North Buchanan

Corn Fine, Hay and Berries Short
 Rains in the past two weeks have put a different face on things in the North Buchanan farming district, although too late to make good hay or a full strawberry crop. The drought cut the berry crop everywhere and in some sections deteriorated the quality. Added to poor prices on account of deluges from Illinois and Indiana, the strawberry grower is not faring as well as he would like to.

However the rains and hot weather have speeded the corn until there is one of the best prospects at this date that there has been for years.

Adjust Oil Leases

An adjustment is reported to be in progress in the leases of the Buchanan Development company, the 25% royalty offered in the first forms being cut to 12 1/2%, and other lesser adjustments. Farmers interested state that they believe the promoters acted in good faith but that they were misled by an alleged "expert" who is no longer connected with the company. Reliable oil men later informed them that it would be impossible under present conditions to market oil under a 25% royalty guarantee to the land owner. This is not a matter of justice to the landowner or of the intention of the lessor, but is the result of general rules and practices imposed by large oil companies.

Harroff-Weaver Drain Begins

Taxpayers who will pay the assessments on the Harroff & Weaver drain met at the J. W. Harroff home to hear the assessments read Monday evening. The power shovel has been brought in from Jackson and is at work. The drain begins at Boyle Lake and ends at the Earl Beck farm.

Berry Pickers Pour In

Former share croppers and transient workers are reported to be coming in rapidly from all parts of the south and southwest for the berry picking season. One county road worker engaged in putting in a tube across US-12 after midnight this past week reported that at that hour he counted about 50 transient workers' cars, piled with their belongings and carrying auto licenses from New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana and other points south and west. The authorities who were wont to round them up and cart them out find it less easy when they come in their own individual cars instead of in groups in hired trucks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hartline had as their guests for the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sahin of Chicago. Sunday they enjoyed a picnic dinner at Island Park, Niles, other guests being Mr. and Mrs. Ned Shafer and family of the Bend of the River Mr. and

Mr. and Mrs. Paul DeWitt and family and W. B. Haslett attended the Ashbrook-Haslett reunion at Soldiers Memorial Park, Stone Lake, near LaPorte Sunday.

W. B. Haslett visited Monday afternoon with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Haslett of Chesterton, Ind.

Grade News

Mrs. Helm—Second Grade
The children are reading a book "Down the River Road." The story is about a fisherman Bill. It is very enjoyable this time of year.
We are glad to have Elton Orput back in school.
Miss Smith—Second Grade
We are working on a playground unit.
Miss Council—First Grade
George Sukan's name has been added to the Dental Honor Roll.
Miss Jettory—Sixth Grade
Our room wrote to get a copy of a good English play that Miss Jettory saw at the P. T. A. Convention. It was a fifth grade good English play.
Miss Jettory's pupils sent for a copy of "The Great Seal of the State of Michigan." It arrived and we were well pleased with it. We have studied the meaning of the seal.
We have received a few pen-pal letters and we enjoy reading them so much.
Miss Ekstrom—Fifth Grade
Last week pupils sold tags for the Sunnycrest Home, a home for orphan girls in St. Joseph. Sales amounted to $21.87. Children selling the most tickets were Buddy Swartz, Eugene Wesner, Alene Rauch, Kenneth Dunlap, and Donald Holmes. Perhaps the success of this project lay in the sales talk worked out by the children.
Sunny Boy, the boy actor who appeared with Al Jolson, talked on safety to the grade children in an assembly program Monday.
Miss Kinney—Third Grade
Each week we choose two captains for our baseball teams. This week Robert Jerue, and Jimmy Ott are captains. Last week we chose Nedra and Ruth. We keep track of the scores and the team which is head at the end of the week, is the winner. We enjoy playing ball very much.

The eyes of eighth graders have been examined by Mrs. Lamb for defects. This is part of a regular yearly program for the maintenance of health of the pupils.

Children in Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Too Much Emphasis on Money
A father learned to his regret that it is only when a boy has had to earn his own spending money that he will appreciate its value and develop dependable traits of character. Another father who went to the opposite extreme found that unless a boy is able to earn his own spending money, he is likely to steal it if not given an opportunity to acquire it honestly. The question of too much and not enough spending money has always confronted parents everywhere.

On the other hand, certain parents are spending the money they have set aside for their old age so that their daughters could be sent to fashionable schools to learn the prerequisites of how to meet and marry wealthy men. The error of this purpose is apparent when it is considered that there are not enough eligible young men with large bank accounts to go around. Parents would be performing a nobler service if they taught their daughters that a career as a wife and a mother is far more important than simply being married to a rich husband.

Who Wants to be Lazy with THIS one Around?

The model illustrated is the Buick SPECIAL model 41 four-door touring sedan $896 delivered at Flint, Mich.*

SUMMER'S COMING! Warm sun — deep shade — buzzing bees — long, lazy days inviting you to take it easy!

Gonna fall for that? Well, maybe—if that car in your driveway is just a run-of-mine job. But suppose it's a Buick—then what?

Then, good sir, you're in for an active summer. A summer of going places, seeing sights—and having some honest-to-goodness fun!

You'll boss around a brilliant Dynaflesh straight-eight engine as thrilling to handle as a flyrod—you'll be as comfortable as in your favorite hammock, in seats that are fashioned to fit your frame.

You'll go exploring over the little-traveled back trails—and soft springs of coiled steel will cradle every jolt and jar. You'll look out to the far horizons through windows wider, and bigger—there's as much as 412 square inches more space to make your outlook easier.

Yes, you'll pilot a carriage that's staunch and snug and firm beneath you—yet every nudge of your treadle foot gives instant-quick action that'll bring a grin of deep delight.

You'll find a lot of things to be happy about. But principally that you'll want to travel, want to do things, want to get out and about instead of just loafing.

So you'll find this a summer to remember,

$894 AND UP delivered at Flint, Mich. *State and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

if you've got a Buick. You'll remember it as the summer you had a swell time and drove a smart deal.

For this far-ranging beauty is not only the car of the year for performance, but the value of the year for smart buyers. It's priced lower than a year ago—lower than you'd think to see it—lower even than some sixes!

And when you check all of the standard items that you're asked extra for elsewhere, you find that Buick costs less in the end even than some cars with lower advertised prices!

Tales of an Old Town

(Continued from Page One) Bend, was the Goddess of Liberty. The story written by Homer Hathaway for the Record follows: In 1864 Lincoln ran for president again and I was living in Buchanan on the lot now owned by T. Tourge on the corner of Oak and Third street. I will relate how during that campaign the city of Niles and the village of Buchanan joined forces and worked together. Senator Howard of Michigan was to speak in South Bend about Oct. 20, and Berrien county was to furnish a large delegation, the larger the better. The Niles delegation was to cross the river at Niles, come west to the Gitchell school house then south to the Dutch grocery, then on to the corners east of Amos House's place, where they would meet the Buchanan delegation. To do our part Buchanan appointed two committees to make the arrangements for Buchanan. I remember the name of the committee named to get together a delegation of young ladies to represent each state and provide conveyance for them, also to look after them from start to finish. They were Harvey Roe, James Wood and Homer Hathaway. The committee met and divided the work thus. Mr. Roe and Mr.

Wood were to find the ladies and make all arrangements for them except the conveyance, which I was to find. I was to find the conveyance and see that they arrived safely with all of the comfort of a farm wagon without springs, to which I agreed. I told them I wanted to make a box large enough to carry all of the ladies in one wagon. To this Mr. Roe objected and Mr. Wood suggested that the girls should decide which they would rather do. We arranged that they draw the names of the states from a hat so that they would know what state each was to represent, as the southern states were to be represented by ladies dressed in deep mourning. The next meeting occurred the second night and the ladies were all there. They drew their states and then voted to go in one conveyance. While they were making these arrangements I found dry boards, 14 inches wide and 22 feet long at Charles Roe's sawmill two miles north of town. I drove down there the next morning before breakfast so as to have those boards come on the first load from the mill. When they got here I had James Sherwood and another man ready to work on the box to get it done in time. The other committees had got out and gotten delegations to meet in Buchanan from the Bend of the River, Oronoko, Warsaw, and one from Three Oaks. A delegation from Gallen was to come up the Buffalo road and meet us at the Howe school house, one and one half miles south of Buchanan. The day came and was very pleasant for our purpose. The front wagon carried the Buchanan Military Band and a very large Lincoln flag. It was drawn by four horses driven by James Scott of the firm of Scott & Collins, then in the hardware business in Buchanan. Then followed the ladies, 37 in number, with Miss Raymond, later Mrs. James Wood, as the Goddess of Liberty. William and Homer Hathaway were in charge of the six horses drawing it, James Wood, Harvey Roe and James Sherwood were escorts for the ladies. Our marshal of the day was Deputy Sheriff Than Hamilton of Buchanan. We passed the Gallen and Three Oaks delegations just in time and when their last wagon left the schoolhouse the front team was two miles away. Other teams fell in so that we exceeded the Niles delegation in length when we got to the meeting place. Niles had been waiting about twenty minutes. They had a brass band too, and they took the lead with our two head wagons next, and so they all got together without stopping. We got to South Bend all right with the front end of our procession, but as it was nearly an hour after we got into the city that our band on the front end of the delegation passed the court house, many who were behind turned around or never went into the town. It clouded up before the front teams got to the court house and the wind came cold from the north. We turned east at the first corner south of the court house and went to Michigan street, then north to Washington street and west to the St. Joseph hotel, which stood on the same ground now occupied by the large fireproof hotel. We were very chummy and glad to find a comfortable place to warm and we had it, for our load was the banner load in South Bend that day. We were made welcome at the hotel and had a fine supper. The city was crowded to overflowing and the weather stayed cloudy and cold until sundown. The ladies stayed at the hotel and in the evening were shown up onto the roof to see the Wideawake March around the city, so that each company could pass the grand stand at the court house two abreast. We waited at the hotel and did not start home until 9:15 p. m. It was much pleasanter after sundown as the wind stopped blowing. Our band had stopped and put up their horses with ours and also the marshal, so that we were all together when we started for home. When we came to the church four miles, this side of So. Bend, the band wagon stopped and asked us to turn west and travel on the road to the center of the prairie, as that was the way he was going. William and I thought we had better come the same way we went as we had taken notice how the hills on the way were washed in ruts and we had planned just how and where to lock our hind wheels and come down in the ruts. It was settled by a vote of the company. I think Jim Wood proposed it and Marshall Hamilton put the question and declared the vote in favor of the way we had come. At that Mr. Scott cracked his whip for the prairie road saying to the marshal: "Come on, this is the best way." "No," said the marshal, "I will stay with the largest crowd." So he came on with us. When we got to the foot of the hill where he had met the Niles delegation, Marshall Hamilton said: "I will ride ahead and see that they do not come in ahead of us and leave us." Meaning the band wagon. Their load was so light for the team they could trot most of the time. When he rode ahead of us at a canter, our horses broke into a trot and trotted a number of rods until they came to where it was too much up hill, where they held to a fast walk. We met the marshal at the top of the hill and he said, "I have not heard anything of them. I guess they have gone to sleep." Then some one in the load said: "No, I hear them." But we all listened and could hear nothing. The marshal said: "I will ride ahead again to keep you from running together, for if Scott hears us coming he will run his team their best to come in ahead," and away he went. It was down hill, so I said: "Ladies, we will let our horses trot if it does not jar you too much." The answer was: "Go on and come in ahead of them if you can." Just then the marshal came back and said: "They have woke up and heard you and are playing the whip just as I thought but you can come in ahead at this trot." Away he went at a gallop. Our horses heard the other wagon rattle and broke into a gallop, so we passed at the four corners where Amos House's brick residence now stands on Portage Prairie, the other team came in about two rods behind us. The ladies were calling "Don't let them run by us," so William Hathaway cracked our whip for the first time and I slacked the lines. There was a fair race, only we had the beaten track and they the rough side, but they could not come in ahead before we came to the hollow. Then that was not filled enough for two teams to run side by side and they had to take the lower track. They could not stop until they were in the mud at the bottom of the hollow. We stopped at the top of the rise beyond the hollow and let them in ahead. We came on home without any further amusement and got in about 12 o'clock. A week or ten days later Senator Howard Spoke at Kalamazoo and Marshall Hamilton was invited to bring his delegation, horses, wagons and all, by rail to Kalamazoo, which place would pay all expenses, so we could be in their parade. But some of the ladies could not go, so that did not happen. (To be continued) company, were among the speed devils who used to burn up the brick on Days avenue. Boyce became interested in the garage business through James Clark, who then had a real estate office here. Boyce and Clark had been in the horse business together as lads and young men. The former was working as a carpenter on a church at Sawyer when Clark came over from Buchanan bubbling with enthusiasm over the prospects for a garage there. Boyce came to Buchanan, took the situation over, then went to Chicago and secured employment for three months in an automobile repair shop. He then returned and opened a garage in the old Beehive building on Days avenue in 1912. In 1913 he installed the first curb gasoline pump in Buchanan, with a regular old fashioned pump with an up-and-down handle on it and a five gallon can hanging on the spout. The gasoline was so impure then that it had to be poured into the auto tank through a chamouis skin. In 1913 Boyce took the agency for selling Ford cars. There were still not very many cars in town. Dr. Curtis and H. R. Adams had Fords; H. F. Kingery and Dr.

Garian had Model 10 Buicks; Frank Whitman, Herb Roe and George Richards had Perrys. Charles Diggins was driving a 2-cylinder Buick of an older make and James Clark drove a Model F Buick with the name "May Graham" pointed on the side, after the old St. Joe River steamer from Niles to St. Joseph. During 1914, the first complete year, he sold about 15 Fords. Cars were then kept for several years as a matter of course; the new model idea as still years away. Practically all sales were to new customers and were practically all for cash. Either the buyer had the money or his note was good at the bank. Quite a number of the new customers were farmers, for farming was prosperous during the early teens of the present century, when prices were high on account of the war overseas and the entrance of the United States into the war had not boosted the prices on farm materials and labor. Although it was on its last legs without knowing it, the livery business was traveling in high then. Curley Uplinger had a flourishing livery business next door north in the building now occupied by Richard Fuller's garage. The McCormick stable was flourishing a few doors south on the opposite side of the street. Elmer Remington had a force of horse shoers at work in the old frame building now used by the Co-Ops for storage. Cars were still considered a rich man's luxury rather than transportation for the generality. In 1914 a Ford sold for about $475 cash; in 1917 for $395. In 1917 a six-cylinder Buick sold for $1400-$1500. When Boyce started selling Fords, the only styles were open touring cars and roadsters. In 1916 the enclosed coupes and sedans came out. The dealers were sure that they could not be sold but each dealer was forced to take a coupe and a sedan in stock. Consequently most of them took the bodies off and sold the chassis for trucks. Roads were universally bad for car travel, there being no pavements except in limited areas in cities. Between Buchanan and surrounding towns there were only dirt roads, usually impassable in winter. It was customary to lay by cars from early winter until late spring or summer. Consequently Boyce did a good business in car storage during the first winters. The cars were jacked up, tires taken off, the rims scraped and painted, and the bodies covered with paper. The charge was $3 per month. Later the owners began to take their cars out in good weather and the charge was $2 per month for dead storage and $3 or more for live storage. In 1915 he built the front part of the brick structure on Days avenue now owned by the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company and used as headquarters building. On the south side of the structure there was a runway for hoisting cars to the second floor for storage. In 1917 Boyce lost the Ford agency to Mr. Friday of Niles and the same year he secured the Buick agency, which he continued for several years. In the early twenties the car business was complicated by the initiation and spread of the present system of financing and the installment payment plan. One of the pioneers in auto financing was a young South Bend lawyer by the name of E. M. Morris, who spent some time trying to sell his idea to people with money to invest in Buchanan and elsewhere, talking for the most part to deaf ears. Finally the idea clicked and the fortunes of Morris grew with the increasing sale of cars. (To be continued)

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Isaiah 41:10): "Fear thou not; for I am with thee; be not dismayed; for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 98): "Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this, and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed upon man."

Around About Buchanan

Makes Antique Find in Old House A room partition made of two thickness of walnut boards an inch thick and sixteen inches wide was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wallace and family while they were making a new door to connect two rooms and were cleaning the wall to repaper their home at 403 North Portage. In stripping the paper they found a number of thickness of all paper, imposed one after another for a long period. After tearing all of these off they finally came down to the walnut boards with issues of old newspapers of the sixties pasted on them. One of the papers thus pasted on was an issue of the Berrien County Record of 1868. One of the articles still partly readable was an advertisement by the Bird transfer company for a stage coach service from Buchanan to Niles, Dowagiac, Berrien Springs, Three Oaks and return to Buchanan. The house was for many years the property and residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Bunker. It is not known to the writer how old it is or who originally built it, but the fact that it is quite old is proven by the wooden pins fastening the frame timbers together. The floor is of wide whitewood or tulipwood.

H. S. Approved by North Central

(Continued from Page One) and Arizona and New Mexico in the Southwest to Ohio, Indiana, and West Virginia in the East. It is the aim of the Association to bring about a better acquaintance, a keener sympathy and a heartier cooperation between colleges and secondary schools; second, to consider common educational problems and devise the best ways and means of solving them; and third, to promote the physical, intellectual, and moral well-being of students by urging proper sanitary conditions of school buildings, adequate library and laboratory facilities, and higher standards of scholarship. All decisions of the Association bearing on the policies and management of secondary schools and institutions of higher education are understood to be advisory in their character. The approval of schools by this Association is a cooperative undertaking and membership is purely voluntary. No school is approved unless there is the expressed desire of the local authorities of a high school for such approval. Certain advantages result from such approval. In brief, they are: 1. Graduates of any approved high school are privileged to enter institutions of higher learning within the North Central states without entrance examinations, provided they have credits in the high school subjects required by the college or university to which admission is sought. Since other approving agencies recognize North Central schools, this privilege of entering institutions of higher education without examination is extended practically throughout the United States. (There are some institutions of higher learning who do not admit graduates of North Central high schools if the rankings of these graduates are in the lowest one-fourth of the graduating class.) 2. The graduates of approved high schools have the assurance that their high school diplomas will be acceptable to State Boards having to do with the granting of certificates for the various professions of medicine, dentistry, law, etc. In states requiring graduation from approved high schools as a prerequisite to the obtaining of a teaching certificate, the graduates of schools approved by the North Central Association meet the requirements of such a law. 3. A high school approved by the North Central Association must maintain high standards and consequently the community is assured of a program of modern high school education. 4. The visitation of the school at regular intervals by supervisors serves to stimulate progress and to prevent the development of questionable practices and tendencies. 5. A high school approved by the North Central Association enjoys a greater prestige in the surrounding country and therefore finds it easier to attract non-resident students. 6. The patrons have more confidence in and are generally more willing to support an approved high school.

Although the Buchanan Library works under the handicap of unsatisfactory location and of facilities that are still very far from adequate, the percentage of users has already been built to a point considerably above the average for community libraries, according to Miss Constance Bement, state library specialist.

The library now has 2,300 borrowers' cards filed or better than 50% of the population of the community. The attainment of this figure in less than two years after reorganization represents a very satisfactory showing. Much of the credit goes to Alice Ludwig, librarian, for excellent propaganda and alert attention to popularizing the institution.
