—both are foremen, and if they are late it is quite possible that in their haste they have dressed in each other's clothing—not that it makes any difference.

LIFE EXPECTANCY SHOWS WORLD GAIN

White Girl Born in U. S. Will Live Longest.

GENEVA.—In spite of the perils of modern living, the world's death rate has fallen sharply and the expectancy of life has increased generally for all age groups, but most for babies, according to the current edition of the League of Nations statistical year book.

It shows that a white girl born in the United States in 1935, the latest year for which the figures are given, had then the highest expectancy of life of any child on earth, 64.72 years. Her brother could expect only 60.72 years. Only one boy on earth had a chance then to live longer. He was born in Denmark with the expectancy of 63.8 years.

Figures Once Exceeded.
These expectancies for both girls and boys were exceeded in 1934 in Australia and in 1931 in New Zealand, which then reached a peak of 65 years' expectancy for boys and 68 years for girls. There are no later figures for those countries.

In India an infant had the lowest expectancy of life, only twenty-seven years, with boys enjoying a slight advantage over girls. This was the only place on earth where a boy had the better of it.

In Japan the expectancy was forty-seven years for girls and forty-five years for boys.

In the United States infants of either sex in 1935 could expect two years more of life than in 1929, when the economic depression began. This is typical of the general rise, although it took India twenty years to add two years' expectancy.

Population Declining.
Meanwhile the birth rate has fallen sharply in most countries, so much so that many are just above the reproduction line. In two countries, Austria and France, deaths slightly exceed births.

In the United States, the United Kingdom and many western countries the percentage of population under ten years of age has dropped considerably in the past quarter century and the percentage over fifty years of age has increased even more sharply.

Will Search for Traces Of Coast's Primitive Men
SAN DIEGO, CALIF.—A scientific expedition to determine the age of southern California's first inhabitants and provide a new knowledge of man's antiquity will be conducted in San Diego county by the Carnegie institution of Washington and the San Diego museum of natural history.

The site where the excavations will be made is at a place hitherto unexplored by scientists. It is believed that primitive men camped at the site and fashioned crude stone tools and weapons from an abundant supply of rock. It is described as the site of one of the most extensive habitations of the peoples who are supposed to have antedated the known California Indians.

After excavations lasting six weeks there will be extensive laboratory work, which is expected to shed light on the habits and customs and racial characteristics of the early people.

PRIDE OF NAVY IN '98 ENDS DAYS AS A CRANESHIP

U. S. S. Kearsarge Once One of Most Powerful Battleships.

NEW YORK.—When the United States Battleship No. 1 recently arrived at the New York navy yard, Brooklyn, in tow of the transport Sirius, her strange appearance—swollen sides, odd deckhouses and huge crane—disguised a former pride of the fleet, the U. S. S. Kearsarge. One of the most powerful battleships in the world at the time of her launching in 1898, the Kearsarge was brought from Bremerton navy yard, near Seattle, to assist in the construction of the two battleships on the ways at Philadelphia and New York.

Ordered in 1895 and built at Newport News, Va., the Kearsarge and her sister ship, the Kentucky, were put in commission in 1900. Their 11,520 tons displacement made them the heaviest vessels in the United States navy; main batteries of four 13-inch and four 8-inch guns, each firing a broadside weighing three tons, put them in the top rank for fire power.

Had Daring Construction.
The turret arrangement was considered a daring innovation, and was a precursor of the now familiar system of having the turrets in series, one over the other.

Another distinction of the Kearsarge was that she was the last first-line battleship not named for a state. Instead she commemorated a naval vessel of Civil war fame, which in turn was named for Mt. Kearsarge, N. H.

The Kearsarge's career was not warlike. Completed too late for the Spanish-American war, she was on the reserve list and serving as a training ship for the Massachusetts naval militia when the World war came. Her only casualty was suffered through the peace-time explosion of a five-inch gun—with the theoretical exception of one occasion when she was "put out of action" in a sham battle.

Made Craneship in 1920.
The Kearsarge was one of the 16 battleships composing the United States fleet which circumnavigated the globe in 1907-1909. Not long after the Kearsarge was extensively refitted, cage-wire masts substituted for her "stick" military masts and four five-inch guns added to her secondary armament. But the rapid advance of naval architecture had already overtaken the ship and she was put on the reserve list.

In 1920 her masts, turret guns, propelling machinery and one funnel were removed; a wide bulge fitted to her sides to increase her stability; cranes and deckhouses added and the Kearsarge became Craneship 1. The cost of reconstruction was nearly $2,000,000.

The naval progress which put the Kearsarge into the discard is strikingly illustrated by the contrast between that ship and the two battleships North Carolina and Washington, now under construction. The new vessels will be more than twice as long as the 370-foot Kearsarge; their displacement, 35,000 tons, will be three times as great; with the broadside of their 16-inch guns in the same proportion. Finally, the estimated cost of the new ships is $70,000,000, whereas the Kearsarge was completed for about $5,000,000—not enough to pay for a modern destroyer.

Pipeline 100 Years Old Is Made of Hollow Logs
CHARDON, OHIO.—A pipeline of hollowed logs 1,000 feet long, thought to be a part of a plumbing system installed about 100 years ago, has been uncovered by D. O. Root on a farm near here.

Holes had been bored through the middle of the logs and the end of each log was sharpened to join the next.

In one of the logs below the spring was a cut-off. A hole had been bored and a plug inserted. When water was required the plug was raised. It still will operate.

Old Log Cabin Shingled
SELINSGRÖVE, PA.—Lyman Baker shingled his 120-year-old log cabin here with the slats from 800 lettuce crates. He nailed the slats over the logs and finished the remodeling with a coat of paint.

Sawdust Lovers Organize to Save the Circus in '39

Rain, Recession and Labor Grief Give Big Tops Worst Season.

DETROIT.—The combined forces of rain, business recession and labor troubles have given the circus business the worst drubbing in its history—but the big tops aren't out yet.

Veteran circus men and close observers predict the sawdust rings will be back "bigger and better" next year, if the business pickup continues and normal weather prevails. But just so everything won't be left to chance, an organization of circus fans has mapped out a nationwide program to "keep the circus from going the way of the small-town opera house"—and vaudeville, too.

Ringling First to Fold.
The Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus first ruptured the "show must go on" tradition, when, beset by labor troubles and dwindling receipts, it packed up at Scranton, Pa., early in the season and moved into winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

The Downie Brothers circus, owned by Charles Sparks, closed in Delaware in mid-summer.

When the Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty circus pulled stakes at the height of the season and headed for winter quarters at Rochester, Ind., it became the third major "big top" to fold this year.

Misfortune also overtook the little shows. The Sels-Sterling circus, a motorized show well known in the Middle West, closed at Sheboygan, Wis. Two smaller shows folded up in the East.

Circus lovers, however, aren't taking this sitting down. At Madison, Wis., the Circus Fans Association of America assigned a subcommittee to work out a plan for preserving an "institution typically American." Co-operating with the association, groups of advertising men have banded behind the leadership of Frank W. Magin of Detroit in a "save the circus" movement.

Walter Raleigh Reminders
Sir Walter Raleigh, who introduced the potato into Ireland and tobacco into England, is believed never to have set foot on the mainland of North America; but visitors to Trinidad may see some of the dents his guns made on Port of Spain. He wiped out most of the early town because the people "wouldn't give him water."

... THE MICROPHONE ...

News of Buchanan Schools

Collected and Edited By Members of the Journalism Class

Editorial

Microphone Policy Emphasized
The Microphone is written for parents as well as for pupils; principally for parents. Since it was first published, it has appealed chiefly to students while adults wondered rather hazily what was meant when a gossip writer said something about someone dating somebody.

Now the emphasis of Microphone news has been restated. More real news is demanded, features of a better quality, and little, if any, real gossip. Whereas, before, the news-gatherers never bothered much about club meetings, contenting themselves with asking a friend a few questions, they are now ordered to get facts. If they don't, someone else will, and will get the credit for it, too.

Sloppy journalistic writing is banned, poor spelling is frowned on, and incorrect facts—well!

We hope that the new policy meets the approval of our adult readers, for after all, they're the ones we try to please.

STAFF OF REPORTERS

With the help of Miss Cernahan, the journalism teacher, Raymond DeWitt, news editor, selected the microphone staff reporters. Monabelle Dretzler and Eunice Shafer are to cover the music department. Doris Borst seemed best in line for the agriculture department. Because Lillian Fabiano is an office girl, she was appointed to take care of news from the superintendent's and principal's offices. Bessie Harroff is to cover news from the nurse's and janitor's offices. Ralph Rosenberg, as you know, is a first class gossip reporter. He is writing the column on students' opinions. Because of Betty Widmoyer's ability to understand books, she was appointed to take care of the library news. Norma Bromley was appointed to cover the drawing classes and manual arts.

Frank Benak likes arguments so well that he was appointed to take care of the debate club news. He is also going to take care of news from Miss Graves' office. Mary Comers likes to see clubs organized, so she was appointed to take care of the speech, Latin, and French clubs' news. Geraldine Reamer has the task of writing up school plays and general assemblies since she is always present at such activities.

The following reporter will appoint a pupil that belongs to one of the classes mentioned below. These pupils will gather news for the regular reporters who will write it up to be published in the Microphone. They are as follows: senior and junior classes, Mary Lear; sophomore and freshman classes, Mildred Vander Ven; eighth and seventh grades, Mary Metzgar. Donna York was appointed to take care of the jokes column.

Any other news not assigned may be written by any of the reporters.

If any of you students know of worth-while news which is not being covered, please tell one of these reporters. This will be greatly appreciated and will help to make a bigger and better Microphone for Buchanan High School.

Teachers Shown German Movies

School Heads, Home Ec. and Commercial Teachers Met at Local School

A meeting was held October 17 at the Buchanan High School for superintendents, principals, home economic teachers, and commercial teachers of Berrien county.

A movie picture of modern Germany was shown to the principals while a talk, which was an interest to all, was given to the superintendents by Miss Graves. Her talk was a report on reading scales.

One part of Miss Graves' speech stated: "There are several approaches to begin reading. Four are: chart reading, word recognition, phonetics approach, and individual approach."

Some children learn to read effectively by one or the other method. No one method is best for all children. It is important to select the method which best suits the child's needs."

The home economic teachers of Berrien county met in the home economics room after a delightful chicken dinner at the Quinn Waters Farm with the superintendents, principals, and commercial teachers. They elected the following officers: President, Helen Krebs, Buchanan; vice-president, Rose Jones, Three Oaks; secretary-treasurer, Lucille Dunn, Dowagiac.

They organized a schedule for the rest of the year and dues will be collected at the next meeting which will take place at Dowagiac in November.

The commercial teachers, after they had dined, met in the commercial room and had a get-acquainted meeting to discuss various problems that confront the teachers.

Janice Pierce, 7th grade—"I think they should because when they grow older they will know how to behave."

The nutria or coypu is a large aquatic rodent of South America. It has large, reddish incisor teeth, partially webbed feet and a long, bare tail. The fur resembles beaver, but is not as thick or durable.

Derivation of 'Tobacco'
Tobacco, in the British West Indies, is said to have been named by Christopher Columbus, who saw in its shape the resemblance to the smoking pipes of the Caribs and called by them "tobagos." It is from that word that the English word "tobacco" was derived.

The Life of the Party now Looks it!

ABLEST OF THE EIGHTS is this mighty Buick Dynaflex Valve-in-Head Straight-Eight, with a cyclone in each cylinder to squeeze full power from every drop of fuel.

WHEN you've got something mighty good and know it, it's not easy to pass it up even for something better!

There's a whole of a temptation to play it safe, to coast along a while, when you're riding such a vote of confidence as we've had this year.

We had ample evidence from the start that our past season's good Buick was the life of the 1938 party.

Right through the darkest months it paced the industry in sales, setting a bright example that shone like a sudden sun smiling through the rain.

But itching in our heads and on our drawing boards were ideas.

NO OTHER CAR IN THE WORLD HAS ALL THESE FEATURES

★ DYNAFLEX VALVE-IN-HEAD STRAIGHT-EIGHT ENGINE ★ BUICK TORQUE-FREE SPRING ★ GREATER VISIBILITY ★ HANDSHIFT TRANSMISSION ★ ROOMIER UNSTEEL BODIES BY FISHER ★ TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE ★ TIPTOE HYDRAULIC BRAKES ★ CROWN SPRING CLUTCH ★ "CATWALK-COOLING" ★ OPTIONAL REAR AXLE GEAR RATIOS ★ FLASH-WAY DIRECTION SIGNAL ★ SELF-BANKING KNEE-ACTION FRONT SPRING

Ideas that started with practical things like better cooling and more efficient aerodynamics and a wider field of vision for the driver and his folks.

Ideas that wouldn't stand still—that budded, burgeoned, flowered full into gorgeous new beauty of line and form and action.

Ideas that promised to re-pattern motor car design for the next half decade or more!

Now, the price of progress is daring to make good things better—even if you've got a winner to start with. Buick's whole come-back has been based on that.

We couldn't refuse to climb while empty rungs on the ladder beckoned us up!

So the life of the party now looks it. And you'll see a Buick for 1939 of very different pattern, a car fit to fix the fashion for many a long year to come.

"Buick's the Beauty!"

Importance of First Job

The only important thing about a first job is that it be a chance to do honest work. Don't wait till what you're fitted for offers. Don't bother about the pay. Above all, don't worry over the effect of the job on your social position. Get a leg to stand on. Get a place to stand the leg. The only standpoint from which you can get a view of a job that suits you is a job that you suit. Finally, don't listen to good-luck stories.

Forms of Weather Vanes

Weather vanes assume many different forms—the cat, dog, ostrich, cow, pig and goose are but a few of the most popular. The American eagle, of which there are some excellent copies, is found mounted on wrought iron spikes, with points of the compass in gilt letters. The horseman in days gone by elevated a racing horse over the stables of his country estate.

He has been active in the Elk and Knights of Pythias lodges and attends the Methodist church.
