Design for Living If you and I Would not look back, But glued our eyes To a forward track,

A bit less chary Of spending breath, A bit less wary Of age and death,

Nor backward bent, To a past allied, Reminiscent And rheumy-eyed,

Not made meager By fear or doubt, Only eager To live life out,

We were less shattered By bolts and bars, And life a matter Of wings and stars.

Commission Votes to Leave Selection to Chicago Pump Company

It was voted that the matter of selection be left to a representative of the Chicago Pump Co., who will come to confer with the applicants. George Hicks and T. Shoebottom of the Chicago Pump Co. came out last week to instruct the operator, but returned when they found that he had not been selected. They will return when the plant is finally opened and will be here about a month. The machinery was given a demonstration test here Thursday afternoon when the sewage was turned through, in the presence of city officials, of City Engineer Charles W. Cole and of Col. Clark News Depot Has Anniversary

It's a large week at the Clark News Depot this week. Anniversaries and rabbits, no end!

We'll start at the end and work backward. Next Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark will be host and hostess to the public on the occasion of the anniversary of their taking over the business just a year ago. The lady guests will receive flowers and the men free drinks. What kind? Well, why not go and find out?

Then, the first of the week, Mr. and Mrs. Clark were presented with a sumptuous bouquet of roses from friends, congratulating them on their business anniversary.

On last Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Clark served a 6 a. m. breakfast for their newsworthy, fifteen of them. The menu was bacon and scrambled eggs, sweet rolls, chocolate and ice cream.

Sometimes in the past week Mr. Clark jumped neck deep into the rabbit business. So deep he is thinking of changing the name of his establishment from "The News Depot" to "Ye Olde Rabbit Hutch." But the business will probably slump after Easter Sunday, as it is in white rabbits as Easter presents for children. It was started when Clark placed 11 rabbits in the window to sell for Herbert Ryan. They went fast and customers continued to come, so Clark hustled more. The first of the week he had placed about thirty.

Leases Snyder Tavern At a special meeting of the city council Tuesday evening the council approved a beer tavern license for Clark Mallot, owner of the Buchanan Bowling Alleys, who has leased the M. P. Snyder tavern. While it has not been definitely announced and Messrs. With The Medal Men at Clark's Being The Story of The Plant and Of The Men Who Built It By Building the Quality of Their Souls Into Their Work

CHAPTER 8 Although the derisive yodels were hooting and shouting "Get a horse!" wherever Tom Brown or Doc Beistle or Myron Mead chugger by in their convertible gas-or-horse powered automobiles back in 1908 and 1909, the long-headed industrialists already saw the decline of the buggy age and the coming of the car and were setting their sails accordingly.

That was why Fred Lee called in R. J. Burrows in the summer of 1909 and induced him to join Lee and Porter's for the purpose of steering them into the production of automobile axles, against the day when none other would be marketable. Burrows had learned the designing and manufacturing of automobile axles with the pioneer firm of Weston-Mott, first at Utica, N. Y., and later at Flint. The Weston-Mott company was later absorbed by General Motors and is now the axle department of that corporation.

Burrows entered the Lee & Porter factory Sept. 1, 1909, with pretty much unlimited discretionary powers to go ahead in the production of automobile axles. Since Lee & Porter had been in the production of the light carriage axle, it was natural that they turn to the passenger car rather than the truck axle.

Very soon after the arrival of Burrows production of car axles started at the rate of five sets daily and expanded quite rapidly until the destruction of the plant by fire in 1913. The first type produced was a bevel gear drive axle.

Although a tradition has persisted that Lee & Porter did not rebuild after the fire because their business was unprofitable, the reality seems to have been very much different. The annual output while the plant operated was as follows: 1910—240 sets of axles in one model. 1911—800 sets of axles in two models. 1912—1400 sets of axles in three models.

At the time of the fire the plant had just been enlarged and equipped for a rapidly expanding production. Burrows was authorized to install the necessary equipment, for automobile axle production, comprising mainly turret lathes, engine lathes, milling machines, drill presses, welding equipment and the like. By the time of the fire the cost of such new installation approximated $300,000. The year before the plant burned Frank Imhoff, then a carpenter and building contractor, had erected a new structure, 50x50 feet in dimension, at the down stream end adjoining the bike axle room, to house the expanding car axle production, and later, shortly before the fire he built an ell addition to the southwest, 40x90 feet in dimension. Equipment was just being installed in this addition and John Darr was still working on the windows when the fire destroyed the plant. A number of men had been hired the Monday preceding the Tuesday morning when the plant was burned to man the new department.

Previous to the installation of the axle department the Lee & Porter plant had been powered by large water wheels set in the company's private mill race on the south side of the stream. The power had been conveyed to the machinery by a large rope cable which was covered in its path up the bluff by a rough wooden shed. Now and then this cable would break and the boys would have a splicing job. The plant had its own electric plant then for lights for night work. These lights would be considered very inadequate now and Charles Fydel always carried a kerosene lantern on his rounds through the darker parts of the building.

When auto axle production began to mount the water power was inadequate and the plant was hooked onto the power lines from the Buchanan dam. The lighting system, however, was still far from any standard that would have been oked by Earl Yoder. When the big hammers went into action the lights in the plant would dim down so that one of the men would have to stand to the lever which governed them and advance until the hammers stopped, and then retard it to keep from burning out all of the lights.

The carriage and wagon axle business had been slipping before Burrows came and there were only 25 men at the plant when he was first employed. At the time of the fire on February 11, 1913, there were 130 men employed and the car axle end was going rapidly up. The carriage and wagon axle business was declining at the same rate, and was almost gone at the time of the fire. Plans had been made to terminate that department during 1913 and to transfer the entire force to the auto axle division. The financial rating of the company was excellent; its credit was unlimited. It had, in fact, the millions of the then prosperous Round Oak Stove company to draw on. The personal fortune of Fred Lee was then rated well over $1,000,000. Plans were under consideration for the installment of an automatic sprinkling system which would have prevented the destruction of the plant.

Just a little twist in the turn of events and the whole St. Joseph river bluff might now be covered by the development of the Lee & Porter plant. (Continued from page 4.)

HOW ABOUT THE DUST ON THE REDBUD TRAIL?

There are other things than prophets that are not without honor save in their own countries.

Recently a newspaper in a neighboring city instituted some inquiries as to when the redbud trees would be in bloom on the Redbud trail, and what measures, if any, would be taken to allay the dust nuisance at that time.

The representative of the paper stated that there was much interest manifested in the Trail as a suitable drive during the spring, but that last year dust had been so heavy that it not only obscured any view of the route but also made driving difficult.

As a publicity feature the Redbud Trail is, or could be made, a fine asset to Buchanan. It has actually been that for several years, but its usefulness could be multiplied by the expenditure of only a moderate amount of energy and a very much smaller outlay in funds. It could be made the lever for getting a paved north and south route through the city.

If it be indeed an asset, as business organizations believe, merely to have people pass through Buchanan it would serve that end; by publicizing a beautiful scenic asset in the neighborhood of the city it would have an indirect but real influence on the value of real estate, especially for those buyers who interested in summer or suburban homes or places for retirement.

The ideal organization to promote the Trail would be a Civic garden club, such as several cities in this vicinity already have.

With the Medal Men at Clarks

Among the men brought to Buchanan by Burrows, was E. C. Mogford, who had entered his employ at the Weston-Mott plant, just out of high school, in the capacity of draughtsman. Mogford became the draughtsman and blue print man in the Lee & Porter offices.

Lee & Porter's main customers for automobile axles were the Imperial Automobile company of Jackson, the Jackson Automobile company of Jackson, the Carter Car company of Jackson, and the Michigan Buggy company of Kalamazoo. Contracts from these and other companies were piled high when the plant burned.

Why The Plant Was Not Rebuilt

There were many conjectures as to the reason why the plant was not rebuilt, but the actual reason was pressure brought to bear on Fred Lee by a competing firm, the American Gear works of Jackson. This company offered to buy the good will of the Lee & Porter concern and to complete its unfinished contracts if it were not rebuilt. Lee was then growing elderly and was not ambitious about rebuilding the Buchanan industry. The Jackson company offered also to employ Burrows and such of his force as cared to move to Jackson. So Lee accepted.

After the fire Burrows gathered the remnants from the fire and transferred the recoverable assets to Jackson. A few Buchanan men went with him; the remainder were gradually absorbed by the Celfor Tool company, some immediately, some after the return of Burrows and the opening of the truck axle at the Celfor Tool plant. However Burrows' connection with the American Gear Works did not last long. Eugene B. Clark had watched the development of the automobile axle business at the Lee & Porter plant with the growing idea that here was a business that might be added to the Celfor plant. When the Lee & Porter burned, there was a force of trained men available in Buchanan. During April, 1913, Clark sent for Burrows with the idea of inducing him to join the Celfor staff and to put the company in the automotive axle business.

The remainder of this development will be treated in the story proper of the development of the Clark Equipment company and its predecessors in name at least, the Celfor Tool company and the George R. Rich Manufacturing company.

Children in Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

The Air Gun Civil Judges are convinced that the boy who becomes proficient in the operation of an air gun does not find it difficult later on to acquire the skill necessary to handle a real weapon.

While it may be amusing for thoughtless parents to witness small children re-enacting a robbery, hanging, or Indian massacre, there is danger that such children will continue to act out these parts when they become adults. Wise parents not only prohibit their children from tuning in on radio programs descriptive of crime, but they also supervise the types of motion pictures their children are allowed to see. A concerted movement is now under way in the United States to bar all toys, which might in any manner tend to depict war or crime, from interstate commerce, and to substitute in their place character building activities such as advocated and practiced by the Boy Scouts, the Y. M. C. A. and other praiseworthy movements.

Delinquent Children Are Often Emotionally Ill

Courts frequently discover that many children, sent to clinics for observation and treatment, are emotionally ill. An analysis of such children reveals that in many instances the emotional illness can be attributed directly to the parents. The seriousness of this problem can be realized after studying the results of a recent survey, which illustrated that from two to nine per cent of the city and the rural school population of a given state was made up of problem children. While the rate was highest in the large metropolitan areas, the rural schools possessed a per capita population which was approximately half as large as that found in the highly congested districts. Handicapped children are generally classified into mental and physical handicap categories. The mentally handicapped are usually considered to be either emotional, or retarded children. Many in this group are abnormal, possessing peculiar personality traits. Mentally retarded children are often feeble-minded and dull. Among the physically handicapped can be found the crippled, blind, deaf, etc., and also those suffering from tubercular and other chronic disorders.

It's Back to Nature for Western Reserve Coeds

To demonstrate to young college women some of the processes of nature on a farm and to supply university cafeterias with fruit and vegetables, a program of general farming is being carried on by students of Flora Stone Mather college of Western Reserve university, Cleveland, Ohio. Here the college coeds store farm products which supply the university's five cafeterias. The girls milk cows, care for horses, pitch hay and perform many other farm chores.

Voice of the People

The first selection, which is given below, was written by the late Lafayette Batchelor.

The Brotherhood of Man By A. L. BATCHELOR

If anyone should ask you, for a Just and Holy plan Tell them that the greatest precept, is The Brotherhood of Man.

If we all were striving, to help the human race This little Globe of ours, would be a better place.

If we could only banish, all selfishness and greed And always show a willing, to help a man in need There would be joy in living, and pleasure every day.

If we could all agree to live, this Just and Holy way.

Then happiness would fill the earth, and Paradise begin To banish greed and envy, would be the end of sin.

To benefit the Human race, I know no better plan Than to remember all the time, The Brotherhood of Man.

To Your Mother and Mine By ARTHUR W. DEEDS

To her who bore the pain of death, To give to you life's long breath, The highest honor in this world is due To the mother that cradled you;

And when in pain, or sorrow deep You went to mother for relief And it was she, who with a mother's tender pride missed your cheek, and the tears she dried.

When you in your sick bed lay You never thought to see the break of day

It was she, who with those tender hands

That God gave her to command That brought you back to health once more To run and play upon the floor.

So, with all you own and with all you possess Make the life of your mother a heavenly caress.

Washington News Letter

Now Who Refuses to Economize? The President has us on our way toward our tenth annual deficit.

Our first $41,000,000,000 public debt. But the spenders in Congress—some of those who have been yelling against the President because he spent and wasted, last week tried to go him one better.

They attempted to add a $250,000,000 item, which was not in the budget, which was not asked by the President, to an appropriation for the purpose of paying additional subsidies to farmers—this although the bill included a $509,000,000 item under the farm program. The attempt lost—191 to 204. An effort will be made to put it back in the Senate.

On the other hand, the President wanted $60,000,000 added to buy surplus commodities and he also is requesting funds to take care of the 11,000,000 bales of cotton the Government holds and of which it does not know how to dispose. If it sells it on the world market, paying the cotton farmer a subsidy, that means that, after it is manufactured into clothing abroad, our taxpayers are reducing the cost of all cotton goods to people in foreign lands.

The Government has millions of bales of cotton on hand; it has billions of dollars of gold buried in the hills of Kentucky; other billions of dollars of silver buried around West Point. It is a strange world.

WPA Money

Since the New Deal came into power, $21,000,000,000 has been spent for relief. One-third of that, or $7,000,000,000, has gone to WPA, which has never made any account to anyone of the funds given it. (Some men even ask their wives for change when they give them 50c to buy groceries.)

WPA administrators certainly travel and eat. They used $469,929 for travel and subsistence in January.

Congress appropriated $3,000,000 for United States exhibits at the New York World's Fair, appointing a commission to supervise the expenditure of the money. The Government erected a building. All Departments of the Government were requested to cooperate in making the exhibit. All except WPA did so. WPA went just around the corner and spent $250,000 putting up a permanent building, which, when the Fair is over, is to be given to New York City.

Always, when we are asked to appropriate WPA funds, we are told that people are hungry; that they lack clothing; that they are cold; that they need shelter and fuel. And so, rather than be accused of being hardhearted, Congress votes the money by the billion and WPA uses $250,000 for a building at a World's Fair, in which there is a theatre which will present a series of 45 minute plays.

It uses other thousands to send traveling theatrical troops about the country, the players being theatrical people who have refused jobs at private employment.

In Cleveland, $100,000 of relief funds allocated to fixing up a beauty parlor project.

In Chicago, WPA organized a Negro opera troop to swing the Mikado. Then they took it to New York.

In New York, electricians working on WPA projects are permitted to earn as much as $210 a month.

On the construction of an airport in New York, electricians earned as much as $260 a month out of WPA funds.

How do these amounts compare with what the farmers, the clerks in the stores, the men who are conducting their own small business enterprises, earn out in the country?

How much longer do you want us to vote taxpayers' money to employ people to put on traveling shows, to build beauty parlors, exhibition buildings at fairs throughout the country?

The poor and unfortunate cannot satisfy their hunger by looking at these shows; neither can they eat or wear the beauty parlor.

In short, WPA is a law unto itself and, because it yields to the false statements that it is uncharitable, that it is willing to see people suffer, Congress lets this bunch of so-called feather their own nests and live on the fat of the land while people are in need and business is being destroyed because it cannot carry the load saddled upon it by all these governmental spending agencies.

Even though two days' debate showed that it was not actually needed, the House on Friday, March 31, voted $100,000,000 of the $150,000,000 additional the President asked for relief.

Sincerely, Clare E. Hoffman, Your Representative.

April 1, 1939.

A new schedule for next year which will differ a little from the one now in use is being prepared by Mr. P. J. Moore. The chief object in the change is to give the pupils a chance for more self-government.

'39 TRACK SCHEDULE

This year's track schedule has now been released. It is as follows: April 8, Interclass meet; April 13, Triangular meet at Niles (there); May 7, Paw Paw (there); May 14, Benton Harbor (there); May 21, Regional meet at Kalamazoo; May 28, State meet at East Lansing.

VISIT DISPOSAL PLANT

Friday, March 24, the eighth grade classes in general science went to the city sewage disposal plant where they learned the details of its operation. They went during the first two hours in the afternoon but returned in time for six-hour classes.

INFORMAL TEA

The foods class last Wednesday gave an informal tea at which the pupils practiced carrying on a conversation with poise and grace. They put into effect the things they have been studying about social assets.

Show "Washington's Virginia"

"George Washington's Virginia" was the title of a movie shown on Friday, March 24. Places of interest to Washington fans were shown—his home, Martha's home, his club, and places where he surveyed as well as many relics. The film proved that Virginia has much beautiful scenery and scenic roadways along which the beauty of the South may be seen at its best.

MAKES HONORARY SOCIETY

William Habicht, a graduate of Buchanan High School, who is now attending the college of Engineering at Cornell University, has recently been initiated into "Scabbard and Blade," honorary officer's society of the Cornell R. O. T. C. Habicht holds a John McMullen regional scholarship and has made an outstanding academic record. He expects to receive a B. S. degree in Mechanical Engineering in 1940.

Show Films To Hom Ec. Dept.

"Alaska's Silver Millions" and "Jerry Pulls the Strings," both films presented by the American Can Company, will be shown by Miss Krebs on April 10, the Monday after vacation. The first film deals with the salmon-canning industry in Alaska; the second is the story of coffee told by puppets.

HALF DAY HOLIDAY

The school building was empty last Friday afternoon because the pupils were given the half-day off in anticipation of the longer vacation this week.

In the morning, students attended a general assembly at eleven o'clock, at which a film on coal was shown.

Bank Essay Contest

A ten-dollar prize has been offered to the prize winner in an essay contest by the local Union State Bank. The contest is open to seniors, who will write on "How a Bank Serves Its Community." The winning essay will be sent to the state headquarters where it will become eligible for the five hundred-dollar prize being offered.

STUDY NAPOLEON

Discussion and study of the life and accomplishments of Napoleon Bonaparte have been taken up in the tenth grade history classes.

MAP ANCIENT ITALY

Maps of Italy in the time of the ancient Romans have been handed in by the tenth grade Latin classes. The colored maps represent the different Italian states before they were brought under Rome's control.

SOLVE SMELL MYSTERY

The mystery of the evil-smelling bottles that biology students have been waving under friends' noses is solved. The bottles contain cyanide preparations which are used to kill insects collected on field trips and were made under Mr. Langer's supervision. They were first used Friday, March 24, on a field day hike.

Gives Talk on Parisian Visit

At a meeting of the French Club Monday, March 4, Mr. Hawes spoke on Youth Hostels in Europe, particularly those in Paris. This system of economy traveling for young people is becoming popular in the United States. Michigan has a regular chain of hostels, as have several New England States, Indiana, and California—as well as in Europe. Mr. Hawes spoke of his visit to Paris and the popularity of the coffee shops where students may obtain meals for a very reasonable rate while they attend the University of Paris.

FILMS AT P. T. A. MEETING

Monday, March 27, two films were shown at the Parent Teachers Association meeting, "History of the Panama Canal" and "The Fleet in Action."

The purpose of the showing was to demonstrate the new projector and the value of visual education which is now possible.

SEVENTH GRADE PARTY

At a party given Thursday, March 30, by the second division of the seventh grade, relay races, Professor Quiz contests and egg hunts were the order of the day. The party was held in the home economics room which was decorated with Easter colors.

The committee: Raymond Pader, Doris Reamer, and Ruth Schneider. Maurice Nelson sang. The party was sponsored by Miss MacNeil.

Books of the Week

This week's book is "Saint Joan" by George Bernard Shaw, famous critic and writer. The play is excellent and easy to read, but Mr. Shaw doesn't pull his punches. As is his custom, he pokes fun (not very subtly) at everything with which he comes in contact.

Joan of Arc is presented as any ordinary peasant girl except for her visions, and the other characters are hardly more than a background.

This play, and all of Shaw's plays, is heartily recommended to everyone with enough intelligence to understand them.

Test Voices in Drama Classes

The dramatics class tested their voices Friday, March 24, over a radio in the science lecture room, for the purpose of learning their suitability for radio work. Each pupil read a few lines from the dramatics textbook, speaking into a microphone in an adjoining room.

Maxine Arthurhultz sang at the conclusion of the tests.

China Silk To Be Gay Operetta

The gay melodies and attractive rhythms of "China Silk," the radio operetta, are enough to inspire the most unimaginative. The people taking part in the operetta are going at their work enthusiastically.

The students are enlarging their scope of study by including both China and Japan since there is much similarity in these two nations.

"China Silk" will give a good picture of the Orient, with its colorful music and costumes, moon gates and pagodas. The skits between the acts will be equally entertaining.

CONCERTS AT CHURCHES

The school orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Robinson, gave a concert at the Methodist church Thursday, March 30.

Another concert was given at the Presbyterian church on Sunday, April 2.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Since this week is a holiday and Microphone news must be in a week before publication, the Record will not carry the Microphone next week.

Grade News

First Grade—Miss Connell
We are painting pictures with poster paint. Everyone in the room has made one or more pictures. Some are group work, others are made by the individual.

We are studying about birds in our nature study. Some of us have seen seventy robins since they have returned from the South. We are counting the different birds we see. We are now studying our favorite bird, "The Robin."

The following mothers visited our room this week: Mrs. Merrifield, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Lomough, Mrs. Schiffman, Mrs. Myer, Mrs. Simpson. They came up to our assembly program and visited our room before the assembly started.

Each month an assembly program is given by the grades. As part of the April program, Miss Carnagan's pupils dramatized "The Three Bears." It was presented in three acts. Act one was the interior of the Bears' home with Mother Bear preparing the porridge. Act two—the Bears taking a walk in the woods. Act three—Goldilocks visiting the Bears' home, and the return of the Bears. Richard Virgil was Father Bear; Kathryn Furner was Mother Bear; Billy Nelson was Baby Bear; Charadene McCarty was Goldilocks. The stage managers were: Dale Rifenberg, Donald Toll, and Glen Walter.

Second Grade—Miss Fritz
We visited the public library. Mrs. Ludwig showed us where to find the children's books and children's magazines.

Then she taught us how to use the files to look up titles and authors of books. She gave us a card to fill out and have our parents sign so we could take out books. We looked through some children's books. We learned a new word called "juvenile." Juvenile means "young people." All the children's books have "J" stamped on them. The "J" stands for juvenile. As we left, Mrs. Ludwig gave each of us a peppermint candy stick. We thanked her for the good time and candy.

Jimmy Martin and Jacky Stark brought some tadpoles to school. We learned about tadpoles in our reader. Now we are going to watch them change to frogs.

We colored eggs Friday morning. We are going to have an egg roll.

Donna Phiscator brought a rabbit to school. We have had fun feeding it.

Miss Kinney—Third Grade
Our grade has been reading many stories about rocks and fossils. We took a walk to the gravel pit last Thursday to find as many kinds of rocks as possible. We were able to get a very interesting collection, which includes, granite, sandstone, feldspar and many other kinds of rock.

The committees which have been working on Health and Customs in France and Italy, have finished their freize in chalk.

We boiled some eggs and colored them for Easter. Some of the boys and girls blew the inside of the eggs out into a dish, and colored faces on the shells.

Fourth Grade—Mrs. Fuller
We found an interesting article and a set of pictures telling "How a Tadpole Grows to a Frog" in our Junior Red Cross News. Then Bob Stark and Jean Mangold brought some real live tadpoles. Thus we saw all stages in the life history of a frog. Our readers, "In Field and Forest," told more interesting facts about several kinds of frogs and how Mother Nature has fitted them for safety.

Before vacation we are coloring eggs just for fun. We have read about Easter celebrations in many lands and think that egg coloring would be nice to do.

Miss Ekstrom—Fifth Grade
Miss Henry has given the girls a new ball and bat to play with at recess.

The class has been doing audience reading. One of the aims in reading is the development of such fluency in oral reading as will enable the children to read intelligently and entertainingly the selections needed in group activities.

Sixth Grade—Miss Jeffery
Leo Heubner's name has been added to our Dental Honor Roll. We heard the story "Billy Butler" over the radio last Friday. We saw the movie "Washington's Virginia" last Wednesday.

We are studying "Germany" in our geography class. Dorothy Rouse, Maxine Young, and Betty Baker each told a chapter of "Sharp Ears."

We are making booklets with our interpretations of the radio broadcasts we hear and the movies we see. This helps us to make and use outlines.

Each pupil is making a special study of a bird or animal. We enjoyed the assembly program presented by the two First Grades.

In our arithmetic class we are working on area, perimeter, and volume.

Miss Graves visited our room one morning.

Twelve girls and five boys had perfect spelling lessons this week. We wrote riddles about people we studied in history. Everyone wrote a paragraph without an error in capitalization, punctuation or sentence structure.

We wrote book reports, puzzles, and stories for the "School Tribune."

Dewey Avenue School

Special Room—E. Treanus
We have been making some cut paper animals; chickens, ducks and frogs.

Our boys are making plans for bird houses. John brought a story book that we used very much. One of our bean seeds has sprouted through the ground. Bonnie arranged our bulletin board with pictures about Holland. We are collecting pictures of musical instruments for our music booklets. We put two songs in our book. Bonnie wrote the words to one called, "I Have a Little Pony." Mrs. Imhoff wrote the tune for it when she was here. Charles' song "My Cat, Pat" is also in the book. Miss Reams wrote the tune for this song.

Third Grade—Nina Fricmar
Phyllis Ravisk and Betty Padlock were elected to serve on the yard committee this week.

Walter Casto and John Spatta are absent on account of sickness. The boys and girls are delighted with some new books Miss Graves sent us.

We are printing our names and making designs for our music books.

Fourth Grade—Sara L. Quikel
We have been very busy making music notebooks and also practicing whistling for the operetta.

Vonne Mikosell is doing the topic printing for the "School Tribune." We are very glad to add Lucille Dawe's name to our school roll.

First Grade—Belle Miller
Flossie Mollberg has a perfect attendance record.

We have a new jumping rope for use at recess time.

Donna Lee Mathie is our policeman this week.

Bonnie Helliwig is the nurse. Second Grade—Mabel Wilcox

We have a new pupil in our room. Her name is Gracys Dame. We have been working on some spring posters of rabbits, birds, chicks, and ducks.

Billy Filch and Robert Simpson have been absent on account of illness.

We are learning "The Cobbler" and "The Dancing Song" for the Operetta.

Kindergarten—Virginia Anderson
We are raising baby chicks. We made a coop of wire around our sandbox. At first we had four black ones, now we have eight yellow ones, making twelve. We had to separate the yellow chicks from the black ones because they didn't get along well. We appreciate and thank the Farm Bureau for sending us our yellow chicks.

Dogs Do Not Deceive
Dogs are realistic in the best meaning of the word. They do not deceive themselves, they do not know how to deceive others.

Discovery of Honduras
Honduras was discovered by Columbus on his fourth voyage in 1502.

River Has Reversing Falls
The St. John river in Canada is noted for its reversing falls. When the tide is out, the falls flow toward the sea. At half tide or slack water, they are open to navigation both ways. At high water or full tide, the current flows inward.

Police Hunt Murderer Among 2,000 in Hospital

LONDON.—The murder of Arthur Izzard, 34-year-old inmate of Chatham mental hospital, near Canterbury, who was robbed and beaten to death in the grounds of the asylum, is presenting a difficult problem to detectives and psychologists.

Police are seeking to find the murderer among the 2,000 inmates, while doctors are endeavoring to prevent the innocent 1,999 from being upset by the investigations. They fear that the crime might provoke other patients to homicide, should the facts of the murder become known.

Izzard, who was regarded as almost normal and soon to be released, was on his way to town to buy delicacies for his fellow inmates. He carried less than $5 in coppers and silver in a small cotton bag. This was missing when his body, the head crushed, was found in the hospital cemetery.

Oldest Commercial Company
At Falun in Sweden is the oldest commercial company in the world. It has owned a mine there for 700 years and extracted from it over half a million tons of copper, more than 15 tons of silver and a ton of gold.

YOU'VE probably noticed that most of the folks who drive Buicks come back again and again to this great automobile when it's time to buy a new car.

There are two reasons for that. One's a money reason, the other's a pleasure reason.

Sticking to Buick means you're sure every year that you're getting top value, and no hunting all over town to find it.

Repeating on Buick means that season after season you ride behind the ablest eight of its size in the world — the Buick valve-in-head straight-eight, that Dynaflex powerhouse that's livelier and smoother and thrifter than engines of other type.

Year after year you'll travel in comfort — the smooth, easy, level-going comfort of the torque-tube drive and BuicOil Springing, sailing along on a staunch and sturdy chassis that holds you true and steady to your course.

You always have room in a Buick — and this year you've a new and broader outlook through 412 added square inches of safety plate glass. And you're leading the style parade — no doubt about that — with appearance that's like a leaf from tomorrow's book.

All of which adds up, you'll find, to satisfaction so complete that once you've got the Buick driving habit, no other car quite seems to measure up.

Now this big strong resilient straight-eight costs less than you think. It's priced lower than a year ago — even below some sixes.

So why not simplify your car-buying for all time — get that smart Buick riding habit now.

In no other way that we know can you make sure of having so much fun. Or of getting so much value for every penny you spend!

"Better buy Buick!"

"Thou Shalt Not Kill"
The first of the five commandments of Buddhism, whose adherents constitute about one-fifth of the population of the entire world, is "Thou shalt not kill any living creature." Moreover, says Collier's Weekly, Buddhism has been free from religious warfare, with one exception, since it was founded about 2,300 years ago.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 472): "All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good, and He makes all that is made."

Verses Read at the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Sebasty.
"Twas in the time of the open chaise
Fifty years ago, but it seems today
He met her here in Dayton town,
And asked straightway if he could come down
And see her. She consented as he thought she would,
Then she'd go get her cape and hood,
And they'd go riding around in his chaise
And he got her to name their wedding day!
Their wedding took place as weddings will,
Though it's fifty years, he loves her still!
Oh! There've been "ups and downs" in their married life,
As there always is between husband and wife,
But the "downs" have made their love grow strong—
Until fifty years doesn't seem so long.
So we're celebrating here tonight,
In memory of their wedding night!
And hope as years still come and go,
Much peace and joy will they yet know.
You'll ask whom I am talking of,
Which two hearts it was that were filled with love,
And I answer you, "they're here tonight,"
Celebrating their wedding night,
It's Julia and Jerome—Sebasty, by name,
And we're all so very glad they came—
So let's all stand up and greet them now
Now let's ask them to take a bow!

With the coming of spring, many boys and girls will again be on the streets riding bicycles. After a long winter, youngsters are prone to throw care to the winds in the excitement of sports and games. This is also the time when adults step on the accelerators a little harder and speed a little faster. At this time of the year people are out more, making it necessary for all of us to be more careful.

If your child has not read this article, please call to his attention now, as this material has been prepared after much experience and careful thought. All children who ride bicycles should obey the Ten Commandments of safe bicycle riding.

Rule No. 1—Obey all traffic regulations.
Rule No. 2—Always be sure to ride in a straight line.
Rule No. 3—Have proper signals for night riding.
Rule No. 4—Have a satisfactory horn or other device to warn of approach.
Rule No. 5—Give pedestrians the right of way.
Rule No. 6—Look out for cars at crossings and pulling out of parking places.
Rule No. 7—Do not hitch on vehicles.
Rule No. 8—Do not carry another person on your bicycle.
Rule No. 9—Keep your bicycle in good condition.
Rule No. 10—Always ride carefully.

After a long winter all red blooded boys and girls are full of pep. It is just as easy to ride carefully as carelessly. Obey all the above rules and ride safely. The reason for the large number of bicycle accidents is the lack of judgment on the part of the bicyclist as well as the motorist. In the majority of cases the bicyclist, because of his youth, is apt to do almost anything in the part of an approaching motorist. Statistics show that the bicyclist is at fault in 75.2% of the collisions; in the remainder, the cyclist unfortunate enough to be present when a motorist was either violating a traffic law or a safe driving rule.

Everyone is interested in seeing the number of traffic accidents reduced, and everyone will welcome the news that plans are being made for the establishment of bicycle safety clubs. This is a part of a National Safety Campaign to reduce the number of these accidents. Many suggestions have been offered as remedies for the bicycle problem. Among these are the re-laying of bicycle paths and the arrest of parents of offending youngsters, and taking bicycles away from children. It seems that the most effective way of solving this problem is an educational program, carried on through the medium of bicycle safety clubs. This, also would be the simplest method. For this reason every town should have a bicycle safety club.

Complete information and materials for organizing a safety Bicycle Club can be secured at no charge from the local Gambie Store which is cooperating with the National Bicycle Safety League in sponsoring Bicycle Safety Clubs through the country.

Kelly To Shorten Time of Payment on Gasoline Refund
Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, has made arrangements whereby the payment of refund claims against the state on gasoline used by individuals or corporations for industrial, agricultural or other refundable usages, if properly made out and sent to the secretary of state within the time limit, will be allowed and paid within fifteen days.

Individuals or corporations using gasoline for other purposes than to operate motor vehicles on the public roads, streets and highways in this state are entitled to a refund of the state tax on gasoline of three cents per gallon so used. Purchasers, to take advantage of this refund privilege, must file a sworn claim with the secretary of state within ninety days from the date of purchase. Claim blanks are furnished by the secretary of state on request and must be accompanied by the original invoice or invoices from a registered gasoline dealer received by the purchaser, showing the date and amount of gasoline purchased and when approved by the Secretary of state, will be paid out of the state highway fund upon the state warrant of the auditor general. These claims are not assignable without the written consent of the secretary of state.

Kelly states that if the claim for refund is received, properly filled out and notified and in proper order, the claim will be allowed and paid within the fifteen day period.
