Christmas Request

Write me a Christmas letter—More than a word or two With a spirit of love behind it That can't help but shine through Write me the sort of message That gives the heart a lift, More than a fair engraving, More than a costly gift. I'll never look at the spelling Or quibble over a phrase If you tell me a thing worth telling To brighten the holidays. Though the words be crude and halting So the spirit be but fair There will be no mistaking—I'll get it if it's there.

Outclass Indians in Third Straight Victory

By PHILLIP BIRONG
The Buchanan Bucks won their third straight victory last Friday night from Dowagiac 31-15 at the Dowagiac court. They outclassed the Indians during the entire game.

Leiter and Simpson again were in the highlights of the Bucks offensive work. At the end of the first period they had a 10 to 4 lead and kept increasing the margin as the game went on. Leiter and Simpson were responsible for half of the Bucks score in the first quarter.

In the second period the Bucks went to work and scored 8 baskets and kept the Indians from scoring.

At the opening of the second half the Bucks scored 13 points to the Indians 5 to keep things moving. Leiter closed his scoring for the day with three baskets and a free toss, M. Rauch and Simpson each added 4 points to the Bucks score. For Dowagiac H. Winchester and Darr hit from outcourt, and Smith cashed a chance from the free throw line.

In the final period Coach Miller replaced his regulars with the reserves permitting the Indians to dominate the play by a 6-4 margin.

In the preliminary game Dowagiac overcame a 6-4 disadvantage in the first period to win 23-6.

Score by quarters:
Buchanan 10 6 13 2—31
Dowagiac 4 0 5 6—15

Assigned Three Nights Per Week

Men Have Wednesday, Ladies to Have Thursday Nights

Weekly programs or organized recreation for adult men and women of the community will begin at the Buchanan high school gymnasium next week and continue regularly throughout the school year under the auspices of the physical directors of the school.

The adult program will consist of three nights in the gymnasium. The first will be for the younger men of the community who are organized in the city basketball league. This program will ordinarily be held on Tuesday evening, under the direction of Earl Rizer. This will be omitted next week on account of the Three Oaks-Buchanan game scheduled here.

On Wednesday evening the older men of the community will be entitled to the use of the gym and its facilities under the direction of Coach John Miller. It is likely that volleyball games will play an important part in this session, but those enrolling will have the privilege of voting on their recreation program. This and other evening programs will begin at 7:00 p. m. Thursday evening will be Ladies Night, when the women of the community will be entitled to the use of the gymnasium under the direction of Miss Allegra Henry. They too will determine the nature of the recreation which they will take up. The first session will begin at 7 p. m. on Jan. 5, 1939.

Since the gymnasium is taken up by high school activities other evenings, the initiation of the three adult programs will complete a full schedule. Monday evening the Junior basketball team will practice under the direction of Ray Miller. Friday evening there will be an intramural basketball schedule played regularly from 4 p. m. until 6 p. m. under the direction of Coach Miller. On Saturday evening the Junior high school basketball team will practice from 8:30 p. m. until 10 p. m. under Ray Miller.

On the above nights no school children will be permitted in the gym at the time specified, except for those who come under the classifications designated. Practice by the high school team regularly occupies the gym from 4 p. m. until 6 p. m. The adult and scholastic schedules will be omitted during the usual vacations.

A considerable delegation of Buchanan members of the Berrien County Sportsman's Club attended the annual game banquet given by that club at the St. Joseph Hotel building a 7 p. m. yesterday. Following notes of activities which the club has sponsored or is interested in were noted in the current December bulletin:

Michigan hunters, taking the field for the opening of the small game seasons found 61 farm organizations operating under the Williamson plan of trespass regulation in cooperation with the state conservation department.

This figure, released this week by the department, compares with 34 of the former co-operative hunting clubs for 1937.

The acreage posted with the special game management signs of the Williamson plan areas, which read "No hunting without permission," totals 440,000 this fall as compared with 340,000 a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sanford had as guests Sunday the former's nephew, Carleton Sanford, and Miss Edna Clayton, both of Grand Rapids.

Red Cross Drive Tops Local Quota

Totals $360.21 First of Week; Contributions Still Coming In

The fund raised for the annual Red Cross roll call in Buchanan city and township amounted to a total of $360.21 the first of the present week, according to Mrs. J. C. Strayer, chairman, who states that contributions are still coming in.

Since the quota assigned to the city and township was $325, the contributions now are considerable above that amount, with further amounts coming in. Mrs. Strayer states that anyone who wishes to contribute further may leave the amount at the office of Dr. Strayer or at the Union State Bank. Small contributions of any amount will be most welcome and have the special local advantage of being retained in total for use in Berrien county. Of the amount already paid in $293 represented $1 memberships. The remaining $67.21 consisted of small amounts which will go to the fund for support of the nursing service for rural school children.

The Thirty club has been in charge, with Mrs. J. C. Strayer as chairman, and all of the members as her assistants.

Statutes Available for 1938 Extra Session

Few people realize the extent to which the state of Michigan is in the business of publishing books. In the execution of his duties as provided by law, the Secretary of State is the Capitol's chief publisher of books, pamphlets and other public records.

The publication of the Michigan Manual and the Public Acts of each session of the legislature, is a matter of routine for the Department of State and has been for years. Because of this the immensity of the project escapes public notice.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bowers visited relatives in Chicago Monday and Tuesday. Mrs. Frank Rinker accompanied them, also visiting relatives.

Tuberculosis Kills 22 in Berrien Co.

Tuberculosis Christmas seals funds raised in Berrien county return, in benefits, one hundred per cent to Berrien county residents. That was the point stressed this week as the Michigan Tuberculosis Association urged all who have not yet purchased a supply of 1938 Christmas seals to do so soon. There is still an opportunity for all to help in the thirty-second annual campaign to raise funds for tuberculosis fighting, it was pointed out.

"Berrien county residents have, in the past, established a record for generous response to the annual appeal for Christmas seal pennies to fight tuberculosis," declared Theodore J. Werle, executive secretary of the Association. "But generous as their contributions are, there is always an urgent need for funds which will allow the Association to increase its already extensive program against the White Plague."

Emphasizing that tuberculosis spreads, unseen, from person to person, from community to community, Mr. Werle declared that if the penny Christmas seals did nothing more than prevent a single case of tuberculosis in a year, they would be accomplishing a great work.

"Twenty-two Berrien residents were killed last year by tuberculosis," he reported. "Each of these deaths was a needless tragedy, for tuberculosis is a preventable disease. Still more deplorable, however, is the fact that others were unwittingly infected with the deadly tubercle bacilli. To prevent through modern health education and case-finding, the spread of tuberculosis is the primary purpose and chief accomplishment of the tiny tuberculosis Christmas seals."

"No Christmas seal contribution is too small, or too great," Mr. Werle declared. "Every penny, every dollar becomes an essential unit of the single fund that makes possible a great humanitarian effort—the fight to stamp out tuberculosis."

End Campaign For Milk Fund

Chairman Announces Withdrawal of Bottles This Week; Fund Still Under-Subscribed

The Milk Bottle campaign for the Parent-Teachers Association Milk fund will be brought to a close this week, according to Mrs. George Chain of the committee in charge, although it will require a still further response from the community within the remaining days of the week to bring the fund up to the $150 goal.

At the beginning of the present week the fund had been about four-fifths subscribed, according to Mrs. Chain stated that the commitments dropped in the bottles and contributions by the F. D. I. Club, the Buchanan Men's Club, The American Legion, The Legion Auxiliary, the Business & Professional Women's club and the Royal Neighbors. Mrs. Chain stated that all of the contributing organizations would receive a special letter of thanks.

Last year the total of $145.58 was raised by the Milk Bottle campaign, supplying 7279 half pints of milk to undernourished children during the six months in which the extra diet is supplied.

Mrs. Chain stated that the committee and the P. T. A. as a whole wished to extend their thanks and appreciation to all who helped in any way.

M. Post Musician at Architects Ball

Maynard Post, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Post, sends home a description of the Architects Ball given Friday evening, Dec. 2, at the Drake hotel ballroom, on which occasion he played in the orchestra furnishing the music.

The following is taken from Chicago newspaper account:

There never was, nor is there likely to be again until the Blue Print Boys give another, a ball as truly in the spirit of the Paris Beaux Arts revels. From the moment the 3,000 costumed guests stepped from motors at the door of the Drake, they were literally drenched in Hollywood atmosphere.

Great floodlights illumined the entrance, doormen in uniforms shouted attention names of arrivals, cameras clicked, and a microphone was thrust at guests in every variation of the fancy dress outfit—from empresses of history to Walt Disney characters. Inside the crowd moved from one amusing movie set to another, marveling at the ingenuity of the murals for the fourteen "studios," where current pictures were being "shot" as the architects themselves felt they should be done.

Feature Hillbilly, Cowboy and Negro Spirituals as The American Originals

A cast of 95 youthful instrumentalists and singers will stage the annual High School Music Revue in the auditorium Friday evening, the program indicating that one of the most interesting and significant musical events ever given in Buchanan will be in store.

The production will be directed by R. R. Robinson of the high school music department and the program theme will be a contrast between the music of the late classical period and the early romantic period with some of the present-day music. Instrumental music will be handled by the high school orchestra and the vocal music by the glee club.

The young singers will present several of the better known arias of the classic period and also songs of today. They will also illustrate the three musical themes which, it is believed will emerge as the definite American contributions of original vocal music, the hillbilly songs, the cowboy song and the negro spiritual.

The orchestra will play selection which will furnish a contrast of the modern style of overture with that of overtures of earlier periods.

The program will begin at 8 p. m. The admission will be 10 cents.

The Case of Mrs. Hahn
Perhaps no item in the news of the past week has caused more comment than the execution of Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn in Ohio, for the alleged murder of five old men.

Many so-called and self-confessed "realists" scoff at the suggestion that there was anything objectionable in the electrocution. Those who sob that it was terrible to thus kill a mother at the very time when her 12-year old boy was frantically attempting to get in touch with her are, they say, soft-headed sentimentalists.

In a way that's the truth. Perhaps we're prejudiced, being a man, but there is no real difference between electrocuting a mother and electrocuting anyone else unless it be for the stark horror it might leave in the mind of a child. (But as long as the discussion brings the subject in the forefront of public interest, it seems fair to say that the electrocution may be justified only on one score and that whether it will deter others from similar acts. And it won't. So, in our opinion, it was not justified. If Mrs. Hahn did murder those five old men, and did it with sufficient mental possession to be executed as a sane person, then she is with full knowledge that each of all of the acts were punishable by death under the law of the state in which she committed the crimes. She was willing to take the chance for what she considered the possible gain. Consequently the law which provides capital punishment for first degree murder in her case did not deter her.

Michigan does not have capital punishment and Michigan has no more messy murders than Ohio, Indiana, or Illinois which provide legal procedure for exacting a life for a life. It was Indiana, with capital punishment, and not Michigan, which produced Dilling.

The December number of Forum (see the Buchanan Public Library) has something to say about one motor in American life that has far more to do with crime than capital punishment or the lack of it. That's the automobile. The Forum article, by J. George Fredrick, says:

"Criminals have been provided by the automobile with armed battleships which multiply by ten their striking power and by 100 their mobility in escape.

In consequence, America's criminal acts, criminal organization and criminal population have all been increased in something like the proportion that automobiles have increased in number. Total convictions for crime in all courts in New York state, for example, were only 76,619 in 1916 (when the nation's automobile registrations were only 3,512,996); whereas these annual New York convictions for crime multiplied over five times to 393,804 in 1933 (when automobile registrations had multiplied almost nine times to 28,221,201). This country's population had risen during this period only 28 per cent. During this period the murder rate in the United States rose from 8.2 per 100,000 to 11—a gain of about 40 per cent. Larceny, rape and sex crimes have also greatly increased.

"No other large country has anything like so many automobiles—or anything like so much crime."

Gift Preferences

How would you answer this question:

"What single gift, within reason would you like to receive more than any other at Christmas?"

A survey has been made by editors of Sales Management in three metropolitan cities, putting the question to 2,000 adults. Purpose of the inquiry, of course, was to find a method by which business men might anticipate their needs on particular items for Christmas displays—and also as a service to individuals who have lists of friends and relatives to please at Christmas time.

The Record reprints the list of "preferred gifts" with only two qualifying statements. First, it is apparent that those questioned hoped for gifts of some value. Secondly this survey was made in cities, and may not be applicable to smaller communities.

In any event, here are most popular gift preferences among urban women:

Electric Appliances	12.2%
Wrist Watches	11.2
Furs and Fur Coats	10.3
Furniture	7.4
Personal Accessories	5.6
Radios	5.4
Hosiery	4.7
Rings	4.6
Automobiles	4.3
Suits and Cloth Coats	3.8
Lingerie	3.7
Robes	2.4
Dresses	2.2
Miscellaneous Jewelry	2.2
Rings	2.0

Metropolitan men are pulling harder for these items:

Watches	14.8
Automobiles	14.0
Suits and Overcoats	10.9
Sporting Goods	8.4
Electric Razors	7.5
Radios	5.2
Shirts and Ties	4.2
Cameras	4.0
Tobacco	2.3
Rings	1.7
Robes	1.6

Significant changes from the comparable study of 1937 survey. More women are preferring electric appliances, furs, watches and furniture. Men are wanting more automobiles, watches sporting goods and electric razors.

With Korn passed another link between the present and the old days on Portage Prairie. He was born in Newark, N. J., Feb. 22, 1855, the son of Philip and Francis Korn. His father had escaped from Germany by slipping past the port guards. He had served three years in the German army while in his teens and had been drawn for another three years after only eight days at home, so he fled to America. Soon after he arrived in New York City he was married to a German girl and Joseph Korn was born. Then in 1857 the panic of 1857 struck and he was out of employment. On advice of a relative he came to Buchanan and settled in an abandoned log cabin on the place now known as the Edgeview farm, where Earl Longworth now lives, then owned by a Mr. Terrier. His father worked there a year grubbing out brush and stumps and receiving as his pay a yoke of oxen. Then they moved to a farm south of Bakertown, where Joseph Korn got a few years of schooling, but learned mainly to drive oxen, cradle grain and the like. They then moved to Portage Prairie where he spent the remainder of his life. He could remember days when the Chicago trail was a main avenue of emigrant travel and the line of white-topped wagons was continuously traveling westward.

Eventually he came to own 3,200 acres of land in one body on Portage Prairie. Several sons now live on parts of this farm.

He married Jane Long Sept. 25, 1875. She died Sept. 9, 1922. He is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Della Long, Mrs. Fannie Smith and Mrs. Bertha Kell of Portage Prairie; Mrs. Rhelda Rough of Niles; Mrs. Daisy Crawford of the West Buchanan district; Perry Korn and Emory Korn of South Portage Prairie; Greeley Korn, South Bend; Harvey Korn of San Luis Obispo, Calif. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Hawbelitzel of South Bend, by one brother, John Korn of Niles, and by eleven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baldwin and family of Plymouth, Ind., were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. York.

The Comrades class of the Portage Prairie Evangelical church enjoyed a Christmas party Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith.

Funeral Mrs. Robert Leuth, Fred Koenigshof and family and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Sebasty attended the funeral of Mrs. Robert Leuth at the St. Paul's Evangelical church in Michigan City at 2 p. m. yesterday. Mrs. Leuth had been a frequent visitor in this section and was well known here. She was a sister of Mrs. John Wentland of Gallen and of Mrs. William Reinke, formerly of Dayton, but now of Michigan City.

Children in Court

Chronic Fault Finders

A college freshman was forced to discontinue her education upon her physician's orders.

This young woman was the only daughter of a highly neurotic and hypochondriac invalid mother. Each day during the school term, the mother would write long letters in which she vividly pictured her imagined afflictions. As a result, the daughter worried so much over her mother's condition, that she not only failed in her courses of study, but had to be placed under the supervision of a psychiatrist for observation and treatment.

Constant Threats

In a certain case it was necessary for the court to insist that the parents alter the treatment of their runaway daughter decidedly before she could be returned home.

This child had been disciplined by threats of being chained in a basement infested with rats and other vermin. When she was fourteen years old, the girl was told by her mother that she (the mother) would run away if the child refused to mind her. This left the girl in a constant state of insecurity. Finally, she concluded that if her mother could desert her, she really didn't love her as much as she pretended. Rather than be a continued burden on her family, this girl decided to leave home, taking the first occasion that presented itself to carry out her resolve.

Dropping The Whip

The parents of a sixteen year old boy who was arrested for automobile banditry, should really have stood trial in his place, for it developed, they were primarily responsible for the crime.

This young man's criminal career started some years ago when his parents let the whip fall from their feeble grasp. The boy soon picked it up, and from that day on, he never dropped it. His father and mother never realized that they had abdicated their authority and stepped down from their legitimate places as heads of the family. Consequently, the boy was never taught to respect authority or the rights of others, and, as a result, soon violated both the federal and state laws.

Ideals Like Stars

Carl Schurz, in an address at Faneuil hall, Boston, April 18, 1889, said, "Ideals are like stars; you will not succeed in touching them with your hands. But like the seafaring man on the desert of waters, you choose them as your guides, and, following them, you will reach your destiny."

Chow Called Strange Dog
Strangest of all dogs is the chow. Usually he gives his affection to his own family only, is aloof with all other humans. He also is the only black-tongued breed. The pups were originated hundreds of years ago in China, says a writer in the Washington Post, and have been used as watchdogs, to haul wagons and sleds, even as food. In cold climates their furry hides have served as clothing. Chow puppies, suitably cooked, are considered a delicacy in southern China. Though not over-friendly, they are loyal, sturdy, have a remarkable sense of direc-

Woman Leads as Trapper Of Predatory Animals
EAGLE PASS, TEXAS.—The record of trapping more mountain lions than any other person employed in the eradication of predatory wild animals by the Texas Predatory Animal Control association during the last fiscal year is held by Mrs. Bessie Kennedy of Eagle Pass. She has for her territory Maverick county, bordering the Rio Grande.

During the last 12 months Mrs. Kennedy has captured eight mountain lions, 154 coyotes, 40 bobcats, and many smaller predatory animals, according to C. R. Landon, district director of the association. She sets and looks after the traps herself.

Her husband also is one of the most successful trappers employed by the association. His work, however, is less difficult than that of his wife, because he is assigned to patrol a women wire enclosure containing about 6,000 sheep. He captured during the year five mountain lions, 94 coyotes, and 28 bobcats.

California's First Jail
A Vessel, Records Show
SACRAMENTO.—Only historians remember that California's first prison consisted of a ship anchored off Point San Quentin, in San Francisco bay, back in 1852.

Old records in the state house brought this strange fact to light in connection with the early history of San Quentin prison, the penitentiary for first offenders on the north end of the bay.

For five years after the American occupation, California had no fixed penal laws or penal institutions. Local jails were scarce and the large ranches maintained their own adobe guardhouses for their lawbreakers. Cross-road justice from the nearest tree in the early gold days seemed effective and sufficient.

After several years of leasing out prisoners to farmers, the legislature selected a site for a prison in 1852 and a prison ship was anchored until the buildings would be erected. The ship held 30 to 50 men.

First Christmas

A North Buchanan family has been adding to its own holiday pleasure in the past week by inviting two children of a lately arrived tenant farmer into the knowledge and enjoyment of the first Christmas that they ever knew anything about. The children, aged 7 and 9, came last spring from an impoverished section of the deep south. They had never heard anything either of Thanksgiving or of Christmas. So impoverished was the section, a worn out sharecropper region, that they have been delighted with the Berrien county farm on which they live and consider it next door to Paradise. They are going to a country school and while they are behind the other children in advancement on account of lack of advantages, they are making very satisfactory progress in school. They have a good old-fashioned American name.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER 63
By HAWES

Thinking back over my visit in the Lake Country, it seems rather strange to me yet that the home of Wordworth should have been such a center of attention, honoring a man who was said to have been considered by his neighbors rather a harmless fudduddy and only a small percentage of whose writings are significant or worth reading.

There are a great many today who are better writers than Wordworth, but few or none of them will be equally remembered—and why? It is the same with Burns, near whose home I passed without stopping. As near as I could think it out, the world, even in this time of production lines and guns and gas masks yet chooses to remember Wordworth because in a few memorable messages he affirmed in unforgettable language the dignity of man, the sanctity of the human spirit. As thus:

"The form remains; the function never dies;
While we, the brave, the mighty
and the wise,
We men who in our morn of youth
defied
The elements must vanish;—be it
so!

Enough if something from our hands have power
To live, to act, to serve the future hour;
And if, as toward the silent tomb
we go, Through love, through hope, and
faith's transcendent dower,
We feel that we are greater than
we know."

The world chooses to forget a thousand clever men who wrote
in a less salutary spirit.

Well, as I was saying, I left Grasmere for Edinburgh on the morning of Aug. 6, 1937. For an hour or two the train sped through murky, smoky Lancashire and Yorkshire towns, then drew into the open moors of the sheep country on the Scotch border and beyond. There the landscape was wide and bare—for all the world like eastern Wyoming, and almost as desolate. There were the same grazing herds of cattle and sheep,
though all under fence with no galloping cowhands. As we drew nearer Edinburgh, I saw everywhere great conical hills, almost like mountains but yet so symmetrical and fresh in appearance as to look man-made. Finally I asked an elderly couple in a nearby seat. I found out the hills were refuse dumps from oil shale mines.
That was the first I knew that oil
was being commercially extracted from shale on a large scale, but the industry appeared to be considerable about Edinburgh. It was afternoon when I drew into Edinburgh, famed capital of the north.

The surroundings of Edinburgh
are semi-mountainous and as wild and bleak as they are pictured in the tales of Walter Scott and Stevenson. As in the Lake Country, the hills were purple with heather or pink with banks and banks of wild fox gloves. When the train finally drew into the city

it stopped at a great depot called Waverley station—one of the innumerable echoes of Sir Walter Scott in that city.

My first goal was the offices of the American Express company and any letters there might be there. As I left the great station I saw a large store front directly facing the station bearing the sign "Binns, Limited." "That explains why Harry Binns causes the taxes so," I thought, "the family is Scotch."

The depot was at the end or at least at the terminal of the wider portion of "Princess street, which is the great thoroughfare of the new city. It parallels and overlooks the deep cavernous valley, on the other side of which rises precipitately the hill crowned with Edinburgh castle, one time fortress and residence of the kings and queens of Scotland. The ravine between and the hillside are public ground, all parked and looking down several hundred feet I could see thousands of people strolling or lying on the grass.

I was in Edinburgh from about 2 p. m. until 8 a. m. the next day, and the few hours I had at my disposal after finding a hotel were spent in exploring the old city and in chasing down memories of Bobby Burns and Walter Scott.

I caught a street car along Princess street, since that seemed to be the show part of the town, bordered with great stores and modern-looking hotels. At the further end of the wide boulevard, perhaps three-quarters of a mile, was a great ornate monument to Sir Walter Scott, its gothic spires rising like a small cathedral.

I got off there opposite a great bridge spanning a narrow part of the deep ravine to the older part of the city. The big hotels on Princess street look expensive, so I followed my old tack—I asked a policeman.

Where could a tightwadder find a place of entertainment where he could live inexpensively without getting his throat cut? Or not exactly in those words but to that effect.

Down on Forth street, he said,
at the Victoria hotel—about sixpence for bed and breakfast. Forth street is named after the bay which comes into Edinburgh from the North Sea, the Frith of Forth.
Princess street lies along a sort of hogback hill, if I remember,
right along crest of it. To the right
as I went from the Waverley station to the Scott monument was the deep ravine and the castle hill.
To the left was another, but less precipitous decline on which the newer part of the city is built.
The old—and interesting—part of the city lies on the other side, beyond the castle.

After a twenty-minute walk down steep streets I found Forth Street and the Victoria hotel. But it was all full up. The landlord

SEA VOYAGE ENDS

Frank E. Clark, 54-year-old Eng-

vannah, Ga., after a thrilling solo voyage from England in a second-hand 30-foot fishing boat. The voyage took three months, with Sailor
Clark running through one hurricane.

A Marathon Clock

five-year-old clock, which, according to its possessors, Mr. and Mrs.
Joseph McDonald, never has run

time.

said that there was a rooming and lodging house across the street where I might be accommodated.
I walked by in front of it. It was in a building very old for that part of the city and seemed to me rather dubious-looking. It was in the second story. I started up the dark stairway leading to it, and then backed out. I would ask another policeman, I thought.

But dubious or not, there were no police to be found in that section and finally half way back up the hill I encountered one. I did not wish to voice any undue suspicion of his city but I was a stranger in a strange land, I told him, and asked about the accommodations.

"You'll be all right there," he said, "They are all good people in that part of the town."

So reassured I went back and mounted the stairs to the second story of No. 6, Forth street. A landlady, rather red-faced and unprepossessing, came out in answer to my ring. Yes, she had a room.
The place was dreadfully dingy and old-looking, with antique latches on the doors and worn floors. She took me into a room with two single beds in it. It was all she had and the other bed was occupied.

I objected that I would rather be alone. She had nothing for me.
My roommate would be a quiet, decent man. "That's him," she said, as a man walked along the hall. He was a big, swarthy fellow, rather lowering and villainouslooking to me. But the rates were five and six, about $1.40 for bed and breakfast. I would have to go to the depot for my luggage, I said, figuring that I would think it over on the way back. Rather dubiously I returned to No. 6 Forth street. I remembered my room on Unter Den Linden. The landlady looked rather surprised.

I will tell in the next and final European installment just how near I come to getting my throat cut.

Island in South Sea

Is Ruled by Woman

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—The task of "ruling" an island populated by 520 natives and five whites is in the hands of a lone white woman, Mrs. Ethel May Rahel, who for 20 years has administered remote Badu in Torres straits.

Here on a visit, she told of finding wives for nagging or poor cooking, and husbands for such assaults as throwing sewing machines at their mates. In each case the husband ultimately paid
the fine.

Mrs. Rahel said her task as a whole was easy, for the islanders are happy and law-abiding. She is assisted by three members of the native police force.

Gang Center of Chicago

Is Playground Area Now CHICAGO. — Chicago's "Little Hell," where 42 men were slain in 18 months two decades ago, is a paradise for youngsters today. Softball, baseball, boxing and bowling have replaced shotguns and still-ettes.

"Death Corner," hub of "Little Hell," by virtue of its high death rate, has lost its reputation in the Chicago avenue police station. But Captain Tom Harrison remembers when the half square-mile on the Near North Side was the hotbed of unsolved murders instead of the home of Seward Park, Elks Beach and numerous playing fields.

"It's all been changed now, even the names of the streets," he said. "And the greatest change has been brought about by doctors and lawyers. They have substituted active sports clubs for the street gangs that formerly provided training in car-stealing and petty thievery."

The Black Hand was the terror of the district during the days in the bootleg trade after prohibition. The young fellows once recruited to fill the gaps in the gunmen ranks are now more interested in Joe DiMaggio than in Al Capone.

Children Tagged YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO. — Police decided that there had been too many missing children — lost or strayed from their parents — at parades here. So they tried out during a parade the system of "tagging" all Youngstowners. It succeeded.

Life of Inn Party Tells Lineage to Wrong Man LIBERTYVILLE, ILL. — George F. Schwartz was the hit of the tavern party in Roundout, Ill. Wasn't he the father of Police Chief Frank Druba of Libertyville, the bartender asked. Any relative of the chief could have cried. So there was plenty of beer on Schwartz.

So well did Schwartz get along he appeared in the village again the next day. This time in another tavern. To the bartender he explained his sister had recently married Chief Druba. He was a little short of cash and . . . Schwartz got his beer on credit.

He repeated his story to a stranger. He said if he had a little money he could visit Frank and his sister. The stranger offered him a ride Schwartz accepted. The stranger, however, took Schwartz to the Libertyville jail. "I," he told Schwartz, "am Chief Druba."

Walter Raleigh Reminders

Sir Walter Raleigh, who introduced the potato into Ireland and tobacco into England, is believed never to have set foot on the mainland of North America; but visitors to Trinidad may see some of the plants he made on Port of Spain. He wiped out most of the early town because the people wouldn't give him water.

Library

(Norma Yoder)

A Vest-Pocket Review: In the East Indies, between the Pacific and Indian oceans, and just off the coast of the island of Java lies that ancient, exotic island of Bali, untouched by the stifling hand of civilization. Around this insignificant particle of the world Vickie Bawn has woven her absorbing novel, "Tale of Bali." Her subject is what the title states, simply a tale of Bali, of the natives and the land, and the overthrow by the Dutch at the beginning of this century, of the great hereditary fiefs who had ruled the land for centuries. Around the nucleus of this idea her characters go their way, with lives independent in themselves, but intricately linked by circumstance. Some of the scenes, such as the great burning at Tabanan, and the final charge of the Balinese against the Dutch troops, are genuinely epic in quality; the book as a whole, in my opinion, is a true work of art.

A selection of movie pictures and child pictures and others suitable are being collected by the library for the Camera Club.

In the near future the library will start filing certain classes of informative pictures for the convenience of school students as well as adults.

When the Faculty Club of the Buchanan schools gave a Fortune—we mean a copy of the magazine "Fortune"—to the library they endowed the institution with one of the very finest products of the better journalism of today.

And the December number is perhaps the finest the library has received thus far. Outstanding in it is "Great Britain's Europe" splendidly written, superbly illustrated. When you talk about the general way in which "Fortune" handles any subject—especially pictorially—you are fair to fall back on movie adjectives—"colossal," "supercolossal" and the like.

Says the pre-statement to "Great Britain's Europe": "When England knuckled under to Hitler to avoid war last September was it a shameful scuttling of democracy? Or did the peace-loving common people finally get a break? The answer must be tentative, but it is not what most people suppose—as this story makes clear."

Then there's the reproduction, as only Fortune's typographical and printing resources can reproduce, of twelve modern artistic masterpieces in color. Among the twelve is Grant Wood's famous "Daughters of the American Revolution." Grant Wood married, as you remember (or do you?) Mrs. Sara Sherman Maxon, who formerly lived at Sawyer and used to make Buchanan once in a while while teaching singing. She organized and led for several years the Galien River Valley Chorus of Three Oaks.

A Good Book on Dictators Those who like moderation and reason combined, plus a realistic viewpoint, will enjoy reading "Unto Caesar" by Voight, recently added to the Buchanan public library.

Voight is a writer on the staff of The Manchester Guardian, the great liberal newspaper of England. He writes as a rather conservative liberal, who distrusts European communism, Fascism, some brands of socialism, all dictator's brands of dictatorships, whether of the right or the left, whether of the "haves" or the "have-nots" and yet writes with a sane moderation, giving to each its due of credit as well as of discredit.

His book is particularly good for its appraisals of Stalin, Hitler, and Mussolini, and for its clear exposition of the position of England relative to the European countries and his conception of the proper relation of America to the European Messes—which is too keep jolly well out of it.

Likes Chase's "Mexico" "If you haven't read 'Mexico' by Stuart Chase you're missing something," said a well-informed Buchanan man to the writer as he indicated that book standing in a special rack on a table in the Buchanan public library. "I've read several books on Mexico and I've seen a little of it, and Chase has the best book in description. I haven't read anything in years so interesting, not even in the line of fiction."

And Mexico and all of our neighbors to the south are becoming more and more important to us. Better take this man's tip and read Chase on Mexico.

Founded City of Cleveland Moses Cleveland, founder of the city of Cleveland, Ohio, came from a distinguished family in Yorkshire, England. As time went on, the name was variously spelled Cleffland, Cliffland, Cleaveland, Cleaveland, and finally Cleveland.

Against 25,000,000 Bushels National Shortage, Mich. Raises 3,000,000 More Michigan's 1938 potato production will be 3,400,000 bushels larger than last year, in the face of a national production which is approximately 25,000,000 bushels short of 1937, according to estimates published by the Benton Harbor-Grand Rapids office of the federal-state market news service.

This year's 1938 production in Michigan is estimated at 32,040,000 bushels, compared with 26,634,000 bushels in 1937, and a 10-year average (1927 to 1936) of 26,267,000 bushels.

Total United States production, which averaged 369,693,000 bushels in the decade between 1927 and 1936, and was 393,289,000 bushels last year, is estimated at 368,203,000 bushels for 1938. For 1938 Michigan stands in second place among the 18 surplus potato states. It is led only by Maine, with 41,000,000 bushels, which had 48,503,000 bushels last year and a 10-year average of 43,819,000 bushels.

FRI. - SAT., DEC. 16 - 17 BOXER UNMARKED After ten years of a fistic career during which he met such boxing behemoths as Jack Johnson, Joe Jeanette, Jim Coffey, Kid McCoy, Frank Moran and Jess Willard, big Tom Kennedy, featured in "Torchy Gets Her Man," emerged without a single mark of injury. The broken nose which he sports today is the result of a fast pitched ball during a Sunday baseball game.

SECOND FEATURE SCREEN BASKETBALL Basketball as a background for a story comes to the screen for the first time Friday and Saturday at the Hollywood Theatre, when Paramount's "Campus Confessions" opens there.

The film features Hank Luisetti and his three-time intercollegiate championship team-mates, together with Betty Grable and Eleanor Whitney.

SKY'S THE LIMIT!

The sky was the limit when Paramount set out to make its great Technicolor cavalcade of aviation, "Men with Wings," which opens locally next Sunday at the Hollywood Theatre! In production for more than a year under the direction of William A. Wellman, the man who filmed the unforgettable "Wings," "Men with Wings" has cost a total of two million dollars! With Fred MacMurray, Ray Millst. and Louise Campbell playing the leading roles, the picture traces the history of flight for three decades and shows its effect on the lives of three young pioneers of the air.

BOB BURNS PLAYS FIRST STAR ROLE IN NEW PICTURE

This time it's Bob Burns, the sage of Van Buren, Arkansas, and America's ranking homespun humorist, who gets stellar rating for the first time in his new picture, "The Arkansas Traveler," which comes Wednesday and Thursday at the Hollywood Theatre.

In this story of life in a typical small town, Bob will be seen as a happy-go-lucky wandering printer who takes over the editorship of a country newspaper and fights a war against political corruption. His new reel continues the trend Bob started in "Wells Fargo" a season ago. He has cast aside his time-honored bazooka and musical comedy gags to blossom forth as a full-fledged character actor and portrayer of homely American types. "Hollywood" experts claim that he has now won the place occupied for so many years by the late beloved Will Rogers.
