

DR. PRESTON BRADLEY HERE TONIGHT

U. of M. Speaker to Present Dowagiac Community Plan Here May 8 Under Auspices of College Club

Now Here's the Proposition

Uncle Hank of the Hills Corners Sez:

Down in Buchanan they're figgerin' on puttin' zippers down the middle of every street so they can take the sewer pipes out eazier.

In Praise of the Animal Kingdom When I see guys throw out their chests

And ballyhoo in accents hearty—The buttons popping from their vests—In fervent praises of "my party."

I scarce would hand the term of fools To any of these heavy thinkers—And yet I never knew of mules Who bragged about their style of blinkers.

Spring Am Sprung Well, friends and neighbors, spring lit right in our lap in one jump this week, the official announcement being the installment of the pansy garden in front of Mark Treat's store.

As a result, farming, gardening and house cleaning are being pursued feverishly on all sides. Even the Clark Equipment company caught the fever and has been taking the water tower apart on Days avenue and reaming it.

Red Schwartz's wild flower garden on his Moocasin bluff tract has been a sight to behold in the past week, the annual spring showing of hepaticas reaching its peak Sunday and Monday with the white, pink and blue beauties and some new pastel shades fairly plastering the hillsides.

If you missed them you missed something. Of course most fellows are more interested in the new spring shades in fishing tackle on display at Matt Kellings in anticipation of the Grand Opening April 29.

But When Will Business Warm Up, Harve? Harve Bristol established himself as an authentic weather prophet this spring by hitting the break within two days. Harve announced in March that there would be no warm weather until after the eclipse of the sun April 19th.

The Message There was a letter from her on the lawn one April morning Written there in blue and white and yellow crocus flame, Bars of all denial and of separation scoring, Meant for me as certainly as though they spelled my name,

Flowering where she planted them in bright October weather, With a wistful intuition that she might not see them bloom, In the strange, far, other days when we were yet together Ere her life was withered in a blighting breath of doom,

In a wind of destiny more chilling than December. Yet her certain message in the April lawn was set, "This is to remind you that I asked you to remember—To remember only, and never to regret."

University and Kellogg Foundation Organize in Branch County

Dr. Howard McClusky, a member of the extramural staff of the University of Michigan, will speak at the high school auditorium Monday evening May 8 on the subject of "The Coordination of Community Improvement Agencies."

Dr. McClusky was secured through the agency of George Chain, president of the Buchanan's Men's club and of Mrs. William Gnodtke, who knew him at the University of Michigan. It is expected that he will present a plan for community building such as is now in progress at Dowagiac and in Branch county under University of Michigan auspices.

In Branch county a Branch County Community Corporation has been formed through which, with the collaboration of the university and of the Kellogg Foundation, which operates in that county, a notable program of achievement has been initiated and is already in process of being carried out. While most of the effort there and in Dowagiac is directed toward youth improvement, adult education movements are also included.

Further details of the lecture here, which is sponsored by seven local organizations, will be given next week.

Where Pope Pius XII Will Mount Throne

Assumption of St. Peter's throne by Pope Pius XII will be completed Thursday, May 18, with ceremonies in which the pontiff will formally take possession of the Cathedral of St. John Lateran, above, his see as bishop of Rome. The procession from Vatican to the Roman cathedral will be the first of its kind in 83 years, popes since that time having been voluntary "prisoners" inside the Vatican walls. This imprisonment was ended by the Lateran concordat of 1929.

Tales of An Old Town

When the writer launched blithely into this series last week he had a nucleus of fact and tradition to start on but he did not realize fully the difficulties there would be in rounding out the gaps.

The intention, of course, was to present a picture rather than a detailed story as far as this series will relate to the Civil War. Since last week the writer has gone to a number of Buchananites whose memories touch the period, and has also scouted about among the old timers in the Mt. Tabor district and Berrien Springs, adding bit by bit to the oral traditions of the times of the Civil War.

One tells of Nigger Street running west of the Mt. Tabor Grange hall, and populated by staunch abolitionists; another tells of the trips to the encampments at Niles to see the soldiers before their departure; another tells of the clashes between the neighborhood "Black Republicans" or "nigger lovers" and the "Copperheads" or "Seceshes." And bit by bit the picture emerges of life on the home front a bit dim and sketchy in details, but a picture.

In one detail the writer made an error. Alonzo Bennett did not publish the "Vindicator," which was the forerunner of the "Record" but a shortlived sheet, the "Independent."

The writer believes this was correct—but there are no documents extant to prove it. However at this point a tribute to the memory of George Black is in order. A few weeks ago, when the writer first thought of this series, he went to the home of George Black and learned for the first time of his illness. He was never well enough to talk after that and with him passed a storehouse of facts about his town. His memory was extraordinarily full and accurate.

Mr. Black told the writer about a year ago that Bennett ran a "copperhead" paper in the Tremont house, and that as a small boy he used to like to mess around in the type cases, with the benevolent eye of Mr. Bennett watching him. But Buchanan was too hot a center of Republicanism for Mr. Bennett and about the time the war broke out he loaded up his California type cases and his George Washington hand press and departed for a little town in Illinois where the opinion was more evenly divided and a Democrat paper was correspondingly safer. However, one day a column of Union soldiers marching southward through the town suddenly broke rank in front of the office, ran in, smashed the type cases and equipment and threw everything into the street. Then Bennett took up the less precarious profession of bookkeeping and Dick returned to Buchanan and shortly afterward went to the army in the South.

There seems to be practically no records or traditions of Dewey here, but the Michigan Pioneer & Historical Records at the Buchanan Public Library identify him as the man who ultimately entered the publishing business at Owosso and became the grandfather of the present Atty. Thomas Dewey of New York City.

The only living person the writer has found who remembers him is Albert Barnhart, who is still active as the sexton of the Berrien Springs cemetery at 93. Mr. Barnhart remembers his speaking activities but could not place him as a teacher. However a letter by Esther Montague Winch in the Record in 1930 did that. She said: "Mr. Dewey, the first principal of the brick schoolhouse in Buchanan, began improved methods there about 1856. He said every pupil must write an article or speak a piece Fridays. Florence Bennett, a 14 year-old girl, did neither. Mr. Dewey kept her after school. She then wrote on the blackboard: Farewell scholars, and farewell school, Farewell Dewey, you darned old fool!"

She decided to stop school but was sent back the next day. The writing was still on the board. Mr. Dewey told her to apologize before the other pupils. She would not, and I believe he feruled her hand. Anyway her father sued Mr. Dewey and lost his suit."

Rival Company Boosts Royalty

Offer Land Owners, 25 Pct. of Oil Produced

The oil fever mounted in the districts north and west of Buchanan in the past week, with the entrance of another leasing offer in the field, presented at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Lola Krieger last Wednesday night.

At that time the Buchanan Oil Improvement Association was formed among land owners who had not already leased to the California-Michigan Oil company.

The organizers of the new association gave a very flattering report of prospects in this district, stating that they had made an exhaustive survey and expected large production. They stated that their means of determining prospects is by means of soil analysis. They made a tentative offer of a 25% royalty instead of the 12 1/2% royalty offer made by the California-Michigan Oil company. They stated that they expected to have an oil rig somewhere in the Madron lake district at an early date.

The California-Michigan Oil company is reported to have several drills operating in the Van Buren County field. Both organizations have apparently been active in scouting in Buchanan, Weesaw and Galien townships and in the eastern section of Bertrand township.

George Black Called by Death

Served Several Terms President Village; Was Furniture Manufacturer

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon for George Black, 86, former president of Buchanan village, at his home at 119 West Front street, with Rev. W. H. Brunelle in charge, and burial was made in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Black was born in Ashburnham, Mass., March 25, 1853, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace S. Black. He came with his parents to New Buffalo in 1855. His father, H. S. Black and his uncle, Charles Black, established a furniture factory there. In 1860 they moved their factory to Buchanan. George Black had lived here continuously since that time. He was employed for years in his father's factory, and was also engaged in manufacturing for himself, making a garden cultivator which he designed. In 1890 he opened a furniture factory, making a typewriter desk and other articles. He retired in 1911.

He was village president in 1901-1903, and in 1910. He retired from business in 1911. He was unmarried. His only surviving relatives are two nieces, Mrs. Fred Ludtke of Three Oaks and Mrs. Addie Miller of Chicago.

Hatfield Talks on Child Delinquency

Judge Malcolm Hatfield of the Probate Court, will speak next Monday evening to the members of the Child Study club at the home of Mrs. Herbert Huebner. His topic will be "Juvenile Delinquency."

Opens Furniture Store on Front St.

H. W. Sherman has opened a furniture store in the former Bazaar quarters on East Front St., where he will deal in new and used furniture and upholstery work. He was formerly employed by the Admiral Furniture company, located between Niles and South Bend, and will continue the high quality of service. He plans to bring his family to Buchanan soon to live.

Snake's Fast Broken by Zoo Keepers

Strangler, a 15-foot anaconda snake, who started to fast upon his arrival at the Philadelphia zoo last August, was finally forced to eat despite himself. Roger Conant, zoo curator, used a ram rod through the snake's open mouth, pushing food through a tube in its throat. It took 10 men to hold Strangler during the forcible feeding process. Rabbit meat was served.

With The Medal Men at Clark's

Being The Story of The Plant and Of The Men Who Built It By Building The Quality of Their Souls Into Their Work

In an earlier chapter I developed the thesis that in the good old days of the first decade of the century people saved more, when they did save more, just because they spent less, and not because their money went so much further, and in a general way they got along by sticking to the good old rule that a nickel is a nickel.

Mrs. Roy Pierce told the writer how for a time after her husband joined the Celfor payroll she used to get the children a dime's worth of candy every fortnightly payday, but after a searchless discussion of where their money was going they decided to cut that out. Nowadays she says Roy will spend ten cents and even more and never turn a hair.

There were not so many places to go and no way to get there if there were, for though they were hardy walkers in those days the slowness of the process limited the distance traveled for other than business purposes in the days of the 60-hour working week.

In the first days of the George R. Rich company the churches and the Rough opera house were about all the social meeting places there were. Of course there were the saloons, but women were tabooed from saloons then. A few years later the silent movie theatre in Buchanan was started. The first movie theatre in Buchanan was a "nickelodeon" operated by Harry Curtis in the room on Days avenue now occupied by the Thomas Ice Cream parlor, about 1910-11. The admission was a nickel. Curtis sold to Flo Peddicord, who moved the nickelodeon to the room now occupied by the Snyder beer tavern.

The shows would now be considered dear at the price. However Flo Peddicord's theatre boasted an orchestra, consisting of Gertrude Kean at the piano, Ed Pascoe on the saxophone or slide trombone and C. H. (Pete) Fuller with the snare drum. The place was heated in winter by a coal stove which was not equal to the occasion on cold nights. The floor was of wide boards with sizeable cracks between. Sometimes, just to get up a little circulation, Pete Fuller would get up from his snare drum and play on the stove pipe.

In 1912 Phay Graffort bought out Flo Peddicord and operated the place as the "Bell Theatre." Starting with a 5-cent admission price, he then put in three-reel shows and raised the price to ten cents. The three-reel shows lasted 45 minutes and Graffort would sometimes run three shows a night, packing in three capacity audiences. The present Hollywood theatre building was erected for Graffort in 1914 and he started there in partnership with Frank Whitman. After Whitman died he continued in partnership with Mrs. May Whitman until 1925 when they sold to Homer Morley. Many of the young medal men and their wives spent practically nothing on amusements and their occasions of paid entertainment that cost them money were few and far between. Few of them owned rigs of any kind and there were a scarce half dozen cars in town until after the end of the first decade of the century. Frank Dodge tells how he and his wife used to go to Niles by bus for 25c and from there take the interurban for South Bend. Their annual vacation was a day on the beach at St. Joseph. He did not tell me how they went but likely they took the Michigan Central to Galien and went north on the train from there. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pierce used to go occasionally to visit her relatives at Eydick, Ind., and it took a half day to make the distance of ten miles direct south, as they had to go by the Michigan Central to Niles, catching the interurban there for South Bend and catching the train at South Bend to Lydick. They would have to walk from home to the depot in Buchanan, carrying or leading three children, walk between depots in Niles and in South Bend. They had a child's go cart which they had to carry in the train. They had a very hard time but did not know it, since people knew no better then. J. E. Cook used to hire a horse and rig for $1 for a trip to Niles, and for $1.50 to go to South Bend and back. About the only amusements he and his wife knew were rare concerts and shows at the Rough opera house, and the Buchanan Blues in baseball games in the summer. For many people nice Sunday afternoons in the summer it was a regular thing to walk to the Michigan Central depot to see No. 14 come in from Chicago sometime after 5 p. m. Over a long period of years its time varied from 5:16 p. m. to 5:27 p. m. On nice afternoons the bank on the south side of the tracks would be lined with young fellows and their girls and couples with their families. Sam McClellen and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Starik, Ed C. Pascoe and A. H. Klehn,

Net Receipts Go to Scholarship Fund of Club

Dr. Preston Bradley, noted pastor of "The People's Church" of Chicago, and a nationally known radio speaker and news commentator, will lecture tonight at the high school under the auspices of the Buchanan College Club on the topic, "What Are We Facing?"

Dr. Bradley's lecture was originally scheduled for Jan. 26, but was canceled at that time on account of his illness. The high school auditorium will be opened at 7 p. m. tonight. The high school orchestra, directed by R. R. Robinson, will begin a 30 minute program at 7:30 p. m. The lecture will begin at 8 p. m.

The net receipts of the lecture will go to the scholarship fund maintained by the College Club. A member of that organization has contributed the following account of the aims and purposes of that organization.

History of the Buchanan College Club

The American Association of University women served as a model, some sixteen years ago, when the Buchanan College Club was organized for the sole purpose of creating a scholarship fund with which to help our high school graduates in educational advancement.

By promoting various parties and entertainments by sponsoring movies and lectures the sum of one thousand dollars has been earned by the club members. From this small sum ten young people—eight girls and two young men—have had the assistance necessary to start them on their college course. In almost every case a "start" was all that was needed, when once registered in college and on the campus each and every one secured work that carried them on to completion of the course.

The club loans without interest to the applicant, a sum of money up to two hundred dollars, per year, which when the student becomes a wage earner, is turned back into the fund at the rate of ten per cent of his salary. It's a commendable fact that all earning a salary, who have benefited by these loans, are most eager to refund the full amount during the first working year in order that the college club may pass the money on to others, as deserving but who would be utterly helpless in securing special training without the aid.

During the past year four applications for loans could not be granted—as the club is already helping two students. Another thousand dollars would have been the solution.

Former Clark Official Dies

Eli J. Contois, One Time Supt. of Tractor Div., Dies in Battle Creek

Eli J. Contois, 51, former superintendent of the Clark Tractor company in Buchanan and Battle Creek, died at his home in Battle Creek Friday as the result of a heart attack.

Contois came to Buchanan in March 1920, and was superintendent of the Clark Tractor company when its plant was located on Days Avenue. When the plant was moved to Battle Creek Contois accompanied as superintendent until about two years ago, when he joined the selling force in the Chicago area.

Contois was a veteran of the World War, in which he served as a first lieutenant. He was gassed twice and was cited for bravery by both the United States and the French government. In Buchanan he married Miss Grace Gillard, science instructor in the local high school. He is survived by his widow and by two sons, Donald, aged 17, and David, 11. Among those from Buchanan attending the funeral at the Congregational church in Battle Creek Monday afternoon were A. S. Bonner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Habicht, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. At-Sam McClellen and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Starik, Ed C. Pascoe and A. H. Klehn,

"Let it Rain— I'll use the Telephone"

RAIN, snow or wind mean little to the woman who has a telephone in the house... for she can do her shopping and "run" many other errands without exposing herself to the danger of icy streets or soaking rain.
The telephone does more than save her trouble. It saves her time too... It shortens her working day, adds to her leisure.
And it's just as useful in social affairs. Chats with friends... bridge games or parties gotten up on a moment's notice... your telephone not only enables you to arrange them, but to be included in them.
Day and night... at little cost... the telephone gives you a combined protection, convenience and pleasure that nothing else can provide.

First Grade—Miss Carnagan
The pupils in Miss Carnagan's room have set up a "Model Store." They named it "The City Market." Many class periods and the activity period are centered around the store. Here the children have actual experiences with everyday life in buying and selling. The activities of the store furnish lessons in counting, measuring, weighing, and making change as well as work in speech, English, and writing.

Second Grade—Miss Fritz
During our rest period the children are taking turns reading to the group the book "Three Circus Days."
Our new lieutenants are Newland Schwartz and Carol Bouws.
Grade 4—Mrs. Fuller
The fourth grade has finished their detailed study of trains and are now studying boats. Donald Dalenberg's garden is now showing greatest progress but many others are following in close second.

Grade Five—Miss Spear
We have been working on programs for the Operetta.
We have started our study of the Circus. The boys are making circus wagons and animal cages and the girls are to work on the people. We are also making a frieze illustrating the book we read: "Toby Tyler; Ten Weeks With the Circus."

Grade Five—Miss Ekstrom
Albert Bonner, Betty Runyan, and Mary McKinnon have ordered and received new dictionaries. This dictionary is written for boys and girls in the grades. It is an attractive book. Each child in the room has a dictionary on his desk.
Grade Six—Miss Reams
Robert Heiermann's and Carl Newsom's names have been added to our Dental Honor Roll.

This week we have been working on programs for the Operetta, "China Silk."
In Geography we are studying about Spain and Portugal.

Dewey Avenue School

Special Room—Miss Reams
We took a trip to the library Monday. We enjoyed all the things Mrs. Ludwig showed and told us. She also treated us when we left. We are learning the names of at least twenty birds and how to recognize them from pictures. We have a chart showing the differences in bird beaks and feet.

One of our Jonquils blossomed. Our beans have leaves on them.
We have arranged a bulletin board with pictures of Mexico on it.

Joan and Bonnie are learning to knit.
Blain brought a copy of Robin Hood for Miss Reams to read to us.

John's team has a score of 83 and Junior's team has a score of 58 in our word contest.
Fourth Grade—Miss Quickel
We have some very nice penmanship on our bulletin board. The following people have work up:

Jean Hanover, Vonne Mikesell, Janet Hanover, Faye Calbetzar, Beatrice Rauch, Lucille Dome, Delores Slocum, Shirley Mitch, Kathleen Birong, Dewey Molberg, Gerald Marsh, Johnny Leflar, Lowell Dokey, Dennis Smedley, Robert Pazder, Charles Vergan, and Robert Surch.

We have planted some soy bean seeds.

First Grade—Belle Miller
The first graders are finishing the alphabet books which they started early in the year. They are the little dictionary books.

Second Grade—Mabel Wilcox
We are working hard on our cursive writing. The following have had some very good papers: Noel, Lorina, Wanda, Sharon, Gervin, Pity, Lene, Eldon, Billy Ferris, Arthur, Bonnie, Fred, Margaret, Nona, and Albert.

Third Grade—Nina Fischmar
Bobby Miller has been absent this week on account of sickness.
We are working on a spring frieze, illustrating the flowers and birds we have studied about. Also, we are writing stories about them.

SUMMER CLOTHING PROJECT

Monday the clothing class started their summer clothing projects making clothing of thin, light-colored materials.

A debate in this class on home-made clothes versus ready-made clothing has just closed.

"Twilight Saint" is the title of the play the dramatics class is now working on. Players are memorizing parts after handing in themes on methods of production.

The Orchestra Festival at Three Oaks, April 19, was attended by twenty-eight members of the high school band.

Ninth grade biology classes are studying the identification of birds and flowers, wild and domestic. This knowledge will be helpful in field trips and hikes.

TYPING CLASSES

The typing classes have proved themselves able artists as well as typists with pictures made completely by type. This is an excellent test of skill.

The best pictures were by Ruth Joan Haslett and Catherine Wynn. The first was a picture of a boy on ice skates pushing a girl on a sled, made in x's it resembles an old-fashioned sampler. The second was a portrait of Benjamin Franklin. A butterfly, handed in by Maxine Arthurhultz was also excellent.

LATIN CLUB PROGRAM

Transportation in the time of the ancient Romans was the subject talk by Dick Habicht at the Latin Club (Ligio Declina) Monday.

A game, a Latin syllabus, was played at which Marjorie Meulman carried off the prize.

The committee consisted of Dick Habicht, Bill Donley, George Fitch and Bob Heiney.
This meeting was the last of the year.

LIBRARY WANTS SUGGESTIONS ON BOOKS

Teachers and students are invited to make suggestions concerning the books that will be ordered by Miss Carnahan at the end of the year. The order will include about 25 books and must be okayed by Mr. Stark before it is final.

Many students have ideas about the books they would like to read, but since they are not in the library, they aren't available to most.

F. F. A. GOES TO LANSING

The Future Farmers are studying to form judging teams for judging livestock, grain, poultry, and dairy products.

Twenty-nine boys will visit Lansing during Future Farmer Week in company with Mr. Langner, who will have sole charge, and Mr. Stark, who will accompany them.

A couple weeks ago Baking Soda was the topic of our column. There still are some very interesting points to be discussed especially the old question which causes needless worry. "How should the baking soda be added?"

The old procedure of adding the baking soda to the sour milk works but is a bit out of date. The reason for adding it this way was to dissolve the soda in case it was lumpy but soda today doesn't form into hard lumps, and the most satisfactory way to distribute it throughout a batter is to sift it with the flour and other ingredients. It can be creamed with the shortening too but I am inclined to believe the best method and results are obtained by sifting it with the flour.

Should you still persist in using the "old fashioned" way don't let the liquid in which the soda has been dissolved stand too long before using or else too much of the carbon dioxide gas used for leavening will be lost and a satisfactory product will not be obtained.

To many people the color of a chocolate cake plays an important part. Some prefer what is called a red chocolate cake and others a brown or black one. There are definite scientific reasons for a particular color in chocolate cakes not just chance. Its color is definitely linked with the quantity of baking soda used. If the recipe calls for a slight excess of baking soda the cake will have a very slight alkaline reaction and therefore a red color. Conversely, if there is a greater amount of available acid material than can be neutralized by the specific amount of baking soda, the cake will have a brown color.

If baking soda is used in right proportions the flavor of the baked product is not affected—the "baking soda taste" is only found in poorly balanced recipes or when careless measuring has been practiced. Use tested recipes and measure accurately.

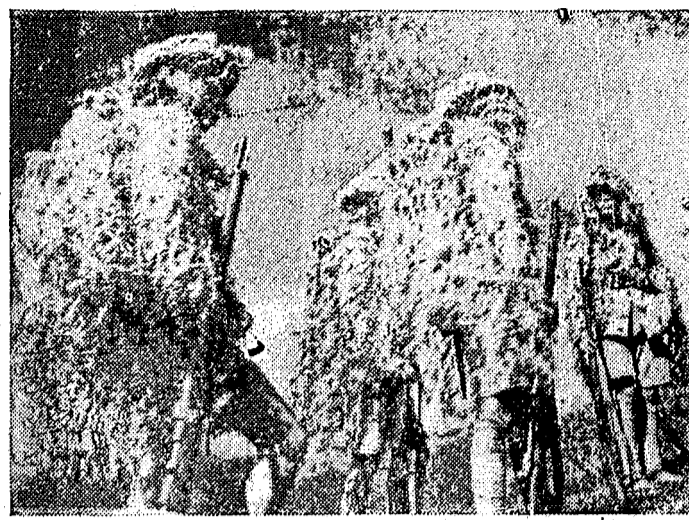

Crisp Sugar Cookies
2 1/2 cups all purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
2 tablespoons sweet milk
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1/4 teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup sugar.

Sift, then measure flour. Sift three times with baking soda and salt. Cream the shortening until light and fluffy. Gradually add the sugar, beating after each addition. Add the unbeaten eggs, one at a time. Beat briskly. Combine flavorings and milk. Add dry ingredients and liquid. Blend very well. Cover dough closely with waxed paper and chill in refrigerator one hour or longer. Turn on lightly floured board and roll thin. Cut in desired shapes with floured cookie cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes. Before baking, these may be garnished with sugar, nuts, candied fruits or as desired.

Some of the crack troops that defended the city of Wuhan, China, when the Japanese soldiers pushed up the Yangtze river in their drive on Hankow camouflaged themselves with vegetation before going into action. Kroger Store Sponsors Free Cooking School

The free cooking school and demonstration being conducted at Kroger's Store, at 122 E. Front St., Buchanan is attracting much attention from housekeepers, all of whom are sensing an unusual opportunity to acquire expert, practical information on cookery and the ways to cut fuel costs and at the same time retain the food value and the flavor of the various viands prepared for the benefit of the ladies of Buchanan and surrounding communities.

Mr. R. S. Marvin, Manager of the Buchanan Kroger Market, is extending a cordial invitation to the housekeepers to visit the store and take advantage of the opportunity offered them in learning to cook the waterless way in Majestic Waterless Cookware.

A food expert, is conducting these interesting and instructive demonstrations and one of the pleasing features of the school is its informality, for the daily demonstrations are given, not in accordance to any set form, but in a manner more like a neighborhood gathering.

The equipment used is explained by her and its particular value demonstrated, as are the latest ways of preparing delicacies for the home table. For Saturday, April 29, she will cook a ham, potatoes, beets, carrots, an upside down cake and biscuits for the benefit of the ladies present.

Besides saving the full natural flavors, juices, minerals and water soluble vitamins, the waterless cookware saves in fuel as cooking is done with low heat. As an economical feature of the aluminum ware, there is a minimum in shrinkage, juices are retained and last but not least, the housekeeper has a cooler and an odorless kitchen in which to perform her duties. The utensils cook with uniformly stored heat and keep food hot for serving.

Meals cooked in waterless cookware result in maximum food satisfaction at minimum cost. Adv.

They're Beautiful, but Slightly Dumb, Say Prof's

BERKELEY, CALIF.—A test of 600 co-eds at the University of California has indicated that there is a tendency toward lesser intelligence when pulchritude is outstanding.

That is the finding of Dr. Samuel J. Holmes, outstanding authority in the realm of racial behavior, and C. E. Hatch, his associate.

The two scientists refuse to admit that the result of their tests justifies the expression of "beautiful but dumb," but find rather that too much pulchritude has a tendency to draw the beautiful co-ed into too many other lines of distractions to enable her to make the most of her academic career.

Children in Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Treating The Handicapped Child

Some years ago, the parents of a handicapped boy asked a court for assistance in meeting their problem. After hearing the story, the judge urged them to seek scientific advice to enable them to better appreciate their child and his needs.

The psychiatrist whom the court recommended finally advised the parents that there was little science could do to remove the disability, but that the best course for them to follow was to interest the youngster in things he could learn to do. The parents were cautioned not to show pity for the child openly or to deny him the right of performing certain tasks.

The psychiatrist also warned the parents that great tact and understanding would be required, lest they develop an inferiority complex in the youngster. The psychiatrist closed the interview by impressing the parents with the importance of the fact that their son should never be reminded of his handicap, but should be taught to do the things in which he excelled.

Today these parents have their reward in knowing that their son not only finished high school at the head of his class, but also graduated from a business school, and now holds a responsible position. Those who are thrown into intimate personal contacts with him are unanimous in their belief that he is the happiest individual they have ever known.

Postscript

Back of the group was a large sign inscribed as follows:

"LEE & PORTER

Dowagiac and Buchanan Manufacturers of Porter's Patent Dust-Proof Axles, Porter's Patent Ball-Bearing Axles, Porter's Patent Wood Rim Wire Wheels for solid and Pneumatic Rubber Tires and Famous Pan-American Gear."

The power generated by the waterwheels in the Lee & Porter race on this side of the river was transmitted by several strands of 1½ inch rope running several hundred feet up the bluff under cover of a wooden shed to the plant. Occasionally the rope broke and was the occasion of no end of trouble. To give a warning a device was arranged at the upper end of the rope so that when the rope got frayed the ragged ends would whip against a timber which would ring an electric bell.

The boys used nearly all their half-hour noon period to play ball when the weather permitted. Since the work was entirely individual with none of the group and line work now almost universally characteristic of factory production, the atmosphere was much freer and easier than it could possibly be in a modern factory. The boys used to keep their lunches near them and for several minutes before noon they would munch a little time by grabbing occasional mouthfuls while they worked. Then at noon they would have a full half hour to play ball in. For those who did not play ball there were three horse shoe courts.

Once in a while they had spasms of horse play, and pelted each other with anything that came to hand. One season, in the memory of an employee, 110 window lights were broken by promiscuous throwing. Finally the boys got called for it, but shortly afterward they got to throwing green apples from the gnarled old tree near the plant, and they broke ten more lights. On the next payday every man suspected of being connected with the throwing was docked 50 cents in his pay.

But in spite of all this horse play, the men worked furiously most of the time, being largely on a piecework basis, and they got their work out in good time and in good form notwithstanding.

office force back about 1914, Miss Helen Weymouth (Mrs. Emory Wilson), Miss Fannie Wilson (Mrs. Walter Jurgensen) and Miss Winifred Morley (Mrs. Frank Habicht), and a sister of J. A. Waterman of the Record, all pictured standing in single file on the old bridge, which was of heavy plank with a railing on each side.

This was of course some refinement of the original foot bridge which was merely a footlog, and the cause of occasional and doubtless not unneeded baths when the medal men were unable to navigate its length on a blue Monday morning.

A companion piece to the bridge picture in the possession of Mrs. Heim is one of a bevy of beauties of that day esconced in E. B. Ross's prehistoric Buick. Overflowing the primitive car in the abundance of their voluminous skirts, muttonleg sleeves and Dolly Varden hats are Edna Kean (Mrs. Frank Miller), Mrs. D. J. Rouse, Mrs. Frank Habicht and Mrs. Walter Jurgensen.

Bene Washington correspondent then was a Pike, who had vastly more influence than the Tribune Washington staff of today.

It is not unlikely that some of the "black Republicans," as the hardshelled abolitionists in that party were called took the New York Tribune. It would be the weekly edition of the New York Tribune that would come to Buchanan and they would be hawked from hand to hand for the sake of Horace Greeley's editorials, which were the gospel of the abolitionists.

We may be sure that Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was read in Buchanan,—in fact Esther Montague Winch in her letters of a few years back intimated that Buchanan people read it as it appeared serially in "The Washington Era." We may assume that it was fresh fuel for the flames of abolition. Mrs. Winch also said that a few copies of "The New York Sun" came to Buchanan, also the "Philadelphia Ledger."

The newspaper of that time was almost entirely devoted to national politics, with a scanty sprinkling of state news and little, sometimes no, local news. Its political columns were read avidly and carried an influence that the newspaper no longer possesses. The coming of the weekly "New York Tribunes" was an event; they were read in public places to enrapt listeners, or passed from hand to hand.

The only exact knowledge of newspaper circulation that I found was that the parents of Mrs. Albert Glover took the daily Chicago Tribune during the Civil War. (To be continued)

Dayton Depot Is Demolished

Was Built in 1892; Station Agent Withdrawn in 1904; Mail Service to be Continued

Dim memories of almost forgotten days, when Dayton was a community market town in its own right, by virtue of bad roads and ox cart and lumber wagon transportation over bad roads, are stirred by the news that the depot at that place has been sold by the Michigan Central railway to a Niles man who is wrecking it, salvaging what he can.

Postmaster Richter, the historian and chronicler of Dayton's past, writes that he has been informed by Michigan Central officials that mail train service will be continued there. The structure which is being wrecked was erected about 1892, Richter believes. Its dignity as a station ended with the removal in 1904 or 1905 of the last agent, Cret Weaver, and the discontinuance of the ticket office. Weaver had a long tenure at Dayton, being the agent when the old depot was destroyed by fire in 1892. A box car was then set on the ground and used as a depot until the present structure was erected.

The older structure was erected in the early fifties. It was in the regulation style, with two waiting rooms, and a bay window jutting out in front of the agent's office. It was the duty of the agent, after a train had passed either east or west, to put in this window the time of the passing of the last train so that the engineer on the next train would know how close he was running to it. The old depot stood about 50 feet west of the overhead bridge on the north side of the track.

When Cret Weaver left the job he was the whole thing there—station agent, telegraph operator, express agent, freight agent, mail messenger and weighmaster at the railway grain elevator.

Comedy Adds New Interest to Dumas

D'Artagnan, of Alexandre Dumas' "The Three Musketeers," rides again to thrilling adventure, only this time he has the three weedy Ritz Brothers in his hair! It's the happiest entertainment idea since the movies began to move—20th Century Fox's musical comedy version of "The Three Musketeers!" Don Amche, as a singing, loving, fighting D'Artagnan, is all you could ask, while The Ritzes pinch-hit for Aramis, Athos and Porthos, three phoney Musketeers more at home with a carving knife than with a rapier.

Eddy, Dialectician
Nelson Eddy's chief claim to fame among Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musicians, particularly the members of the studio orchestra with whom he records his songs, is not his voice but his never-ending fund of Yiddish dialect stories. Between recordings of his numbers for "Let Freedom Ring," time had to be taken out to allow him to spring at least a dozen new ones.

Half World's Population
Asia contains half the population of the world.
It was reported that 300 families are emigrating from Detroit to Germany, and that many families in South Bend have been recruited. Other cities with large German populations also are said to be contributing to the exodus.
Many of the emigrants, especially the heads of families, were born in Germany, and are returning because of homesickness, or because of belief in the new form of government in their fatherland. No agent from the Chicago office of the employment agency came to St. Joseph, but German residents of St. Joseph heard about the new plan and went to Chicago where they signed the contracts, according to one informant.
The same source said that the need for labor in German industries is indicated by the fact that only recently Germany has imported 200,000 persons from Italy for industrial work.

Kelly Disagrees With Governor on Wages
Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State, this week made it clear that he does not consider $50 an adequate living wage for a married man living in Lansing. This issue came to the attention of the public when Ford Eastman, a young clerk in the Department of State, published his personal budget to show where his money went. Governor Dickinson, in discussing how many welfare clients of the state were frittering away money on non-essentials recently was quoted as saying that most employees from governor to janitor were overpaid.
Secretary of State Kelly made a personal investigation in his own department, interviewed Eastman and upon finding 38 married persons working for less than $1,000 per year, stated that he would recommend that the minimum rate of pay for such persons should henceforth be $100 per month.
"I believe in a fair rate of pay and then a full day's work," said the Secretary.
"I do not believe in the regimentation of state employees or of those employed in private industry. I do not intend to interfere in any way with the private lives of my employees nor do I intend telling them how they shall spend the money they earn."

Mr. Torsan Thinks He's Tarzan; Cop Tames Him
CHICAGO.—It all came out in Beryyn police court why they didn't nickname George Torsan "Tarzan." He was arrested after his truck had knocked over a flare guarding a pedestrian cross walk.
Policeman Frank Vrstil looked at his bulk and went to call his squad. Torsan drove off Vrstil followed in a commandeered auto and caught him.
"Just try to take me from my cab," dared Torsan. Policeman Vrstil took him from his cab.
"Who's big enough around here to put me in a cell?" asked Torsan when they reached the station. Vrstil put him in a cell.
"He shouted and broke two straw hals for other prisoners," Vrstil told Magistrate Frank J. Pavak. "Even the neighbors complained, so we took him to Stickney, where there aren't so many neighbors."
Torsan apologized, paid his fines, and left for home.

Girl Scouts

The drive for funds with which to support Girl Scout work in Buchanan for the coming year is over. The Council wishes to thank everyone who has contributed money and good will. Girl Scouting in Buchanan has been a success, due to good scouts, unselfish leaders and friendly support from our citizens. The Council, the leaders, and the girls say "Thank you."

Your money pays rent for a meeting place for Scouts and Brownies, for Leaders Training courses and for part of the cost of summer camping.

Twenty local women compose the working staff behind the Girl Scout troops. The work started in the fall of 1935 with one troop sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association which has paid the annual $10 registration fee. There are now four leaders, 1 senior troop, 2 intermediate troops and 1 Brownie Pack.

Two leaders attended a three-day national training course at Turkey Run, Ind., in March. One leader will attend a training course later in the summer.

Our council is honored in having the commissioner, Mrs. Pascoe, given a place on the program of the Fifteenth Regional Conference which meets in Chicago on May 1 and 2. Thirteen of the local staff members will attend that meeting at the Palmer House.
