Ex-Patriates

Though we live like a swell in a city hotel yet our hearts will go back just the same.

To the rose-colored dawns on the tree-shaded lawns in the little old towns whence we came.

When the bloodroot is rare and the red bud is fair and the dogwood is white in the glen,

We will think of the joys of the days we were boys and we'll long to be back there again.

We feel all alone in a city of stone where the buildings are nothing but bars

That shut us away from the blue of the day and the wind and the rain and the stars.

When the butternuts fall and the wild mallards call and Autumn, grown frosty and chill,

Sets the maple afire in a funeral byre and the sunac aflame on the hill.

Life will seem more and more like a wearisome chore or a sentence you'd like to rescind

Just to smile at the blue as it smiles back at you as you walk arm in arm with the wind.

Report Number of Residence Sales

The Buchanan Federal Savings & Loan office notes the following recent real estate sales made through their agency:

Property at 105 Theoda Court to H. E. Stoneburner.

Former Ochenryder property at 310 Short street to Royden Ingelright.

Former John Darr property at 115 Chippewa street to Frank Rumsey. The Rumsey home at 1002 North Portage was taken in trade and was sold to Charles Clark.

The above heading might be considered premature by some people, for there is no garden club in Buchanan at this time, but the writer's defence is that there will be soon.

Just watch and see. Anyway it is a nice heading and will serve to head up garden news.

Success with Red Buds At this particular time there are some visible results from the campaign of red bud tree planting about the city three and four years ago.

However the palm must go to Lester Mitchell who planted two large trees at the east end of his lots on Chicago street about December 1935. These trees are planted at the edge of the millrace, about three feet above the water level, so that very likely they are in a favored location. However they have made a fine growth and are loaded with bloom. They indicate what could be done with the redbud planting idea if it were pushed and handled in the proper manner. A row of redbud trees such as those of Mitchell's all along the millrace would be something to write home about.

Schram Adds Real Estate to Line

Opens Complete Brokerage Office at 104 North Oak

The E. N. Schram Insurance agency will move on June 1 to their new location at 104 North Oak street, where Mr. Schram will widen its activities to include real estate, offering the people of Buchanan and vicinity a complete brokerage service. Mr. Schram has been occupying the new address for some time as a private office, but is now transferring his entire business there, following alterations to accommodate the new set-up.

He entered the insurance field in 1925 as a part-time occupation but took it up as his profession in 1927. Since that time the agency has become well and favorably known, enjoying the confidence of the local insurance-buying public. July 1, 1939, will mark the 12th anniversary of the agency.

The new quarters will include private office and a work room. Miss Allene Arney, who has been associated with the agency in a secretarial capacity for the past eight years, will continue in that capacity under the new set-up. The added real estate service is to be developed at an early date.

The new office is "just around the corner" on Oak street from the present quarters and may be easily located by old friends and new.

Mrs. Alice Tourje Tells of Buchanan In Civil War Days

When Democrats Who Talked Back Were Threatened with Lynching

CHAPTER 5

This writer would not know how to arrive at the number of men who went to the northern armies from Buchanan in the Civil War, or how many were killed in battle or died from disease, but the report of individuals that did die from either cause indicates that the number was rather staggering.

In a previous chapter it was noted that of 54 men enrolled in Co. G, 24th Michigan Infantry, recruited from the Dayton and Gallen districts and from Weesaw township, 19 were listed as dying from wounds or disease. That is better than one in three. However the general statistics for Michigan, given in Adjutant General Robertson's "Michigan in the War" indicate that of the 90,048 men who went from Michigan, 14,855 died from all causes, or about one out of every six.

These figures also indicate that while approximately 11% of the total population of the state (men, women and children) was enrolled in the Union army, or about one out of every nine, the percentage from Berrien county was one out of every eight. Moreover the percentage from Berrien county that enlisted before the Enrollment Act (draft) went into effect on Sept. 19, 1863 was much greater than for the state at large. Consequently the duration of service was probably longer and the casualties accordingly greater.

Estimating the population of Buchanan at the present time as 4200 and applying the above percentages, it appears that a similar rate of army service on the basis of the present population would be about 525 men from Buchanan, among whom the deaths from battle or disease would be 87. A war loss of 87 out of this would seem tragic, yet on the basis of Michigan averages, it is likely that the loss was about that heavy in proportion to population.

Since the readers are likely pretty well bored by the above statistics, the rest of the article will be turned over to Mrs. Alice Tourje of Glendale, Calif., who answered an appeal by the following most interesting story of conditions as she remembered them:

Letter From Mrs. Tourje

You asked me to tell what I could of the exciting days of 1861 and afterwards. I was only 12 years old at the time and may not be able to tell

When the trouble began people were very much excited and would watch the papers (which were few at that time), and would gather in the stores, on the street corners and in the post office to talk it over and wonder what it would all amount to.

Temper were short. Most of the people were Republican and Abolitionists and such Democrats as spoke in opposition to them were sometimes roughly treated. One of my mother's brothers, Edwin Russell, who as a boy lived in the Bend of the River, was a staunch Democrat and was bitterly opposed to the attitude of the town people towards the South. We was openly threatened with lynching for daring to express his views.

Then, to arouse excitement, they organized torchlight processions and every man and boy who could be induced to go was in them. They arranged wagons with large platforms and a railing around them so that the ladies could ride standing on them, all dressed in white with blue sashes on which was written the name of the state each represented, and with bands around their heads. A lady standing in front holding a flag would represent the Goddess of Liberty. Miss Nora Raymond, later Mrs. Jim Woods, would act as marshal of the day, riding on horseback. Such processions were headed by bands playing martial music as we had no other music at that time.

Other delegations from other towns would join them, and after marching around town they would go to some vacant lot to listen to speeches from different men, such as Judge Merrill and others. Schuyler Colfax occasionally came from South Bend and spoke.

Then came the recruiting. Those who were active were John Graham, Ben Blinn, (uncle of Harry Blinn), William Parrott and Dick DeMont, (they all became captains) and many others. Many young men who enlisted were still attending school because of the fact that the school was not graded and did not become graded until I began teaching in 1871. So these boys attended school in the winter and worked in the summer.

Then the call came to go to the front, and mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts had to bid them good-bye, perhaps forever. The boys from Buchanan and the surrounding towns went to Niles and started from there. Mrs. Hannah Carlisle went as nurse. From that time on every paper was closely scanned and whenever anyone would receive a letter everyone was anxious to know its contents.

Whenever there was a battle everyone was eager to know its results. Some were killed. I can remember Schuyler Morris, Sher-

Boy Scout Drive on In Buchanan

Meeting Held to Instruct Workers in Drive for $864 Quota Here

Plans were made at a meeting held Monday evening in the office of Frank Habicht, chairman of the local Boy Scout council, to proceed with the drive for the quota of $864 assigned to Buchanan by area officials.

The following release has been made from the Berrien-Cass Area headquarters relative to the drive:

The finance Committee of the Council feels that, with its large membership and many activities the budget, is most reasonable. The items covered in the set-up include $8,562.09 for general administration. This administration includes the cost of the finance campaign supplies for the 95 troops and for the office, local troop bulletins and printed matter, the salaries of four persons and the rent, light, telephone and janitor service for the Council headquarters. In the field service $3,150.00 has been allotted and this will cover the Training Schools, the special activities of the Council which include the Field Days, Rallies, etc., the furnishing of all supplies for the Courts of Honor and the many other awards which are given throughout the year. This section of the budget has been materially increased this year due to the fact that many more boys are now a part of the Council. The budget also includes $1,080.00 for Camp Madron maintenance and upkeep and the insurance covering the building and its equipment—take care of this item. Camp Madron has been recognized for several years as the leading camp in this country and the amount necessary to keep it in this present fine standing is very reasonable compared to the investment. The camp at the present time is about $40,000.00. In the Capital Expense the budget calls for $290.00 which will include some extra equipment for the Area office and for expansion at the camp for housing boys. A miscellaneous item of $175.00 takes care of the incidentals for operation and for capital service.

It is pointed out by the Finance Committee that the average cost per boy throughout the Council for 1938 was $4.58. During the past ten years the cost per boy was dropped to this figure from $14.60 per boy. It is also pointed out that although the membership in ten years has jumped from 587 boys to 3,317, the budget has only been increased about $3,000.00 in that length of time. The Budget for 1939 fiscal year is $20,000.00 higher than 1938, but this is the first change in the budget in three years.

The Finance Committee reports that some of the accomplishments in 1938 were most striking. A few of them are as follows: 45,000 hours of Civic Service was given by the boys to the communities in which they live and for which they received no pay; Hundreds of toys collected, repaired, distributed at Christmas time; Assisted at 19 conventions and large gatherings; Assisted with Fire Prevention and check-up and Tuberculosis literature, welfare work and clean-up week; 190 Men in Council Training School; 3,800 Troop meetings and 7,000 Patrol meetings during the year, 1,700 day and overnight hikes; A First Aid Tournament—Camp-o-Ral—Are a Rally; 801 Scouts in Council Camp, 5,600 visitors, 1,170 on week-end camps, 1,790 Merit Badges completed, 473 First Class, 378 Second Class, 88 Courts of Honor; 37 Scouts become Eagle Scouts—67 Life Scouts—142 Star Scouts, 43 Troops in Council Camporee; Sea Scout Sailing races; 714 Adults and 160 Scouts at the Annual Council meeting; 1,020 Scouts took part in the Blossom Week Festivities; 2,400 mile trip through the East for Eagle Scouts.

Telling How Auto Factory Started Here Back in 1904

Made Two Cars; One for Bill House, One for Myron Mead; Then Quit

CHAPTER 14

Back in the bigger and better days, along in the latter half of 1904 one would have thought from the optimistic columns of the Record, that industrial Chicago and Detroit were about to pull stakes and converge on Buchanan.

Anyway one of the coming giants of the auto-making world was about to come here, from Detroit and another outfit, a sort of a peanut affair with a shirttail full of equipment, the George R. Rich Manufacturing company, was going to come from Chicago and make a last despairing stand here.

This chapter will treat of the Detroit concern, the Michigan Motor & Machine Company. Editors are of course no infallible prophets and Mack Chamberlain was not to be blamed if he waxed a little more enthusiastic over a coming automobile factory than over a concern making flat drills and chucks.

Anyway Mack made the following announcement tipping off his public on what was about to occur in the issue of Nov. 8, 1904:

The prospects for this beautiful village are extremely bright. Within the past few days matters have shaped themselves as to assure two factories for Buchanan and while it is not deemed advisable to give the full particulars about one of them at this time, we can safely say it will be located in Buchanan and will give a full account of it in a latter issue.

The other factory which will come to this place will be located in the old wagon factory on Main street and will be known as the Michigan Motor & Machine Company. This company is still in operation in Detroit but will be moved to this place in about three weeks. The officials of this company are William F. Koeller, president and treasurer, and P. Zubrigg, vice president and secretary. The company is capitalized at $200,000. Mr. Koeller is in town this week and through his courtesy the Record is able to give his readers some (Continued on Page Six)

Mrs. Rozell was born July 31, 1872 in Lincoln twp., Berrien County, Mich., the only daughter of Albert S. and Rose Ripley, pioneer residence of that community. On Sept. 25, 1889, she married to Cass B. Rozell of Dayton, Mich. To this union five children were born. One daughter, Flossie Mae Edwards, preceded her in death June 7, 1925. She is survived by her husband, two sons and two daughters, Cass Rozell, Jr., and Lelia Rozell at home, Mrs. Winifred Lemkuhl, Oak Park, Ill., and Walter Rozell, South Bend, Ind., and two grandchildren. Mrs. Rozell was a member of the Methodist church of St. Joseph, Mich.

The funeral will be held at the farm home south of Dayton at 3 p. m. Friday, May 19. Rev. C. H. Trueschel, pastor of Portage Prairie Evangelical church officiating. Burial will be in Gallen cemetery, Gallen, Mich.

Casket bearers will be neighbors and old friends: Claude Sheldon, Fred Koenigschlag, Clarence Cripe, Frank Straub, Orrie Welbaum, Orville Welbaum.

Qualified School Electors Needed

Buchananites who are eligible to vote at school elections, if and when registered, had better be looking to that matter or there will not be enough qualified voters to sign nominating petitions, according to Supt. H. C. Stark.

Stark received an interpretation of the election law from the state department of education yesterday holding that all petitions nominating candidates must be signed by not less than 50 qualified voters, and that registration before signing is essential. In all six nomination petitions for as many candidates have been called for at the office of Supt. Stark, but there are less than 50 voters in all registered to date.

They plan later to place some one in charge there and will continue to operate the Red Bud Cafe here. The new place will be known as "The 31."

Mrs. Dunbar Directs; Leland George and Karol Dunlap Play Leads

A cast of 11 seniors with Miss Carol Dunlap and Leland George in the lead roles will present the Senior play selection, "Mamma's Baby Boy," at the high school auditorium Friday, May 18, at 8 p. m.

The play selected is a three-act farce by Charles George, featured by a swift succession of amusing situations depending on plot complications. Mrs. Velma Dunbar is directing the production.

A very attractive widow nearing forty, has her eighteen year old son dressed and pose as a youth of fourteen, so that she might pass as a younger woman and marry a widower, whom she believes to be wealthy. In turn, the widower, trying to appear younger, has his seventeen year old daughter pose as a girl of thirteen, so that he might wed the widow, whom he believes to be rich. Neither the widower nor the widow has a cent, both having lost their money in the stock market. This situation leads to no end of amusing complications, when each party tries to keep the knowledge of his losses from the other, also the real ages of their respective offspring.

Cast of Characters: Mrs. McLean — Karol Dunlap, Shepherd McLean (Mamma's Baby Boy) — Leland George, Luther Long — Phil Piersa, Juliet Long, His daughter — Ruth Jean Haslett, Mrs. Matilda Blackburn — Constance Kelley.

Glenn E. Smith Store to Close

A time-honored name will disappear from the business roster of the city following the closing-out sale which begins this morning at the Glenn E. Smith store.

The store was opened by Glenn E. Smith 25 years ago, in 1914. In 1930 Frederic Smith entered the store, and after the death of his father he took complete charge.

However, Mr. Smith states that he now has an opportunity to enter another line of business more suited to his tastes and ambitions, that that in order to avail himself of the opportunity it will be necessary to close out the business.

DURABLE GOODS

Everyone who knows anything at all about the depression cycle, especially of the past ten years, knows that its continuance is due mainly to the failure of the "durable goods" industries, as compared with the periodic flurries of activity in luxury or short duration goods.

What people do not agree on is what will bring a revival in durable goods production.

Sidestepping the manifold political sidelights on the much-debated theme, it is certain that if the American public could be induced or assisted in any legitimate way, as by long term credits at low rates, or by a reduction in costs, to build more new homes or improve more old ones it would go a long way to solve the trouble.

It would do more than merely provide a market for materials and labor. It would contribute not only to the market for durable goods of industry, but it would tend to re-create those durable goods that are produced chiefly in real homes. And though fully acknowledging the fact that these values do not really depend on property ownership, yet the writer believes that in the mass such ownership is especially productive of long term spiritual values.

It would be nonsensical to say that life in rented homes is necessarily any less desirable; for many people it is the logical, sensible thing. But for the mass of people it is neither the logical or the sensible thing, and it does not seem, to this writer at least, that a nation composed entirely of renters would compare with a nation of home owners.

Ownership of homes tends in a way to put a solid bottom under life. It tends to create that only conservatism that is worth while; the conservatism which tends to really conserve the essential values of life and living.

Student Weavers, Dressmakers Stage Fashion Show

Student spinners, weavers, designers and dressmakers of North Carolina co-operate once a year in presenting a cotton style show at the State college in Raleigh. Men students in the college's textile school, largest in America, plan the fabrics, select patterns and dyes, comb yarn, make the threads, then weave the fabric on looms. Then the material is delivered to students from nine girls' schools, who design and manufacture all types of garments. The finished product is shown at the State college style show. Left: Yarn as it goes through the comb, one of the first steps. Center: College girls measuring and manufacturing the various garments. Right: The completed garment being modeled.

Persimmon Grove
Although the persimmon tree is usually considered a product of the south, there is quite a sprinkling of them for a short distance along the Wagner road beyond the Wagner grange hall, all of them the offspring of one original planting about 75 or 80 years ago.

The trees grow on the old Ben Weaver farm and the Will Whitaker farm. The Ben Weaver farm is now owned jointly by Floyd Weaver and Clyde Burgoyne. The original persimmon from which the thicket started was planted by Benjamin Weaver's father, Eli Weaver and was brought to Buchanan when he came here from Ohio 75 to 80 years ago. The largest tree is now about a foot and a half thick, but there are a number from 6 inches to a foot thick. They produce fruit almost every year, but are not cared for and the fruit is not used.

The value and delicacy of persimmon fruit is underestimated, according to a recent bulletin of the U. S. Bureau of Agriculture. Many people eat the fruit and enjoy it and there are many recipes for using it in bread and cakes. The Indians made a favorite dish of persimmons and corn meal. In some localities hogs are fattened on persimmon fruit and where they are plentiful, the opossum, deer, birds and other forms of wild life live off them.

The persimmon flourishes as far south as Florida and Texas and is abundant in Ohio and reaches into southern New York and Connecticut. The trees on the Wagner road are the only ones this writer knows of in this section.

Contrary to the popular belief, the persimmon does have to be frost-bitten before it is palatable. It contains 31.74% sugar and .88% protein, comparing favorably with the date in nutritive value.

Standard Oil Ads in More Papers for Fourth Year

"Golden Jubilee" Campaign To Appear in Record, Swain States

Standard Oil Company of Indiana for the fourth consecutive year will increase the number of newspapers to carry its spring and summer advertising campaign, which this year will take its keynote from Standard of Indiana's "Golden Jubilee," Glenn Swain, Buchanan Standard Oil Agent, announced today.

The Record and 1,789 other daily and weekly newspapers with combined circulation of 13,687,496 will receive more than 75 per cent of the total advertising appropriation. A total of 1,746 newspapers was used in 1933, 1,588 in 1937 and 1,543 in 1938.

"Golden Jubilee Red Crown—Celebrating Standard Oil's 50th Birthday" and the five advantages of the product will feature the gasoline advertising, while clean rest room advertising will assert, "We provide those clean rest rooms you've read about" and Iso-Vis ads will tell the long-lasting qualities of the motor oil. Ads before the holidays will emphasize the free-check-up service at Standard dealers for motorists who plan trips.

"The story of Standard Oil Company of Indiana is a typical story of American business," said Mr. Swain in reminiscing about the company and its "Golden Jubilee." "Standard of Indiana was organized to build a refinery at Whiting, Ind., June 18, 1889, when its principal product, kerosene, was sold from the old tank in the back room of the grocery store to light the lamps and stoves of the middlewest.

"Today the Whiting refinery, which has become the largest complete refinery in the world, and other Standard refineries make gasoline, motor oil, kerosene and altogether 2,000 products from petroleum, and more than 23,000 Standard Oil dealers, independent of the company, serve nearly 8,000,000 motorists in 13 middlewest states.

"No company can exist after 50 years without public confidence in its products, its policies and its ability to serve the customer, not only yesterday and today, but tomorrow. Standard of Indiana will continue to supply its customers with a good product and a good service at a fair price," Mr. Swain said.

Tales of an Old Town

wood Lyons and William Parrott. They were all buried with military honors. When Captain Parrott was buried they had his horse (which he had used in service) walking back of the hearse with empty saddle and boots. The horse walked with head down as though he knew they were taking away his master. It was a pathetic sight.

"Some were taken prisoners. I recall one, Charles Griebel, who had once taught in the Bend of the River. He was captured and placed in Andersonville prison. When he with others tunneled their way out, he was recaptured and returned to Andersonville. But he escaped again and rejoined his regiment. After being discharged he visited us and related the terrible experience he had had. A neighbor boy, Aero Alexander, was sent to Libby Prison and his experiences there were terrible.

My brother, Albert Weaver, was not sent south at once, but was sent to Detroit to take companies of men as they gathered there to their headquarters, then return and take more.

But what a rejoicing there was when they all came home, some without a scratch, others without an arm, and so on. But we were all glad to have them home and most interesting were the stories they had to tell.

Pennies were coined for the different merchants or for anyone who would pay for them with their name on them, to use for change. We have several with the Weaver & Fox name. They also issued shipplasters of different denominations to use in place of real money. We have a five cent one of which we are proud after all these years.

And I have several pieces of music (old army songs) that my brother sent me while he was in the army, such as "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching," and "Tenting Tonight" and others which I prize.

This traditional American motto of the man who wants things proved to him refers to Bob Burns, king of the homespun humorists, in his latest picture, "I'm From Missouri!"
What Burns wants proved to him in this new, down-to-earth comedy is that mules are inferior to machinery when it comes to equipping an army. And to show that he's a Missourian in spirit as well as in fact, Bob goes all the way to London, where the heads of the British army, unable to prove their point, accept his! Plus

IF "POP" DID THE WASHING!

EVERY HOME WOULD HAVE AN Electric WASHER and MANGLE

Special Values this month on Laundry Equipment at your Dealers

BENDING over a tub or steaming and sweating—the only word for it—over a hot stove and a sad-iron that weights you down, too hot one minute, too cold the next, "Pop" would dream of modern laundry equipment, miraculously simple to use.

Nothing could be easier to use or easier on the clothes than the modern, improved washers which thoroughly launder everything from the heaviest, hardest to handle linens and bedding to the sheerest, daintiest lingerie. It's pretty nice to know that just turning on a switch will assure a snowy white line of clothes and "undies" that retain all their freshness... none of that dingy gray, unwashed look.

Then poor "Pop" would think of dispatching an entire day's ironing in a few short hours while actually sitting down! Everything but the finest finishing touches, which your ELECTRIC Iron polishes off so quickly and easily, can be done with a modern mangle. Economical, too... prevents expensive wear and tear on your clothes and gives many hours of extra freedom.

This month your Electric Dealer is showing and demonstrating the latest in Electric Laundry Equipment.

Christian Science Churches

"Soul and Body" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 21.

The Golden Text (Isaiah 58:10) is: "If thou draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and the darkness be as the noon day."

Among the Bible citations is this passage—(Deuteronomy) 10:12: "And now, Israel, what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 278): "Man is harmonious when governed by soul. Hence the importance of understanding the truth of being, which reveals the laws of spiritual existence."

Girl Scouts

The Buchanan Girl Scout Council met Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. E. C. Pascoe. Reports were made of the Regional conference held at Chicago. A great deal of inspiration was gained by the women attending. One of the outstanding speakers was Mrs. Arthur O. Choate, honorary vice president, who knew personally Mrs. Julietta Low, the founder of Girl Scouting, having traveled abroad with her.

The other was Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, vice chairman of the National Board. She is the mother of eleven children and has written several books on the experiences of real living. She says: "The home is not judged by the number of hours spent in it, but by the pull it has on the children when they leave."

Plans are being made for a Girl Scout cookie sale, each Girl Scout to use the proceeds of her sale to go to summer camp. Mrs. Archie Morley is the cookie chairman. The girls are invited to go to the Lone Tree Area camp near Three Rivers again this summer.

The Niles Girl Scout council and the Girl Scouts of Niles have invited the girls and the local council to a potluck supper at 6:30 p. m. May 23 at the Fellowship hall of the Presbyterian church of Niles. The girls and leaders will meet at 6:15 that evening at the Presbyterian church of Buchanan. woods on the Richard Schwartz acreage on Moccasin bluff in company with G. W. Bradt, biologist in the game division of the state department of conservation, when Mr. Bradt identified the song of the brown thrasher, a first cousin of the mocking bird. To hear a brown thrasher sing is something of an event, according to Bradt, for the reason that the bird sings only about one week in the year, at mating time. During his musical period, his song is almost identical with that of the mocking bird.

Will Miss Clarence Spaulding
Lovers of beautiful home surroundings in Buchanan will miss Clarence Spaulding, who had cared for many lawns and grounds in the city previous to his last illness a short time ago.

Spaulding was always a very busy and a very cheerful man with a fund of humor of the old-fashioned American kind, and a good-natured banter for all he met. The number of his friends throughout the city was attested by the large attendance at his funeral Sunday afternoon.

Trapped by Greed
Last week while in the lovely woods on the south side of the L. B. Spafford acreage along McCoy's creek, Jack Puffer picked up a woodchuck with its head caught in a tomato can. Erer Woodchuck had evidently been exploring the bottom of the can for food and was unable to withdraw his head. He was taken to the Spafford home and released into a cage. After a short time the cage door was thrown open and Erer Woodchuck lighted it for the woods.

The Dogwood Legend
The states that advertise to the tourist their added scenic beauty during the month of blossoming dogwood may be unaware of the lovely legend of the dogwood. A tree expert unearthed this story and we like to recall it.

The dogwood has been known for centuries and the history of it reaches back to Christ's time. Due to the hardness of its wood it was chosen for use in the cross of the crucifixion, the story goes. The dogwood was saddened to be used for such a purpose and the Savior, seeing its distress promised: "Never again shall the dogwood grow large enough to be used for a cross. It shall be slender and bent and twisted, and its blossoms shall be in the form of a cross with two long and two short petals. In the center of the outer edge of each petal there shall be small prints, brown with rust, and stained with blood. The center of the flower will be a crown of thorns. All those who see it will remember it was on the dogwood that I was crucified and this tree shall not be mutilated or destroyed, but cherished and protected as a reminder of the agony and death upon the cross."

It is just a legend and history does not back it perhaps, but it is a beautiful way of explaining the markings of the flower.

With the Medal Men at Clarks

idea of the institution which will be a part of this village.

The company will manufacture automobiles and machinists tools. The automobiles will be made in two styles and designated Model "A" and Model "B". Model "A" will be a four-cylinder vertical gasoline engine machine with bevel gear drive and sliding gear transmission. The body will be of the side entrance design. An extra top will also be made for a delivery wagon. This is a strictly high grade machine and equal to any design on the market.

Model "B" is a two-cylinder, horizontal gasoline engine machine with planetary transmission, either single seat or with detachable tonneau seat. This will be a moderate price machine. Other designs will be added from time to time.

Mr. Koeller informs us that they will employ twenty men for the first two months to get the factory in shape to do business and for the next three or four months 50 men will be given employment. He also stated that it was their intention, before they had been here a year, to be employing at least 100 men.

It is the intention of the company to build 50 machines of the Model "A" type and 100 of the Model "B" type in the coming year.

As a matter of fact only two cars were built by the Michigan Motor & Machine company, a Model "A" type for Will House and a Model "B" type for Myron S. Mead.

The completion of the first one was announced in the issue of July 27, 1905.

House's Carryall

The first automobile made in Buchanan by the Michigan Motor & Machine Company since they moved here from Detroit has proved itself a success in every way. This machine was built to order for W. D. House and is what is known as a combination carry-all and dray. The machine is 11 feet long and 64 inches wide overall.

The engine is a four-cycle, double-opposed cylinder of 24 horse power with a speed limit of 25 miles an hour, and uses gasoline as a motive power.

The steering apparatus is arranged very compactly and is all within easy reach of the operator. The forward and reverse speeds are controlled by the same lever as on a locomotive. The power transmission is by a double chain drive. The wheels are solid rubber tires and are of standard tread. The machine is fitted with auxiliary springs which are in use only when the machine is heavily loaded. There are three brakes, one on each rear wheel and one on the engine. It is so arranged that the three rear seats can be removed, thus allowing the machine to be used as a dray.

The cost of gasoline is reduced to a minimum, it taking but one gallon to run the machine 7½ miles.

The past few days Mr. House has had the machine out, giving it a thorough trial and Wednesday evening drove it to South Bend. It is built to carry 16 people and is very easy riding. One great advantage it has over most carryalls is that the passengers are seated facing the front. Many people cannot ride sideways and the machine was made this way at Mr. House's suggestion.

This machine has been under construction at the plant of the Michigan Motor & Machine company for the past two months. The success of its working is largely due to W. F. Koeller, who has given his personal attention to every detail of its construction. The company has several prospective customers for machines similar to this one.

Mr. House informed a Record representative that he will have a canopy top put on the machine and will have it painted up in fine style. Then he will be ready to put it in commission. He wants a name for the machine but is at a loss to know what it will be so he has arranged to give a cash prize of $2 to the one who will suggest the best name.

Good, pink, juicy rhubarb has been on the market for sometime now so I hope that you have added it to your menu. Just in case you haven't this is to serve as a reminder to order some right soon.

One of the easiest ways of preparing rhubarb and one that gives you its true flavor is to simply make it into a sauce. Cut the washed tender stalks of rhubarb into inch pieces, about 2 1/2 pounds, place in a sauce pan, add 1 cup of water and 3/4 cup sugar. Cover. Bring to boiling point and then simmer until tender. Try cooking half a lemon cut into three slices with the rhubarb for a tantalizing flavor effect. Served hot or cold with crisp cookies, this sauce makes an excellent dessert. The tart flavor of the sauce makes it well received in the morning for breakfast too.

There are many recipes for rhubarb pie all of which call for the usual two crust pie with the standard filling of 1 1/2 pounds rhubarb cut into pieces. (Never peel it unless you have happened to get some that is a bit old and tough) 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1-3 cup cornstarch and 1 egg, well beaten. The sugar and cornstarch are mixed together, then blended thoroughly with the egg. This mixture in turn is mixed with the rhubarb. This filling is put into a pastry-lined pan. The top crust is sealed over and perforations made in the top to let out the steam. Then it is baked at 425 degrees F. about 40 minutes. Baking fruit and berry pies at a high temperature for a shorter time has proven successful towards keeping that under crust from getting soaked, and in the shorter time the juices don't seem to get as good a start towards running over.

The plain rhubarb pie has long been a favorite of mine but the one pie that ranks higher is the rhubarb pie that has on it a fluffy meringue piled high and delicately browned. It tastes as good as it looks too.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie
Filling
3 cups rhubarb
1 cup sugar
3 egg yolks
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons flour.
Meringue Top
3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar.
Line a pie-pan with plain pastry. Wash and cut rhubarb in half inch pieces. Dredge rhubarb with flour until each piece is well coated. Mix the sugar, salt and beaten egg yolks; add to rhubarb. Blend well. Pour mixture into pastry-lined pan and bake in oven 425 degrees about 80 minutes or until mixture has thickened. When cool and set, cover with meringue made by beating egg white until stiff, gradually add the sugar, continuing to beat until fine grained and the mixture will hold its shape. Return to oven to brown meringue - 350 degrees for 8-10 minutes.

Trinity Mens Club To Feature Picture "Century of Baseball"

Produced in celebration of the game's centennial, "First Century of Baseball," the official American League sound film for 1939, will be exhibited in Niles at the Community House, South Fifth Street at Broadway, Monday, May 22, at 8:30 p. m.

Based upon the findings of the Mills commission, "First Century of Baseball" traces the course of the game from its rudimentary forms to the present highly developed type of play found in the major leagues.

The story proper starts with the creation of a set of rules by Abner Doubleday in 1839 for the then popular town ball, which established the fundamental principles of baseball as it is known today. Improvements suggested by Alexander J. Cartwright, such as limiting the game to nine innings and extending the distance between bases to the present 90 feet, as well as his part in the formation of the first baseball club in 1845, likewise are dealt with fully.

Development of the rule-beating curve ball by William Arthur Summings in 1837, limitation nine years later of the length of bats to the present 42 inches after they had grown to absurd proportions as a defense measure against this revolutionary pitching innovation, the appearance of the glove and mask some 40 years following the inauguration of the game, and Robert Addy's slide into second base in 1860, the first time such an astounding feat had been attempted, are a few of the other highlights of baseball history covered in the film.

Numerous comparisons between the new and the old are made to illustrate the more important points. Following the sequence suggesting the manner in which Cummings adapted to his own use the principle employed in making certain billiard shots, Johnny Allen, Ted Lyons, Emil Leonard, Monte Pearson, Spurgeon Chandler, Buck Newsom, Lefty Gomez and other ace hurlers, including Monte Stratton, who recently lost a leg as a result of a hunting accident, step to the mound to show the advances that have been made in pitching in the last 70 years.

Fielding, batting and base running are handled in similar fashion, with American League stars demonstrating modern practice in each department of play. Players who show their skill at bat include Joe Cronin, Jimmie Foxx, Cecil Travis, Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, Joe Gordon, Charley Gehringer, John Heath and Hank Greenberg; in the field and on the base paths, George McQuinn, Kenneth Kellner, Marvin Owen and Bill Werber.

Interwoven with the history of the game, also, are sequences depicting the various forms of amateur baseball through which an aspiring youngster with big league ambitions may rise, with case examples of each. Bob Feller is cited as one who came up from a high school league; Sam Chapman, the college diamond; Joe DiMaggio, the sandlots. In connection with the latter, the four schools now being operated under major league supervision are mentioned.

In addition, there are views of the Old Timers' game in Cleveland, featuring such stars of the past as Ed Walsh, Tris Speaker, and Cy Young, and the All-Star game at Cincinnati. Connie Mack and Clark Griffith likewise do a "bit." These two, who started their baseball careers more than half a century ago, discuss among other things the difference between spring training now and then, which leads naturally into a presentation of this phase of major league ball.

"His Honor, the Ump" also comes in for his share of glory with the dramatization of several problem plays that are sure to mislead the average spectator. The film is brought to a close with views of the 1938 World Series.

To obtain the highest professional standards in the matter of photography, make-up and costuming, the historical portions of "First Century of Baseball" were filmed in Hollywood, with Author Lew Fonseca, director of promotion for the American League, on hand to insure technical accuracy. Narration, save where the voices of the characters appearing on the screen have been recorded, is by Ted Husing.

H. S. Class Votes "Little Princess" Play of The Month

The film rendition of Frances Hodgson Burnett's "The Little Princess," which will be shown at the Hollywood theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 21, 22, 23, has been selected as the best of the month by the Buchanan high school senior English class under the direction of Mrs. Velma Dunbar.

The class selected Shirley Temple's latest (and according to some, her best) on the basis of excellent acting and technical effects. The film brings to life again a popular story of a generation ago by one of the most famous of juvenile authors.

One of the great classics of all time, Frances Hodgson Burnett's "The Little Princess" has been read and loved by millions from one end of the world to the other.

It was in recognition of this that Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief of 20th Century-Fox, selected it as the vehicle to introduce Shirley Temple in her first Technicolor production.

In it he saw the ideal story for Shirley's most preteens vehicle to date, a story that might be transformed into a picture adequate to the amazing talent of this nine-year-old wonder child. Beside fulfilling both these ambitions the completed film is reported to be one of the truly great pictures of all time.

One of the most famous authors of children's books that ever lived, Frances Hodgson Burnett enjoyed an extremely active literary life and during the course of her 75 years published 50 full-length novels and some 300 short stories. Among her greatest successes are "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "Dawn of a Tomorrow," "Esmeralda," and, of course, the immortal "The Little Princess."

Born in England, in 1849, Mrs. Burnett came to America at the age of 16 and settled, with her family, in a small city in Tennessee. Shortly after her arrival she submitted her first story for publication and the editors, incredulous that such brilliant writing could come from the pen of so young a girl, asked to see more of her work. She immediately sent them another story and the magazine bought both of them—for the meager sum of $35. Thus a great literary career was launched.

Incidentally, Mrs. Burnett was probably unique as an author, for she never received a rejection slip! "The Little Princess" was written when Frances Hodgson Burnett was at the height of her fame. It was an instantaneous success and, like "Little Lord Fauntleroy," its fame and popularity have never waned.
